Welding of magnesium and its alloys, Autogenous. G. Michel. 1,749,712; Mar. 4.
Welding system, Arc. B. B. Brickey and A. S. Kalemboro. 1,749,128; Mar. 4.
Well-flowing device, Automatic. A. Boynton. 1,749,124; Mar. 4.
Wheel-aligning gauge. L. G. Taylor. 1,749,268; Mar. 4.
Wheel construction, Cushioned-. A. Wichert. 1,749,554; Mar. 4.
Wheel structure. H. P. Nielsen. 1,749,502; Mar. 4.
Winding machines, Traversing means for. F. A. Reece. 1,749,355; Mar. 4.
Window. J. H. Fennessy. 1,749,666; Mar. 4.
Window, Metal. A. M. Lane. 1,748,986; Mar. 4.
Window ventilator. F. M. Andres. 1,749,093; Mar. 4.
Window, Vertically-slidable inwardly-swinging. J. G. Kramer. 1,749,589; Mar. 4.
Windshield cleaner. E. A. Turner. 1,749,049; Mar. 4.
Windshield-cleaner mounting. J. R. Oishei. 1,749,441; Mar. 4.
Wood-fiber tissue and preparing same, Mercerised. M. O. Schur and R. H. Rasch. 1,749,003; Mar. 4.
Wool and the wool thus treated, Treating. C. A. Brown and G. J. Esselen, jr. 1,749,410; Mar. 4.
Wrapping machine, Brick-. J. J. Schloesser. 1,749,548; Mar. 4.
Wrench. J. J. Schneider and B. Nester. 1,749,002; Mar. 4.
Zinciferous materials containing lead, Reducing. E. H. Bunce and G. T. Mahler. 1,749,127; Mar. 4.
Zinciferous materials, Reducing. E. H. Bunce and G. T. Mahler. 1,749,126; Mar. 4.

FOR WHICH

PATENTS WERE ISSUED ON THE 18TH DAY OF MARCH, 1930

NOTE.—Arranged in accordance with the first significant character or word of the name (in accordance with city and telephone directory practice). Includes patents, reissues, and designs.

Accounting device. J. Grant. 1,751,082; Mar. 18.

Acoustic treatment. M. C. Rosenblatt. 1,751,249; Mar. 18.

Advertising device. H. R. Flood. 1,751,197; Mar. 18.

Air cleaner, Fluid. J. L. Green. 1,751,324; Mar. 18.

Air-conditioning apparatus. A. T. Lewis, H. P. Gant, and R. R. Taliaferro. 1,751,043; Mar. 18.

Aircraft. J. Tantillo. 1,750,011; Mar. 18.

Aircraft. Wing construction for. E. B. Carns. 1,750,832; Mar. 18.

Air-line hull and trash extractor. J. E. Mitchell. 1,750,852; Mar. 18.

Air-straining device. C. C. Farmer. 1,750,632; Mar. 18.

Alcohol. Producing anhydrous. O. Leonori. 1,751,211; Mar. 18.

Alkali from natural brine, Production of. R. Cummings. 1,751,432; Mar. 18.

Alloy. P. Berthélemy and H. De Monthy. 1,750,700; Mar. 18.

Alloy, Aluminum. A. Geyer. 1,750,751; Mar. 18.

Alloy and cutting tool made therefrom. B. E. Field. 1,750,796; Mar. 18.

Alloy and making same. Hard-metal. K. Schröter. Re17,624; Mar. 18.

Alloy block for soldering. F. W. Koch. 1,750,671; Mar. 18.

Amalgamator. J. J. Tinker. 1,750,868; Mar. 18.

Ammonia, Synthetic production of. R. S. Richardson. 1,750,649; Mar. 18.

Amphibole of the asbestos variety, Treating. C. E. Miller. 1,750,725; Mar. 18.

Amusement tower. I. D. Patterson. 1,750,857; Mar. 18.

Anchor-inserting machine. W. Koning. 1,751,410; Mar. 18.

Anchorage means. C. Hopper and W. L. Arnold. 1,750,841; Mar. 18.

Andiron. H. J. Gross. Des. 80,724; Mar. 18.

Antifriction wheel. F. Beemer. 1,751,453; Mar. 18.

Apparel, Ornamented article of wearing. A. A. Glidden. 1,750,799; Mar. 18.

Auto case clamp. P. J. Huber. 1,750,669; Mar. 18.

Automatic switch. H. F. Obergfell. 1,750,902; Mar. 18.

Automobile body. H. O. de H. Segrave. Des. 80,745; Mar. 18.

Automobile jack. R. H. Dart. 1,750,603; Mar. 18.

Automobile screen. M. L. Gray and E. Ford. 1,751,200; Mar. 18.

Axle, Drive. A. I. Marcum. 1,750,899; Mar. 18.

Bag. L. G. Bigelow. 1,751,229; Mar. 18.

Bag machine. H. B. Landau. 1,751,091; Mar. 18.

Bait, Artificial. U. C. Pemberton. 1,750,783; Mar. 18.

Baking apparatus. W. Ehrhart. 1,751,312; Mar. 18.

Baking pan. L. H. Debs. 1,751,268; Mar. 18.

Ball: See—
Packaged playing ball.

Ball, Golf. W. J. Perry. Des. 80,740; Mar. 18.

Bar: See—
Fire bar.

Adjudicated Patents

(D. C. N. Y.) Ornstein patent No. 1,142,361, for process of antisepticizing water, claims 4, 5, 6, 8, and 10 Held valid and infringed. Wallace & Tiernan Co. v. City of Syracuse, 36 F. (2d) 497.

(C. C. A. Ohio.) Torchio patent No. 1,172,322, for protective device for electric cable joints, claims 3 and 4 Held valid and infringed. Metropolitan Device Corporation v. Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co., 36 F. (2d) 477.

Adverse Decisions in Interference

In interferences involving the indicated claims of the following patents final decisions have been rendered that the respective patentees were not the first inventors with respect to the claims listed:

Pat. 1,523,927, J. D. Beebe, Process and apparatus for making spiral tubing by electric welding, decided February 14, 1930, claim 1.

Pat. 1,550,769, S. B. Williams, Telephone-exchange system, decided January 24, 1930, claims 1, 2, 3, 5, 9, 11, 13, and 14.

Pat. 1,661,309, C. W. Saxe, Refractory muffle, decided February 12, 1930, claim 2.

Pat. 1,687,828, H. Chireix, Wireless telephone tube sending station, decided January 14, 1930, claims 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 9, and 10.

Final decision in interference has been rendered against the following trade-mark:

T. M. 226,574, Lubricating oils and greases, Northwestern Petroleum Corporation, Appleton, Wis. Registered April 12, 1927. Decided January 18, 1930.

Trade-Mark Renewal Certificate Canceled

71,420. Hosiery. A. B. Andrews Company, New York, N. Y. Renewal certificate to Richmond Hosiery Mills, Rossville, Ga., issued June 26, 1928. Canceled February 18, 1930.

Condition of Applications Under Examination at Close of Business February 21, 1930

(Total number of applications awaiting action, excluding Trade-Mark Division, 116,774; Trade-Mark Division, 1,425. Oldest new case, Apr. 22, 1929; oldest amended, Apr. 22, 1929. The dates given are 1929 except where † indicates 1930.)

U. S. Court of Customs and Patent Appeals

THOMPSON v. CHAPMAN. CHAPMAN v. THOMPSON

Nos. 2,144 and 2,145. Decided December 30, 1929

INTERFERENCE—PRIORITY.

The record reviewed and Held to establish that priority was properly awarded to T. as to counts 1, 3, and 4, and to C. as to counts 2, 5, and 6.*

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. A. E. Dowell for Thompson.

Mr. A. L. Morsell for Chapman.

BLAND, J.:

The appeal and cross appeal herein arise from interference proceedings in the Patent Office, which involved six counts relating to a continuous cooker of the type wherein cans containing vegetables, milk, etc., are moved in a continuous stream from one end of a single unit or tank to another, being passed through a heated body of water, the particular invention involved relating to the division of the apparatus into a plurality of heating zones, the complete cooking of the contents of the cans being performed in the single units or tank referred to.

Both in the patent of Chapman and the reissue application of Thompson involved in the interference, the cans are caused to be moved along a spirally-trending member surrounding a drum carrier, and this drum carrier is subdivided by partitions into a series of heating zones. The six counts involved are as follows:

[Only counts 1 and 2 are here printed.]

1. A continuous cooker, comprising a horizontally extending tank having inlet and outlet openings and zones of various degrees of heat, a single spirally trending member extending through said heat zones, and a single rotary carrier extending through the spirally trending member and coacting therewith for moving cans and having means forming part of and moving with the carrier for preserving the heat zones.

2. A continuous cooker, comprising a tank member having an inlet and an outlet opening and a plurality of compartments for maintaining heat at various temperatures in each compartment, and a rotary carrier within the tank and extending through the compartments for moving cans from one end of the tank to the other and extracting heat from said compartments and aiding in preserving the differences in temperatures in said compartments, said rotary carrier having partitions forming part of and moving with the carrier which coincide with the tank partitions to maintain predetermined degrees of heat in each compartment.

The tribunals below awarded priority to Thompson as to counts 1, 3, and 4, and to Chapman as to counts 2, 5, and 6.

The issues herein, for the most part, involve the question as to whether or not Thompson's application in 1921 disclosed tank partitions. It is urged by Thompson that said application did disclose said partitions in the tank, although no definite claim was made therefor. Both tribunals below concur in the view that said application did not disclose such partitions, and having found the evidence insufficient to prove a conception and reduction to practice earlier than Chapman's conceded dates, priority was, as to counts 2, 5, and 6 (which involved the partitions) awarded to Chapman. Counts, 1, 3, and 4 were regarded as not claiming for partitions, and priority as to them was awarded to Thompson.

The Examiner of Interferences, in considering and construing the evidence on behalf of Thompson, which was offered for the purpose of establishing a conception date of the subject matter of counts 2, 5, and 6 earlier than the conceded record date of conception and reduction to practice of Chapman, stated in substance that even if the evidence could be said to establish such conception on the part of Thompson, Chapman should prevail as to counts 2, 5, and 6 for the reason that he had not been diligent, since admittedly he did not actually reduce to practice before June, 1923.

There was much testimony taken by both sides which was carefully considered by the Examiner of Interferences and by the Examiners in Chief. Both tribunals regarded the testimony on the part of Thompson as not fixing a date which would justify his claim for priority on counts 2, 5, and 6, and that none of the testimony or other record facts in the case warranted giving priority of the subject matter covered by counts 1, 3, and 4 to Chapman. So, as we view it, the tribunals below have decided the case upon the record facts aside from any testimony.

We have examined the evidence with considerable care and we can not arrive at any other conclusion than that arrived at by the tribunals below. An examination of the Thompson disclosure, which is his application of 1921, convinces us that no partitions of the kind claimed in counts 2, 5, and 6 were therein disclosed. We conclude, therefore, that the decision of the Board of Appeals, awarding priority of invention to Thompson as to counts 1, 3, and 4, and to Chapman as to counts 2, 5, and 6, was not against the weight of the evidence and was not clearly erroneous and, therefore, is affirmed.

COPE v. FAHRENWALD

No. 2,165. Decided December 19, 1929

INTERFERENCE—PRIORITY—EMPLOYER AND EMPLOYEE.

Evidence reviewed and Held to establish that the relation of employer and employee did not exist between C. and F., that the invention in issue was devised by F., and that priority was properly awarded to him.

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. Harry Frease for Cope.

Mr. Harold E. Smith and Mr. Hervey S. Knight for Fahrenwald.

HATFIELD, J:

This is an appeal, in an interference proceeding, from the decision of the Commissioner of Patents awarding priority of invention to appellee.

The invention relates to resistor grids for electric furnaces.

Several counts were involved in the original interference. The issue presented here, however, is limited to count 2, which reads as follows:

2. A grid formed of a bar of substantially T-shaped, cross sectional shape bent upon itself to provide a plurality of vertical parallel portions connected at alternate ends by curved portions.

The applications of the parties were filed as follows: Cope, September 17, 1923; Fahrenwald, May 19, 1924.

As Fahrenwald was the junior party, he had the burden of proof.

The Examiner of Interferences, the Examiners in Chief, and the Assistant Commissioner of Patents have concurred in awarding priority of invention to appellee. In view of the fact that the evidence has been given extended consideration in the opinions of these tribunals, we will confine this discussion to such matters as are necessary to a determination of the precise issues before us.

It appears from the record that appellant was chief engineer and vice president of The Electric Furnace Company, manufacturers of electric furnaces, at Salem, Ohio.

It further appears that appellee, a metallurgist, had developed a heat resisting alloy metal which would resist high temperatures, and, in association with The Electro-Alloys Company of Elyria, Ohio, was engaged in the production and sale of heat resisting alloy castings for various purposes, including those for use in "the electric resistance heating field"; and that, some time in the spring of 1920, appellee had designed and made an experimental cast resistor grid from his alloy metal, but, as it did not "exhibit a T-shaped cross section," does not support the claim in issue. This experimental grid was not satisfactory for two reasons, namely: first, it was too small for commercial purposes; second, it "showed very undesirable casting characteristics in that, with the approximately rectangular cross section employed, it was extremely difficult to make castings free from an excessive amount or number of shrinkage cracks or porosity." (Italics ours.)

There is some evidence tending to prove that later in that year—1920—appellee had cast a T-shaped resistor grid from his new heat resisting alloy metal; and that, in response to a letter from Cope under date of January 17, 1921, addressed to The Electro-Alloys Company, this T-shaped grid was shown to Cope in March of that year. However, as the case may be disposed of without passing upon this issue, we do not consider it.

On June 29, 1922, Fahrenwald wrote the following letter to appellant:

> Dear Mr. Cope:
>
> Arrangements are being completed for production of heat-resisting alloy castings thru the Ohio Steel Foundry Company, and as I shall only exclude from my contracts with them existing agreements, I write to ask whether you still propose working out the cast resistor end of this field. If you do not, I shall include this with the general castings business, but if you do, I think it probable on account of pending activities with the larger castings business that I shall have more time to devote to this now than later.
>
> * * * (Italics ours.)

Appellant replied as follows:

> Dear Mr. Fahrenwald:
>
> Replying to your inquiry of June 29th relative to cast resistor material, we wish to advise that we desire to work out the manufacture and use of this material at as early a date as possible.
>
> We are starting to reline the small furnace of which we told you and expect to have this in shape for operation the fore part of next week, at which time we would be glad to have you come down to our plant and see what can be done. We shall advise you about two days in advance of the time when we can have the furnace heated.
>
> If it should develop that we can handle the manufacture of this material successfully we would like also at this time to have your specific proposition as to retainer, license and other fees.

Appellee replied, advising appellant as to the raw materials to have on hand and that the matter of retainer and license fees would be discussed when he visited appellant's factory.

Following this preliminary correspondence between the parties, appellee visited The Electric Furnace Company's plant in July, 1922. Appellant had made a channel-shape pattern grid, which he had hoped could be cast from appellee's heat resisting alloy metal on the occasion of appellee's visit. It appears conclusively from the record that considerable discussion was had at that time between appellant, appellee, and others regarding the melting of appellee's heat resisting alloy metal; that appellee explained the difficulties incident to casting a channel-shaped resistor grid, and, at this time, suggested to appellant the advisability of casting the resistor grid in the T-form defined in the count in the interference. This seems to be conceded. We quote from appellant's brief:

> And, it being admitted by Cope that Fahrenwald suggested the T-shape of his enameling bar for use in a resistor grid after Cope had devised a channel section for the grid, it is only necessary to consider the facts which are conceded or established, as far as they have a bearing on the questions of law relied upon; * * *

In his decision the Examiner of Interferences, among other things, said:

> Fahrenwald prior to Cope's earliest work in the field of bar resistor grids had made resistor grids of the type of Exhibit 1 which answered every part of count 2 except the specification of the T shaped cross section. It is true the suggestion came at a conference based on grid forms proposed by Cope with Fahrenwald present merely as an expert in casting, particularly in casting his own alloys. Nevertheless he was under no such fiduciary relation to Cope as would cause to inure to Cope's benefit under the employer-employee doctrine any invention which was ancillary to Cope's invention if it were also ancillary to his own. The evidence is clearly to the effect that grids of the type of Exhibit 1 are difficult to cast out of high temperature allows [alloys] and that bars of T section are simpler to cast. The T form is therefore as much an improvement on grids like Exhibit 1 invented by Fahrenwald as it is of a grid of channel form such as was made by Cope prior to July, 1922, and suggested to Fahrenwald by him at that time. Count 2 will therefore be adjudged to Fahrenwald.

This finding was affirmed by the Examiners in Chief and, in turn, by the Assistant Commissioner.

It is contended by counsel for appellant that Fahrenwald's suggestion of the T-shaped grid was merely that of a metallurgic foundry expert, whose advice was sought and obtained by appellant for the sole purpose of aiding him in casting resistor grids from the heat resisting alloy metal of appellee; that, while the "T form" was a valuable addition, it was ancillary and subordinate to appellant's generic invention—the channel-shaped grid; and that, as appellee was present for the sole purpose of aiding and advising appellant in the use of the heat resisting alloy metal, any valuable additions to appellant's generic invention, suggested by appellee, would inure to appellant's benefit under the so-called employer-employee doctrine; and that, therefore, the tribunals of the Patent Office erred in awarding priority of invention to appellee. Several cases have been cited by counsel for appellant in support of his contention.

If the parties occupied the relation of employer and employee and, if Fahrenwald was present for the purpose of putting Cope's invention into practical form, any valuable additions, not in themselves amounting to invention, would inure to the benefit of Cope. Larson v. Crowther, 329 O. G. 539; 55 App. D. C. 58, 1 Fed. (2nd) 761. In our opinion, however, these principles of law are not applicable to the facts in this case.

We think it apparent from the correspondence between the parties and from the testimony as to what occurred at appellant's plant in July, 1922, that appellee was not employed in any capacity by appellant; and that, as stated by the tribunals below, the T-shaped form of grid, suggested by appellee, was as much an improvement over the original resistor grid perfected by appellee, as it was over the channel-shaped grid perfected by appellant. This view of the facts seems to be confirmed, to some extent at least, by a written license agreement entered into by The Electric Furnace Company (of which company appellant was then vice president) with appellee under date of September 1, 1922, in which it was agreed that, in consideration of certain sums, as "royalties," to be paid to appellee, appellant's company should have the exclusive right to the manufacture, use, and sale of appellee's "metallic resistors heating elements," regardless of their composition. The parties thereto operated under this agreement for a considerable length of time. It would seem strange indeed for appellant's company to agree to pay royalties for the use of appellee's metallic resistors, whether or not made of appellee's heat resisting alloy metal, if the T-shaped grid was the valuable one and appellant believed that he was the original inventor thereof.

We are satisfied that the decision below is in harmony with both the law and the facts. It is, therefore, affirmed.

IN RE STEVENS

No. 2,193. Decided December 19, 1929

PATENTABILITY—TOOL-RETAINING COUPLING FOR PERCUSSIVE MACHINES.

A tool-retaining coupling for percussive machines including a cushion member surrounding the tool shank and split leather washers at both ends of the cushion Held unpatentable over the prior art since it was well known that a washer would act as a buffer and that "the commonplace pliable leather washers are more appropriate for some purposes than those composed of metal."

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. Ira L. Nickerson for Stevens.

Mr. T. A. Hostetler for the Commissioner of Patents.

HATFIELD, J.:

This is an appeal from a decision of the Board of Appeals affirming the decision of the Examiner rejecting claims 1, 2, 13, 14, and 15 in appellant's application for an alleged invention relating to a tool-retaining coupling for percussive machines.

Claim 15 is illustrative. It reads:

> 15. A tool retaining coupling for percussive machines comprising a cylindrical member adapted to be secured to the percussive machine and to receive the shank of a working tool provided with a collar, an abutment for the tool collar within said cylindrical member, a cylindrical cushion member arranged to surround the tool shank between its collar and said abutment, and split leather washers at both ends of said cushion member arranged closely to fit the tool shank and to fill the intervening space between the tool shank and said cylindrical member thereby to prevent undue wear and fraying of said cushion member.

The claims in question were rejected by the tribunals of the Patent Office on the following references: Jimerson, 1,481,641, January 22, 1924; Bates, 364,081, May 31, 1887.

Appellant's application discloses a "coupling sleeve" adapted to be secured, by means of screw threads, to a percussive machine. The "coupling sleeve" has an opening at its outer end of sufficient size to receive the collar on the shank of a working tool, such as a "clay digger spade." Inwardly of the opening in the "coupling sleeve," and surrounding the tool shank, is a split abutment member. A cylindrical rubber cushion is interposed between the collar on the shank of the working tool and the abutment. A split leather washer is placed at each end of the rubber cushion to prevent it from becoming frayed.

The patent to Jimerson shows a tool with a collar, coupling sleeve, rubber cushion or buffer, and split metallic members at each end of the rubber cushion. We quote therefrom:

> * * * The rubber buffer is located within the barrel nut forming the front head of the tie tamper and a split metallic buffer washer is preferably arranged between the buffer and the outer end of the barrel nut over the opening in the end of the barrel nut through which the collared shank of the tamper steel passes in assembling the parts, so that said washer closes the opening, protects the buffer and prevents the buffer from squeesing through the hole in said end.
>
>
> A flanged split bushing F loosely surrounds the shank of the steel forwardly of the collar C and extends into the front end of the cylinder A. The two parts of the split bushing F are formed with a flange G in this instance bearing against the outer end of the cylinder. Sufficient space is maintained between the opposed ends of the sleeve and split bushing to permit limited movement of the collar and steel in said space.
>
> The outer end O of the barrel nut is provided with an aperture P of sufficient alse to permit the entrance of the collar C of the steel and the buffer washer J between the buffer H and the end O of the barrel nut closes this opening when the parts are assembled, protects the buffer, prevents the buffer from becoming distorted and damaged by shock and pressure which would otherwise tend to force the material of the buffer through the aperture P.

Leather buffers or washers are shown in the patent to Bates to prevent metal striking metal.

In its original decision in the case, the Board of Appeals referred to the disclosures in the patents to Bates and Jimerson, and held that the use of leather buffers was but a matter of choice and that, if metal buffers did not sufficiently protect the rubber cushion, the substitution of leather, for metal, washers, would not amount to invention.

In appellant's petition for rehearing it was claimed that the split metallic buffer or abutment at the outer end of the coupling sleeve was provided for the purpose of supporting the rubber cushion and to close the opening in the sleeve, and that appellant had supplied an additional member, to wit, a leather washer or buffer between the metal abutment and the rubber cushion.

Concluding his argument on the issue just referred to, counsel for appellant said:

> Thus the point involved in each of the appealed claims is not that of mere substitution of material but the utilization of one or more addition elements in an old structure to perform a distinctly new function.

With reference to this contention, the Board of Appeals said:

* * * In appellant's construction there is no direct abutting action between the tool collar and the member G. Hence it is our view that the inturned portion O of the barrel nut L of the Jimerson patent may serve as an abutment for the collar on the tool through the member F having a flange G. With this view of the case the only question involved in the rejection of the claims is that of substitution of a leather washer for the metal washer J of the Jimerson patent. The substitution is taught we think, by the Bates patent.

The precise issue relates to the leather washers as added features to the Jimerson disclosure. Their sole purpose, as has been stated, is to give greater protection to the rubber cushion. We think it unnecessary to enter upon a discussion of the technical differences, if any, between the device disclosed by appellant and the reference cited.

Assuming, for the purpose of this decision, that counsel for appellant is technically correct in the contention that appellant has interposed between the metal abutment and the rubber cushion, shown in the patent to Jimerson, an additional member—a split leather buffer—for the protection of the upper end of the rubber cushion, and that he has substituted a split leather buffer for the metal member shown at the collar end of the shank in the Jimerson patent, and that, by means of such leather buffers, the fraying of the rubber cushion has, to a degree, been prevented, we are of opinion, nevertheless, that all he has done is to give application to the well-known truths, that a washer will act as a buffer and prevent wear and that the commonplace pliable leather washers are more appropriate for some purposes than those composed of metal. Surely, it is not the exercise of the inventive faculties to substitute a leather, for a metal, washer, or to supply an additional leather washer for the precise and familiar purposes for which such washers are commonly used. If it is, then every mechanical improvement may be said to result from the exercise of the inventive faculties.

In the case of Atlantic Works v. Brady, 107 U. S. 192, 200, 23 O. G. 1330, the Supreme Court said:

The design of the patent laws is to reward those who make some substantial discovery or invention, which adds to our knowledge and makes a step in advance in the useful arts. Such inventors are worthy of all favor. It was never the object of those laws to grant a monopoly for every trifling device, every shadow of a shade of an idea, which would naturally and spontaneously occur to any skilled mechanic or operator in the ordinary progress of manufactures. Such an indiscriminate creation of exclusive privileges tends rather to obstruct than to stimulate invention.

We think the quoted excerpt has particular application to the issues before us.

For the reasons stated, the decision is affirmed.

IN RE CREWS

No. 2,171. Decided December 19, 1929

PATENTABILITY—WEB-TYPING EQUIPMENT AND METHOD.

Claims for a method of producing an original writing and full and partial duplicates thereof at a single operation and a web-typing equipment for carrying out that method Held unpatentable over the prior art.

APPEAL from the Patent Office. Affirmed.

Mr. Burnham C. Stickney and Mr. L. H. Campbell for Crews.

Mr. T. A. Hostetler for the Commissioner of Patents.

GARRETT, J.:

Appellant claims invention relating to the art of typewriting, claims 1, 2, 3 and 4 being for a method patent, and claims 5, 6, 7 and 8 for a web-typing apparatus. These claims were successively rejected by the Examiner, the Board of Examiners in Chief, and the Commissioner of Patents, being brought before us by appeal from the decision of the latter, rendered December 21, 1927.

Claim No. 2 is typical of the four involved in the method application and No. 6 is typical of the four apparatus claims.

2. The method of producing an original writing and full and partial duplicates thereof at a single operation, which consists in attaching long and short carbon-sheets to the carbon-carrier of a continuous billing typewriting machine, with continuous work-webs interleaved therewith, locating the work-webs with the form-section in writing position with the carbons so arranged that both the long and short carbons cover the form-section at writing position with the long carbon protruding beyond the leading edge of said form-section, typing on said form-section the matter which is to appear on all the work-plies, shifting the carbon-carrier to withdraw the short carbon from between the plies of said form-section to be further typed and to draw the protruding upper end of the long carbon into interleaved relation with the plies of said section, and typing on the form-section to manifold upon one ply thereof and not manifold upon the other ply.

6. A web-typing equipment having a platen and a carbon-holder through which superposed plies of work-web are threaded, means for manifolding the entire typed matter upon one web-ply while only the upper portion of said typed matter is typed upon another web-ply, including a normal carbon sheet of shorter length also connected to said carbon-holder, said shorter length carbon-sheet extending to the top of the form to be typed and said normal sheet extending excessively beyond the top of said form preparatory to typing upon the tops of all the forms the mater which is to appear upon all of the plies, means being provided to effect intermediately a relative stripping between the carbon-holder and the web-plies, bringing the shorter length carbon back entirely out of the printing field, and bringing the excess of the other carbon into the printing field, preparatory to typing the remainder of the form upon one of the work-plies without typing it upon another of the work plies.

The reference cited in the rejection of these claims is a Patent No. 1,132,055 to Wernery and Smith granted March 16, 1915, upon a typewriting machine, and the Examiner also referred to a patent to Fortin, No. 1,237,319, of August 21, 1917, as showing an adjustable stop found to be an anticipation of a stop appearing in connection with appellant's application, but the rejection really rested generally upon the ground that no invention had been shown.

What the method and equipment are intended to accomplish, and what they do accomplish, is the production in one operation of an original and a number of copies or some full copies and some partial copies, as may be desired, of bills and other documents. It is the method whereby only parts of what is written on the outside sheet as the original are copied, leaving blank other parts of the paper upon which the copy or copies may be made, which constitutes the basis of appellant's claims.

The process, when one observes the operation, an exhibition of which was given in the presence of the court by its permission, is quite simple, although it is somewhat difficult of written description. The end sought is obtained by having carbon sheets of different lengths inserted between the papers upon which the writing is to appear. These carbon sheets are attached to a continuous billing typewriting machine in such a way as to admit of their manipulation. The principle of this manipulation of the carbon sheets by the machine is practically the same as that involved when carbons of the same length are used and full copies made. It is a matter of spacing the carbon sheets in such a way as that only a part of the blank sheet upon which the original is written has carbon under it, or between it and the plain sheets upon which the copies are to be produced. That part of the copy sheet which has carbon over it will receive the impression of the typewriter letters, and the other part will not.

It is represented that frequently business concerns and others will wish to have matter upon the original, only a part of which is desired upon the copy or copies. By the method of applicant this can be consummated in a way to save much time and it is, therefore, a valuable convenience.

We agree with the tribunals of the Patent Office, however, that the method presents nothing new in the art of typewriting which is inventive in the sense of the patent laws, nor does the web equipment claimed present any principle or feature which we can distinguish as being new or not involved in the prior art. In the final analysis the whole matter depends upon the correct spacing and manipulation of carbon sheets of different lengths and this is largely a matter of judgment and skill on the part of the operator. Nothing new is claimed in the way of a mechanism unless we could take seriously the contention of appellant's solicitor that the carbon sheets become in some way a part of the writing machine. This we can not do, and, even if we could, carbon paper is rather too old in the typewriting art to hold that by using different length sheets spaced upon a plan that any skilled operator may employ makes it a patentable addition to a mechanism already patented. It is not invention to use an old machine for a new purpose. Roberts v. Ryer, 91 U. S. 151. See also In re McNeil and Sturtevant, C. D. 1907, p. 478, 28 App. D. C. 451. Burt v. Ritchie, 251 Fed. 909, 918, and cases cited therein declare the rule that "a patentee can not patent a combination of device and material upon which it works."

To grant a patent or patents as sought herein would open the way for charges of infringement against operators of typewriting and continuous billing machines who have occasion to use carbonized sheets of different lengths in making copies of their writings and might interfere with that freedom of use by an operator of patented machines which the law contemplates and admits.

In Potts v. Creager, 155 U. S. Rep. 597, 606, the Supreme Court said:

Doubtless a patentee is entitled to every use of which his invention is susceptible, whether such use be known or unknown to him.

It is also the law that the purchaser of a patented article for his use is entitled to use it for any work which it will perform without being restricted to a specific method of use. The owner of a patented mowing machine, for instance, is not restricted to using it for cutting vegetation intended for hay; he may use it to cut weeds or other vegetation. The owner of a typewriting or continuous billing machine should certainly be entitled to use it for writing upon any character of paper which the machine will take, including carbon sheets of whatever length the operator may find desirable and arranged as the operator may wish to arrange them for making copies or partial copies as may be desired.

While a new device for holding, manipulating and adjusting carbon paper interleaved with the sheets upon which copies are produced might present a patentable invention, nothing of that sort is here involved. The process involves simply the adaptation of the Wernery and Smith patent to achieve an old result—making copies by utilizing carbon paper.

We find no patentable invention in the claims presented. The decision of the Board of Appeals is affirmed.

Affirmed.

Disclaimers

REIS. 16,795.—Robert W. Scott, Babylon, N. Y. STOCKING AND THE MANUFACTURE THEREOF. Patent dated November 22, 1927. Disclaimer filed February 11, 1930, by the assignee, Scott & Williams, Incorporated.

Hereby enters this disclaimer to such broad interpretation of the claims of the said reissued patent as might construe them to read upon stockings knit with ribbed or mock-ribbed instep, this invention being limited to stockings in which the heel and the instep at the ankle are both of plain knitting.

1,239,074.—Arthur G. Bagnall and James A. Taylor, Cleveland, Ohio. PROCESS OF COATING SURFACES. Patent dated September 4, 1917. Disclaimer filed February 15, 1930, by The Union Trust Company, executor of the last will of Charles H. Parkin, deceased, the assignee.

Hereby enters this disclaimer to all that part of the said specification and claim which is contained in claim 7 of said patent.

1,672,264.—Frank X. Lauterbur and Edward J. Lauterbur, Sidney, Ohio. PROCESS OF MIXING DOUGH. Patent dated June 5, 1928. Disclaimer filed February 13, 1930, by the patentees.

Enter this disclaimer to certain of the process claims of the above identified patent—Namely, claims 1 and 2 excepting when in the process claimed the process of preventing overheating of a dough mass is accomplished by mixing the dough so that there is no substantial frictional contact of the dough with that portion of the receptacle walls against which gravity and the centrifugal force due to rotation, combined, would tend to project said mass.

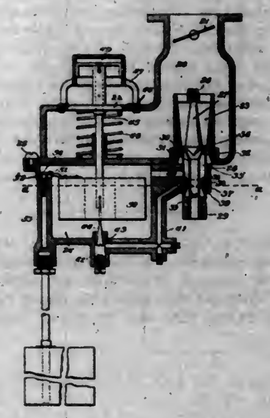
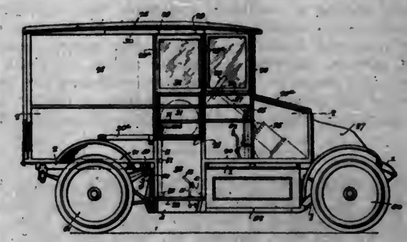
REISSUES

MARCH 4, 1930



17,608. KNITTING MACHINE. ALDEI LANDRY, Central Falls, R. I., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Hemphill Company, a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Jan. 23, 1918. Serial No. 213,413. Original No. 1,169,655, dated Jan. 25, 1916, Serial No. 40,718, filed July 19, 1915. 9 Claims. (Cl. 66—134.)

1. In combination in a knitting machine a series of yarn fingers movable to and from position for feeding yarn to the needles, a split pattern drum, the sections of which are located next to each other and coaxially, levers overlying the periphery of the sections of the split pattern drum, connections extending upwardly from said levers for controlling the yarn fingers, a timing or pattern chain arranged coaxially with the split pattern drum and on the side thereof opposite that upon which the supplemental section is located, means for operating the said pattern chain, a main and a supplemental controller operated from blocks on said pattern chain, a pawl and ratchet mechanism for the main section of the split pattern drum and a pawl and ratchet mechanism for the supplemental section of the split pattern drum, said pawl and ratchet mechanism being controlled respectively from the main and supplemental controller and said supplemental controller having a connection extending therefrom past the main section of the split pattern drum to control the pawl of the supplemental section, substantially as described.



17,609. CARBURETOR. HORACE H. WELCH, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Curtis B. Camp, trustee. Filed Dec. 31, 1927. Serial No. 244,016. Original No. 1,578,873, dated Mar. 30, 1926, Serial No. 135,723, filed Dec. 8, 1916. 14 Claims. (Cl. 261—72.)

13. In a carburetor of the kind described, a mixing chamber, a fuel chamber subject to the suction of the engine through a passage leading thence to the mixing chamber, the juncture of said passage with the mixing chamber being so arranged that the flow of mixture passing through the mixing chamber will, by aspiration, induce in the fuel chamber a higher degree of vacuum than exists in the mixing chamber to assure the supply of fuel to the fuel chamber, and means for delivering fuel into the mixing chamber.

17,610. DELIVERY TRUCK. EDDY B. WHITNEY, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor, by mesne assignments, of one-half to Walker Vehicle Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois, and one-half to Divco Detroit Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. 4. In a motor vehicle the combination of a chassis having downwardly extending portions defining a transverse passageway, a body having a top spaced above said passageway to permit an operator to stand therein, said body having side openings at the ends of said passageway, load carrying floor sections at the front and rear of said passageway, a brake operating mechanism located forward of said passageway, and a second brake operating mechanism located adjacent said passageway and accessible for foot actuation while the operator is standing in said passageway.

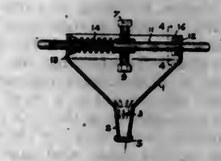
16. In a motor vehicle, the combination of a chassis having downwardly extending portions defining a transverse passageway, front and rear wheels for said chassis, a body having a top spaced above said passageway to provide standing height clearance, said passageway extending completely across the vehicle and providing standing height clearance for the full length thereof whereby the operator may pass completely through the vehicle in an upright position, said body having side openings at the ends of said passageway between the front and the rear wheels, steering operating means operable while standing in said passageway, control means for the vehicle operable while standing in said passageway, and additional control means arranged forwardly of the first mentioned control means and adapted to be operated while seated above said passageway.

17,611. SWITCH. NICHOLAS J. CONRAD, Winnetka, Ill., assignor to Schweitzer & Conrad, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 29, 1929. Serial No. 359,139. Original No. 1,631,012, dated May 31, 1927, Serial No. 74,930, filed Dec. 12, 1925. 35 Claims. (Cl. 200—114.)



1. The method of interrupting current flow through a switch having a relatively stationary and a relatively movable contact which comprises moving the movable contact from the stationary contact, connecting a fuse of high current interrupting capacity across the break between said contacts and thereafter continuing the movement of the movable contact to separate it further from the stationary contact and to disengage it from the fuse.

17,612. PRIMARY CUT-OUT. NICHOLAS J. CONRAD, Winnetka, Ill., assignor to Schweitzer & Conrad, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 6, 1929. Serial No. 412,271. 5. The combination with a suction cleaner, of a rotor therefor comprising a body portion, and brushes and rigidly mounted beating members extending radially from said body portion, said brushes and beaters being adjustably secured to said body and adapted to be adjusted to various fixed positions circumferentially of said rotor body.

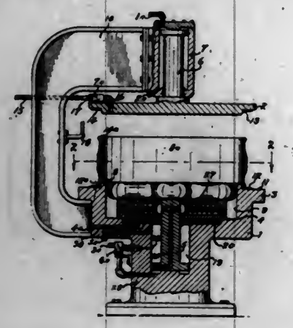
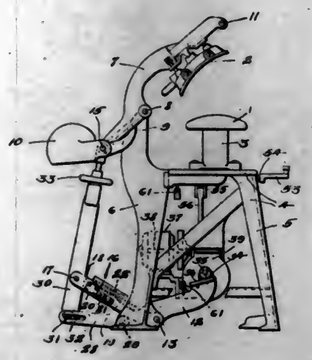
17,616. MOTOR-INDICATING SYSTEM. EDWARD A. ROCKWELL, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 6, 1929. Serial No. 353,234. Original No. 1,677,494, dated July 17, 1928, Serial No. 696,493, filed Mar. 8, 1924. 26 Claims. (Cl. 116—118.)

1. A level indicating device for internal combustion engines comprising an indicating means including a visible indicator, a connection from said means to a source of vacuum arranged to hold said indicator in non-indicating position by the vacuum, a level registering device positioned according to a liquid level in the engine equipment, a vacuum connection from the indicating means to the level registering device and a vent adapted to be thrown into and out of communication with the vacuum connection by the registering device according to the liquid level.



17,617. ELECTROMAGNETIC TRANSLATING DEVICE. ADOLPH A. THOMAS, New York, N. Y. Filed Apr. 6, 1929. Serial No. 353,283. Original No. 1,630,640, dated May 31, 1927, Serial No. 78,279, filed Dec. 30, 1925. 34 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.41.)

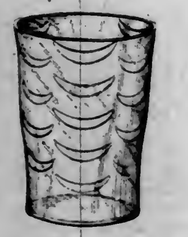
1. In an electric phonograph reproducer free from an acoustic diaphragm, a vibratory lever adapted to be actuated by the vibrations of a record needle, said lever comprising a short arm and a long arm, a permanent magnet having pole pieces, a magnetic member mounted on the free end of said long arm in operative relation to said pole pieces, whereby the needle vibrations are transmitted in amplified ratio to said member, non-acoustic resilient means for holding said needle arm and magnetic member in predetermined normal position, and a current generating coil controlled by the movement of said member.



17,618. MANUFACTURE OF TIRE CASINGS. ERNEST HOPKINSON, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 30, 1929. Serial No. 389,597. Original No. 1,718,668, dated May 21, 1929, Serial No. 157,110, filed Dec. 27, 1926. 25 Claims. (Cl. 18—2.)

1. An apparatus for shaping tires from pulley bands comprising in combination means cooperating to shape a pulley band, means for locating a unitary retaining member within said pulley band, and means coacting with said member for securing positive engagement between said shaped pulley band and said retaining member.

17,619. PRESSING MACHINE. SIMEON T. HART, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to The Prosperity Company, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 24, 1929. Serial No. 380,737. Original No. 1,590,026, dated June 22, 1926, Serial No. 720,854, filed June 18, 1924. 2 Claims. (Cl. 68—9.)



1. A pressing machine comprising a frame, cooperating pressing elements, one movable toward and from the other, and actuating means for the movable pressing element, comprising a power member, a toggle comprising links pivotally connected respectively to the movable element and to the frame independently of the power member, the latter comprising endwisely movable sections, and a spring for resisting such endwise movement, and a connection between the power member and the toggle normally arranged in ineffective position and movable into effective position by a preliminary closing movement of the movable element independently of the power member, said connection being connected to the toggle to move the toggle toward final straightened position and to extend the sectional toggle link against the action of its spring when the straightening movement of the toggle is obstructed before the toggle reaches its straightened position.

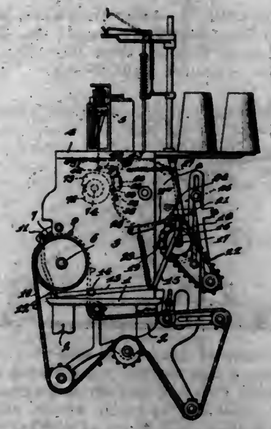
Filed Nov. 22, 1928, Serial No. 321,065, and in Great Britain Nov. 29, 1927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 175—338.)

An electro-mechanical device of the induction type involving a metallic vane which is provided with slots extending substantially at right angles to the path of the eddy currents and which slots are so located as to produce an upper limiting value to the torque causing the movement of the vane when the vane reaches a predetermined position.



1,748,945. BOILER. JOSEPH F. DICKSON and ROBERT M. TURNER, Kewanee, Ill., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Kewanee Boiler Company, Kewanee, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 3, 1927. Serial No. 237,393. 3 Claims. (Cl. 122—74.)

1. In a heater having a main combustion-chamber and a supplemental combustion-chamber connected with the rear of said main-chamber and extended higher than the latter, a first metal plate forming the outer shell of the boiler and the outer side-walls of both chambers, a second front-wall plate for the boiler, a third rear-wall plate for the boiler, a fourth single metal plate forming the crown-sheet and the inner side-walls of said main-chamber, a fifth single metal plate forming the crown-sheet, the inner side-walls and the inner rear-wall of said supplemental-chamber, a sixth flue-sheet secured to said fifth plate and to the crown-sheet of said main-chamber, and flues connecting said flue-sheet and said front-wall plate, said side-wall portions of said fourth and fifth plates being welded together, the junctions of said crown-sheet of said fifth plate with its rear and side wall portions being curved, and the junctions of said side and rear walls of the same plate being curved and downwardly tapered.

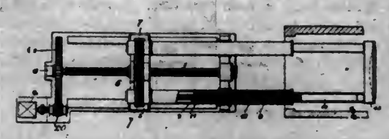
1,748,946. CIRCULAR-KNITTING MACHINE. CHARLES W. DIFFENDERFER, Greencastle, Pa., assignor to The Interwoven Mills, Inc., New Brunswick, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 20, 1928. Serial No. 294,216. 15 Claims. (Cl. 66—133.)

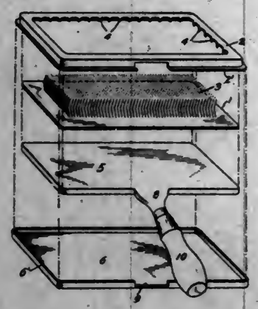


1. Actuating mechanism for yarn fingers of circular stocking knitting machines, comprising a reciprocally mounted element, operative connections therefrom to a yarn finger, means for intermittently reciprocating said element to insert and withdraw said yarn finger, and means for delaying the movement of said element during one portion of a cycle of reciprocation to insure insertion and withdrawal of the yarn finger at the same needle.

1,748,947. APPARATUS FOR COATING CORES. HOWARD STEBBINS DREW, Western Springs, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 18, 1925. Serial No. 15,886. 4 Claims. (Cl. 91—82.)

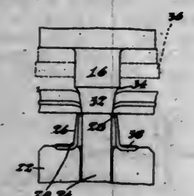
1. In a core coating device, a chamber containing material with which the core is to be coated, means for passing the core through said chamber to coat said core, a second chamber containing mercury, means for causing a relative movement between said core and said mercury to smooth the coating, and heating means for baking the coating thereon.

1,748,948. INGOT-PUSHING DEVICE. JOSEF GARSEN, Dusseldorf, Germany, assignor to Schloemann Aktiengesellschaft, Dusseldorf, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed July 23, 1928, Serial No. 294,909, and in Germany Nov. 4, 1927. 3 Claims. (Cl. 214—23.)



3. In an ingot pushing device, the combination with the frame, of a main screw-spindle journalled therein and the pushing head, of a movable cross-beam adapted to be moved back and forth along said frame by said main screw-spindle, auxiliary screw-spindles rotatably journalled in said movable cross-beam, toothed wheels at the inner ends of said auxiliary screw-spindles, a toothed wheel on said main screw-spindle adapted to rotate therewith and in mesh with said toothed wheels, means for rotating said main screw-spindle in either direction, and extension elements actuated by said auxiliary screw-spindles so as to advance and retract said pushing head.

1,748,949. TRANSPARENT SHEET. MARINO GENTILE, Chicago, Ill., assignor of one-half to Samuel W. Weis and one-fourth to George Pick, Chicago, Ill. Filed Feb. 11, 1928. Serial No. 253,794. 2 Claims. (Cl. 91—68.)

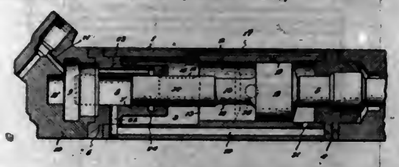


1. An integral transparent wrapping sheet of the character described consisting of a thin film of gelatin as a base, a coating of cellulose nitrate having castor oil incorporated therein applied to each face of said gelatin film, the castor oil functioning as a non-hygroscopic bonding agent and causing the cellulose nitrate coating to become integrally united with the gelatin film on each side thereof, said resultant wrapping sheet being tough, pliable, transparent, moisture, grease and water proof and being adapted to readily conform to the shape of packages and the like without cracking or separating.

1,748,950. CARDING BRUSH. BENJAMIN D. GOLDBERG, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Nov. 11, 1927. Serial No. 232,545. 6 Claims. (Cl. 119—93.)

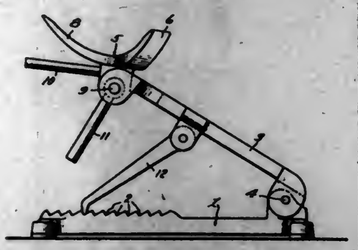
1. In a device of the character described, the combination of a wire carrying foundation, an integral rigid frame forming a rigid border enclosing the edge of the wire-carrying foundation, a backing cover plate and means integral with the cover plate and frame interlocking them with one another to hold the parts together.

1,748,951. METHOD OF INSERTING FASTENERS. SYLVESTER LEO GOOKIN, Quincy, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 9, 1922, Serial No. 593,358. Renewed Apr. 24, 1926. 8 Claims. (Cl. 218—29.)



1. The improved method of setting eyelets in a plurality of layers of material which comprises inserting a setting tool on one side of the layers of material, advancing an eyelet having a barrel thickened at its end to bring the thickened end of the eyelet barrel into engagement with the material on the other side, forcing the thickened end of the eyelet barrel against the material thus pushing the layers of material toward the setting shoulder of the tool, advancing the thickened end of the eyelet barrel through the layers of material into engagement with the layer nearest to the setting shoulder of the tool, thrusting the thickened end of the eyelet barrel against said layer thus forcing that layer completely past said setting shoulder, and clenching the thickened end of the eyelet barrel between said said layer and an adjacent layer of the material.

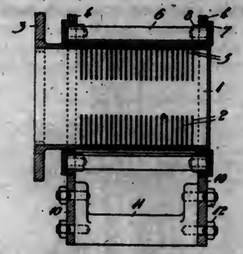
1,748,952. EYELET. SYLVESTER LEO GOOKIN, Atlantic, Mass., assignor to United Shoe Machinery Corporation, Paterson, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 23, 1923. Serial No. 658,991. 18 Claims. (Cl. 24—141.)



1. An eyelet for invisible eyeleting having the end of its barrel formed to provide means to engage the stock at points removed from the lacing hole and also means to engage the stock at the edge of the lacing hole, thereby rendering the end of the eyelet barrel effective both to push the stock and to pass through one or more layers of the stock.

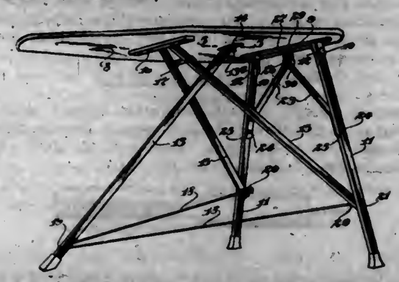
1,748,953. VALVELESS ROCK DRILL. LOUIS W. GREVE, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Cleveland Rock Drill Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed May 8, 1928. Serial No. 274,825. 1 Claim. (Cl. 121—17.)

A drill of the class described, comprising a cylinder having passages formed in its wall, said cylinder having a relatively large piston chamber and a cushioning chamber communicating therewith, a bushing providing a small piston chamber fitted in the rear end of the cylinder, one of the passages connecting the large chamber and cushioning chamber, a piston hammer including a large head and a small head operating, respectively, in the large and small chambers, means for conducting pressure fluid to the bushing, the small head controlling the flow of pressure fluid from the bushing through one of the passages to the front and rear faces of the large head, said large head controlling the flow of pressure fluid through the other passage to the cushioning chamber operating on the rear of said head.



1,748,954. HEADREST. ISAAC HERRMANN, Elyria, Ohio, assignor to The Undertakers' Supply Co., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 18, 1928. Serial No. 293,576. 4 Claims. (Cl. 27—13.)

1. A head support adapted to support a human head and comprising a base member, a bar having one end pivotally connected with said base member adjacent one end thereof and extending upwardly at an angle thereto, means for adjusting the position of said bar with respect to said base member, the opposite end of said bar being bifurcated, a head rest pivotally secured between the said bifurcations and shaped to receive a human head therein, a handle carried by said head rest for adjusting the position of the same and means for moving said bifurcations together whereby to secure said head rest in the adjusted position.



1,748,955. STRAINING DEVICE FOR VACUUM DRYING APPARATUS. AUGUSTINUS EDVARD JONSSON, Lidingo, Sweden. Filed Mar. 21, 1928, Serial No. 263,352, and in Sweden Apr. 9, 1927. 3 Claims. (Cl. 183—52.)

1. A device of the character described, comprising in combination, a movable support, a straining device comprising a hollow body mounted in said support for movement therewith and connected to a source of vacuum, said body being provided along its circumference with straining slots, and an automatic cleaning device mounted to move in relation to the hollow body during movement of the support and provided with cleansing teeth extending into said slots, the organization being such that on the movement of the support said cleansing device will maintain its stable equilibrium whereby said teeth are displaced in the slots.

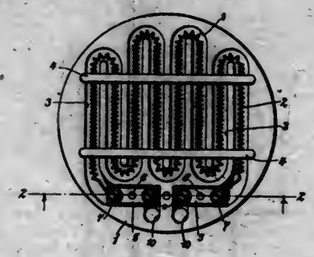
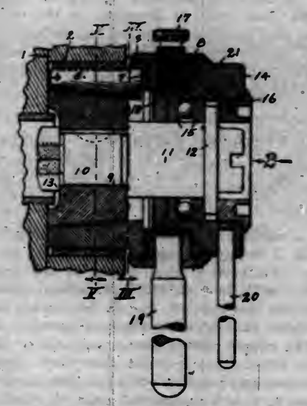
1,748,956. IRONING BOARD. JOHN E. KALGREN, Minneapolis, Minn., assignor to The J. R. Clark Company, Minneapolis, Minn., a Corporation of Minnesota. Filed June 4, 1928. Serial No. 282,543. 5 Claims. (Cl. 68—10.)



4. An ironing board top having downwardly diverging pairs of hinge lugs, rear legs pivoted to said diverging hinge lugs, a bearing member on the bottom of said board between said legs, a downwardly diverging brace, the arms of which are rigidly secured to said rear legs and the upper portion of which is formed with a cam surface engageable with said bearing member and operative to depress and spread said brace when said legs are turned downward.

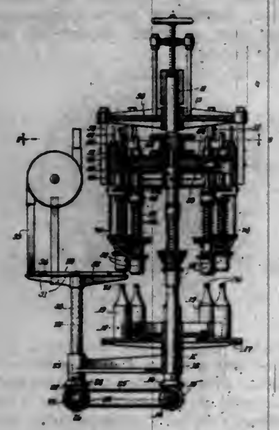
1,748,957. REFRIGERATION. DONALD B. KNIGHT, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed May 24, 1928. Serial No. 280,139. 3 Claims. (Cl. 62—179.)



2. The process of refrigerating which comprises evaporating a liquid cooling agent of relatively low vapor pressure in the presence of an auxiliary agent inert to the cooling agent and at substantially atmospheric pressure and having a specific weight lower than the specific weight of the vapor of the cooling agent, producing a head due to difference in specific weights, forcing the mixture of the vapor of the cooling agent and auxiliary agent under the influence of the head produced into the presence of an absorption liquor at substantially atmospheric pressure, segregating the cooling agent from the auxiliary agent by absorption, and returning the auxiliary agent into the presence of the cooling agent under the influence of the head produced.

1,748,958. ELECTRICAL HEATING UNIT. CHARLES W. LOGAN, Kenmore, N. Y., assignor to Markel Electric Products, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 29, 1928. Serial No. 329,089. 2 Claims. (Cl. 219—37.)

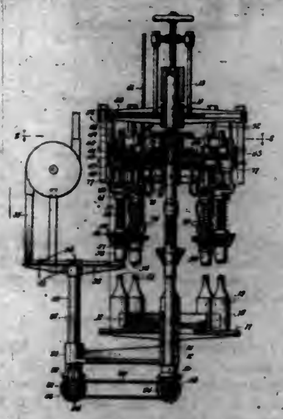
1. An electrical heating unit comprising a refractory support formed with grooves, a heating element arranged in said grooves, a conductive strap positioned in said groove and adapted to connect electrically a lead-in wire with said heating element, a screw securing said strap to said support and a pair of threaded screws independently securing said element and said lead-in wire to said strap, said screws last mentioned being spaced from the screw first mentioned and also from the support whereby the electrical connections thereby afforded are unaffected by the expansion and contraction of said support.



1,748,959. DEVICE FOR FINISHING CYLINDRICAL SURFACES. GRAVES R. MAUPIN, Moberly, Mo. Filed Oct. 19, 1928. Serial No. 313,628. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—90.)

1. An apparatus of the kind described, comprising a cage member, a plurality of rollers rotatably mounted therein at spaced points thereabout, a tapered expander contacting with said rollers, a shaft carrying said ex-

pander and fixed thereto, a removable handle for rotatably operating said cage member, a size-adjusting means provided with a size indicating gauge rotatably mounted in said cage member and adjustably movable relative to said cage, and a removable bar for adjusting said last-mentioned means to move the shaft and expander carried thereby longitudinally, whereby said expander will actuate said rollers radially.



1,748,960. CAPPING MACHINE. ARTHUR I. RISSER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to U. S. Bottlers Machinery Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 25, 1928. Serial No. 272,634. 5 Claims. (Cl. 226—88.)

4. In a capping-machine, the combination of a stationary table, a revoluble support adapted to receive a screw-threaded container, a capping-head on said support above, in register with, and slidable toward and from said container, means to revolve said support to carry said container beneath, and said capping-head above, said table, means to rotate said capping-head about its axis, means to slide said capping-head toward and from said container, means to feed a screw-threaded cap onto said table in register with said capping-head as the latter passes over said table, means recedable in said capping-head to retain the cap in said capping-head during its travel after it leaves the table until it descends to the container, and means in said head to grasp its cap sufficiently firmly to screw it on the corresponding container, said recedable means automatically retreating in said capping-head during such cap-screwing operation.

1,748,961. CAPPING APPLIANCE. ARTHUR I. RISSER, Chicago, Ill., assignor to U. S. Bottlers Machinery Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 25, 1928. Serial No. 272,635. 4 Claims. (Cl. 226—88.)

1. In a capping-appliance, the combination of a stationary table, a revoluble support adapted to receive screw-threaded containers, a capping-head on said support above, in register with, and slidable toward and from each such container on the support, means to revolve said support to carry said containers in sequence beneath, and the corresponding capping-heads above, said table, means to rotate said capping-heads about their own axes, means to slide said capping-heads toward and from their containers, means to feed screw-threaded caps on said table individually into register with said capping-heads as the latter pass over said table, means recedably mounted in said capping-heads and adapted to be subjected to suction to retain the caps therein during their travel after leaving the table until they descend to their containers, means to control the suction exerted by said recedable means to release any cap from its head for which no corresponding container is present to permit such head to receive another cap from the table, and means in each capping-head to grasp its cap sufficiently firmly to screw it on to the corresponding container, the corresponding recedable means automatically retreating into the capping-head during such cap-screwing operation.

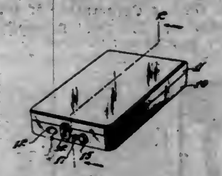
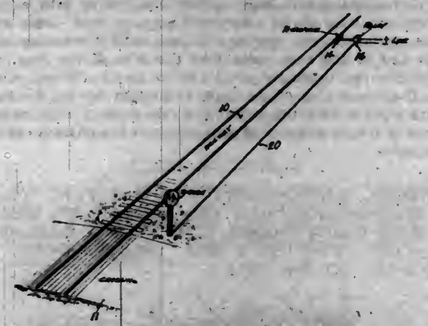
1,748,962. TAP. JOHN HUGO SMITH, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The Wesson Sales Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Feb. 15, 1926. Serial No. 88,246. 1 Claim. (Cl. 10—141.)



A bottoming tap for cutting threads, comprising a shank having a plurality of longitudinally running and circumferentially spaced lands and flutes, the lands provided with cutting teeth and the tops of the teeth on alternate lands being partially removed, the teeth forming each land being uniform in root diameter and in over-all diameter, except at the working end where the root diameter is maintained but the over-all diameter gradually diminished, the crest of each tooth of uniform over-all diameter being in the form of a segment of a true circle and the crest of each tooth at the working end of the tool being relieved.

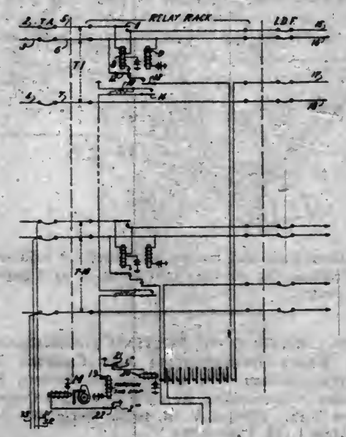
1,748,963. APPARATUS FOR DISPENSING FRESHLY-REFRIGERATED FOODS. ERNEST C. STYBERG, Racine, Wis., assignor to The Instant Freezer Corporation, Racine, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Aug. 25, 1927. Serial No. 215,339. 4 Claims. (Cl. 257—98.)



4. An instant freezer comprising a main housing having its bottom formed into a tray for holding a liquid charge, a handle on top of said freezer behind the center of gravity, a lip at the front end of said tray over which the liquid in the tray can be poured out, supporting feet projecting from said tray, the front feet being positioned near said lip to remain in contact with a flat support during tipping of said freezer until said feet and lip are substantially under the center of gravity.

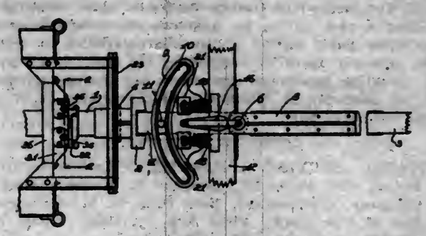
1,748,964. COSMETIC BOX. WILLIAM E. WACKER, Maplewood, N. J., assignor to August Goertz & Co., Inc., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 8, 1928. Serial No. 324,681. 5 Claims. (Cl. 132—83.)

5. In a vanity case comprising, a body section and a cover section hinged to said body section, a tray member within said body section, said tray member having a peripheral flange spaced from the sides of said tray and frictionally engaging the inner walls of said body section, said flange being connected to the sides of said tray by an upper curved bridge portion, a powder box carried by said tray member, said powder box, tray member and body section having communicating apertures, means retained between the side of said tray member and the peripheral flange thereof for conducting powder from the powder box and tray member apertures to the aperture in said body section and a valve operable from the exterior of said body section for controlling the flow of powder from said powder box.



1,748,965. RAILWAY-CROSSING SIGNAL. ERNEST WATSON, Wauwatosa, Wis. Filed Jan. 21, 1929. Serial No. 334,099. 6 Claims. (Cl. 246—125.)

1. In a signaling device for railway crossings, a signal, an electric circuit and means therein for actuating the signal, and a transmitter associated with one of the track rails and having a diaphragm responsive to the sound produced by a train moving over the rails to close the circuit and actuate the signal.



1,748,966. TELEPHONE TRUNKING SYSTEM. JOHN WICKS, Oak Park, Ill., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Automatic Electric Inc., Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 23, 1925. Serial No. 57,985. 23 Claims. (Cl. 179—18.)

1. In a telephone system, a group of primary trunks divided into sub-groups, a group of secondary trunks divided into sub-groups, separate sub-groups of secondary switches having access to said secondary-trunk sub-groups, respectively, a distributing frame at which said primary trunks terminate and from which connections are made to said secondary switches, said frame including jumpers for connecting any desired primary trunk with any desired secondary switch, and relays connected with said primary trunks whereby said secondary switches are controlled by said relays through said jumpers.

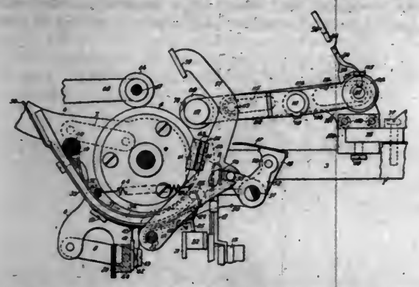
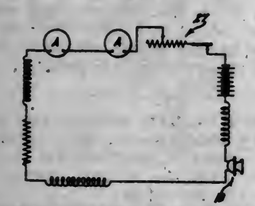
1,748,967. ARTICULATED TONGUE FOR TRAILERS. LEROY E. WILLIAMS, Edgerton, Wis., assignor to Highway Trailer Company, Edgerton, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Nov. 26, 1926. Serial No. 150,658. 10 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.55.)



2. In a vehicle having dirigible wheels and a draft member by which they may be steered, a tongue pivotally attached to the draft member for lateral movement with respect thereto, and means on the tongue and draft member rearwardly of said pivotal connection limiting the swing of said tongue about such pivotal connection.

8. In a vehicle having dirigible wheels and a draft member by which they may be steered, a tongue pivotally attached to the draft member for lateral movement with respect thereto, and an evener pivotally mounted at a point co-axial with said pivotal connection.

1,748,968. TYPEWRITING MACHINE. EDWIN E. BARNEY, New Rochelle, N. Y., assignor to Remington Typewriter Company, Ilion, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 23, 1927. Serial No. 200,898. 20 Claims. (Cl. 197—128.)



1. The combination of a carriage, a cylindrical platen carried thereby, a paper deflector movable to and from effective position and when in said last mentioned position constituting an aid for directing a work sheet introduced backward from in front of the platen around and beneath the same, paper feed rollers, an auxiliary paper supporting device shiftable towards and away from the platen and when in effective position supporting a work sheet in snug condition against the platen at and near the printing line, and means controlled by said deflector for controlling the shifting movement of said paper supporting device.

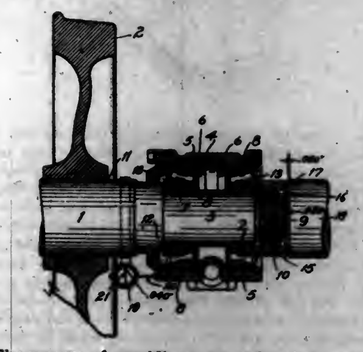
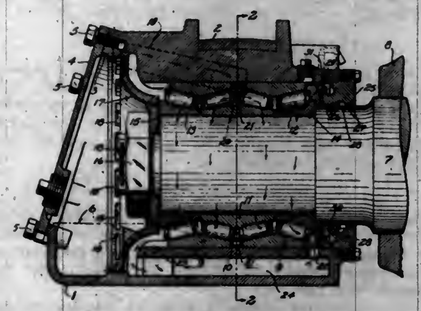
1,748,969. METHOD OF TESTING MATERIALS. EDWARD EVANS BLANKENSTEIN and CHESTER MILLER COULTER, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 15, 1927. Serial No. 233,405. 12 Claims. (Cl. 179—175.)



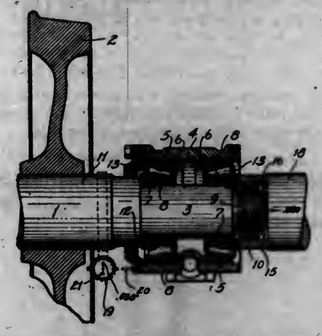
1. The method of testing materials which consists in adding a part having an unknown characteristic to cooperating parts having known characteristics to render the assembly operative, subjecting the assembly of parts to operating conditions, and measuring the operativeness of the assembly to determine the characteristics of the first mentioned part.

1,748,970. SERVING APPARATUS. HAROLD LANGLEY BLOOD, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 17, 1926. Serial No. 129,736. 9 Claims. (Cl. 117—41.)



1. In a serving apparatus, a rotatable driving means, a friction driven means carrying a supply of serving material and driven by the driving means, a pivotal member carried by the driving means over a portion of which the material travels for exerting a tension on the material, and means elastically connected to the pivotal member and operatively associated with the driven means at angularly disposed points for varying the frictional driving pressure between the driving and driven means in response to a tendency of the tension on the material to vary from a predetermined amount.

1,748,971. PROCESS OF MOUNTING ROLLER BEARINGS ON CAR AXLES. TRACY V. BUCKWALTER, Canton, Ohio, assignor to The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 21, 1927, Serial No. 234,634. Renewed Nov. 2, 1929. 6 Claims. (Cl. 29—84.)



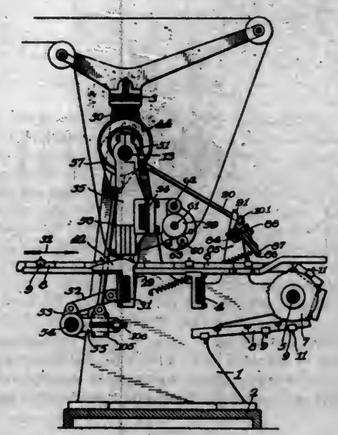
1. The process of providing a car axle with taper roller bearings, which comprises press-fitting on said axle a bearing cone that tapers towards a second bearing cone hereinafter mentioned, slipping onto said axle bearing cups that are relatively fixed and have taper rollers between them and said cones respectively, slipping onto the axle said second bearing cone tapering toward said first mentioned cone, slipping over the end of the axle a sleeve adapted to bear against the end of said second cone and with shims interposed between said sleeve and the ram of a press, moving said ram until it bears against the end of the axle, measuring the play of the cups, increasing the thickness of the shims by an amount equal to the excess play of the cups, and again moving the ram into contact with the end of the axle whereby said second cone is forced endwise of said axle and the parts properly adjusted.

1,748,972. RAILWAY-CAR-JOURNAL BEARING. TRACY V. BUCKWALTER, Canton, Ohio, assignor to The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Sept. 8, 1928. Serial No. 304,658. 2 Claims. (Cl. 308—180.)

1. A railway car journal bearing construction comprising a journal box having a lubricant chamber, an axle extending into said journal box, antifriction bearings interposed between said axle and said journal box and a lubricant impelling wheel secured to the end of said axle, said bearings including two double bearing cups and a perforated spacer ring therebetween, said journal box having longitudinal passageways in its upper portion inclined downwardly from the outer end toward the middle and opening into the interior of the journal box at said perforated ring to permit lubricant to reach said bearings and said journal box also having a passageway to return lubricant from the bearings to the lubricant chamber.

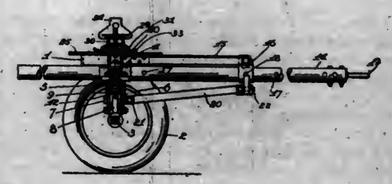
1,748,973. PROCESS OF MOUNTING ROLLER BEARINGS ON CAR AXLES. TRACY V. BUCKWALTER, Canton, Ohio, assignor to The Timken Roller Bearing Company, Canton, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Feb. 16, 1929. Serial No. 340,418. 5 Claims. (Cl. 29—84.)

1. The process of providing a car axle with taper roller bearings, which comprises press-fitting on said axle a bearing cone that tapers towards a second bearing cone hereinafter mentioned, slipping onto said axle bearing cups that are relatively fixed and have taper rollers between them and said cones respectively, slipping onto the axle said second bearing cone tapering toward said first mentioned cone, slipping over the end of the axle a sleeve adapted to bear against the end of said second cone, measuring the endwise play of the cups in the position of the sleeve thus established, placing opposite the outer end of said sleeve shims of a thickness equal to the excess play of said cups, and moving a ram against said shims until its face reaches the plane occupied by said outer end of said sleeve when said measurement was made, said axle being meanwhile held in fixed position.



1,748,974. BRACKET. HAROLD D. CHURCH, Fairfield, Conn., assignor to The Belfiex Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 11, 1928, Serial No. 638,171, and in Canada June 11, 1924. 7 Claims. (Cl. 267—30.)

1. A stamped metal bracket having an angular end portion for attachment to a vehicle frame, a channeled intermediate portion and a channeled end portion having a substantially flat clamping face at right angles to the longitudinal axis of the frame.



1,748,975. WIREBOUND-BOX-BLANK MACHINE. EDWARD CRAIG, St. Joseph, Mich.; The Commercial National Bank executor of said Edward Craig, deceased. Filed Mar. 24, 1928. Serial No. 264,330. 14 Claims. (Cl. 1—8.2.)

10. In wire bound box blank machinery, in combination, instrumentalities for continuously feeding the blank materials, a transverse rotary shaft disposed above the feeding plane of said instrumentalities, swinging stapling mechanism the transverse axis of oscillation of which is also above said plane, actuating means deriving power from said shaft to oscillate said mechanism about its said axis, whereby said mechanism moves a distance with the blank materials while inserting staples therein, cam means on said shaft to actuate said mechanism, driving means to controllably rotate said shaft, a wire cutter for severing the binding wire between blanks, and an operating connection between said cutter and the frame of said mechanism, whereby the oscillation of said mechanism actuates the wire cutter.

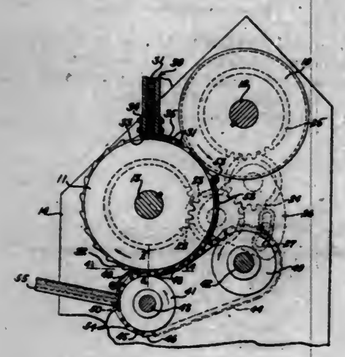
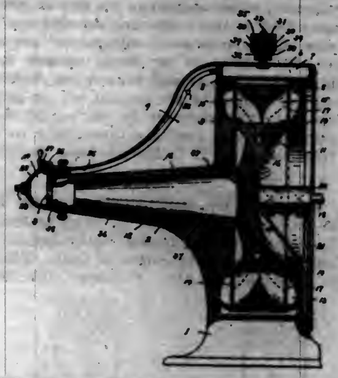
1,748,976. POLE TRAILER. DURREL H. DAVIS and LEROY E. WILLIAMS, Edgerton, Wis., assignors to Highway Trailer Company, Edgerton, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Apr. 11, 1927. Serial No. 182,624. 8 Claims. (Cl. 280—33.4.)



3. In a trailer vehicle, the combination of a unitary cast frame, supporting wheels and an axle therefor, the upper side of said frame providing a turntable, a bolster centrally pivoted on said frame having its outer extensions slidably supported on said turntable, said frame having integral arms extending laterally in opposite directions, brackets mounted on said axle, upwardly extending bolts pivoted to said brackets and slidably connected at their upper end to said arms, coil springs on said bolts, in yielding contact with said arms, checking means for limiting the rebound of the frame with respect to the axle, and a leaf spring extending transversely above the axle, connected at its mid-point to said frame, with its outer ends shackled to said brackets.

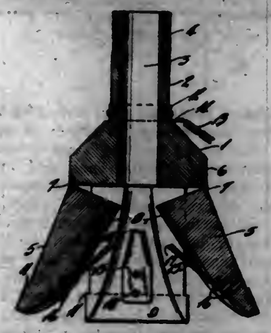
1,748,977. LASTING JACK. HOWARD G. ELLIS, Waltham, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Hood Rubber Company, Inc., Watertown, Mass., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 21, 1929. Serial No. 333,798. 11 Claims. (Cl. 12—126.)

1. A last holder for a jack having, in combination, a rigid jaw, a movable jaw, means to yieldingly force said jaws apart, means to hold said jaws in parallel relation to each other, and means to force said jaws toward each other.



1,748,978. MATERIAL-HANDLING APPARATUS FOR PROCESSING MACHINES. JOHN DIETRICH FEENEY, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 28, 1928. Serial No. 265,331. 16 Claims. (Cl. 153—28.)

1. In a material handling apparatus for a forming mechanism, a magazine, means for receiving formed parts directly from the forming mechanism and depositing them in the magazine in predetermined relation to each other, and means carried by the first mentioned means for advancing the parts therein.



1,748,979. AIR COMPRESSOR. GILBERT GUNDERSON, Fergus Falls, Minn. Filed Nov. 22, 1928. Serial No. 321,172. 8 Claims. (Cl. 230—124.)

1. A centripetal air compressor of the character described including a rotor having an axial extension thereupon, a plurality of helically shaped air passageways in the head of the rotor and extending circumferentially about the axial extension thereof, a double receiving port in the head of the rotor for each passageway, and circular intake ports upon either side of the head of the rotor.

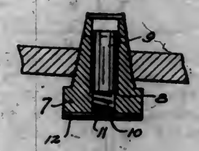
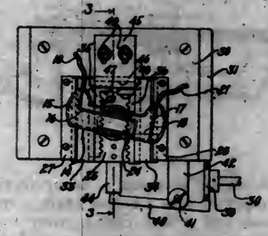
1,748,980. FISHING TOOL. ALVA OTIS HAMBLEN, Flint, Mich. Filed June 6, 1928. Serial No. 283,222. 8 Claims. (Cl. 294—90.)



1. In a tool of the class described, a circular body portion having a threaded extension for the reception of an operating pipe, and a passageway for a drill rod, a plurality of jaws hinged to the lower margin of the body, the said jaws being arcuate in cross-section and wedge shaped longitudinally the narrow end being turned downwardly, a band adapted to slidingly fit over the jaws to hold the same in the closed position and spring set gripping teeth or blades secured to the inner faces of the jaws and converging inwardly and upwardly.

1,748,981. ROOFING AND METHOD OF FORMING THE SAME. WILLIAM A. HARRIS, Boston, Mass., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Patent and Licensing Corporation, Boston, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Aug. 13, 1924. Serial No. 731,775. 1 Claim. (Cl. 108—8.)

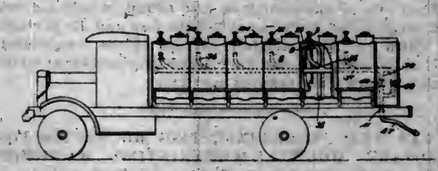


A roofing unit having a serrated lower edge, said serrations comprising triangular projections of such a size as to be substantially indistinguishable as such at the ordinary distance of an observer from a roof, the edges of said projections thus blending to present a shadow effect wider than that cast by a straight edge of the same material.

1,748,982. AUTOMATIC DRAIN. JAMES J. HENNESSY, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 25, 1928. Serial No. 302,071. 6 Claims. (Cl. 210—51.)

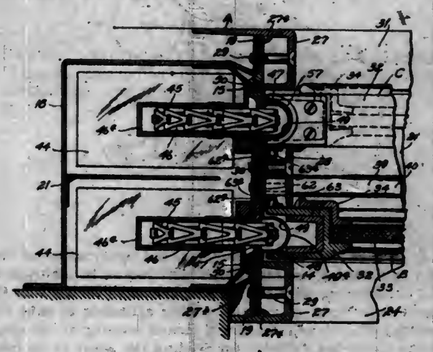
1. In a device for automatically draining relatively incohesive fluid from a container for more viscous fluid, a body having a bore communicating at opposite ends with the interior and exterior of the container, a plug in said bore with its wall so spaced from the wall of said bore as to permit the passage of water and prevent the passage of oil, and means yieldingly supporting the weight of said plug.

1,748,983. CONTROL INSTRUMENT. ROBERT HOFSTETTER, Downers Grove, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 13, 1927. Serial No. 183,336. 4 Claims. (Cl. 200—56.)



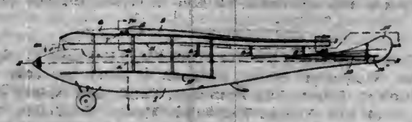
1. In an electrical control system, a circuit controlling mechanism comprising a reciprocable member, a fluid contact switch pivotally carried thereby, a pinion secured to said contact switch, a reciprocable rack operatively engaging the pinion, and means for reciprocating the member to cause a reciprocatory movement of the rack.

1,748,984. INTERCHANGEABLE-CHARACTER-LOCKING DEVICE. MICHAEL J. HOGAN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Apr. 18, 1927. Serial No. 184,703. 6 Claims. (Cl. 40—140.)



1. A device of the character described comprising a base having a slot therein, a character plate having a projection on the back thereof of less width than said slot whereby it may be readily inserted in said slot, said projection having a recess in one side thereof adapted to receive one edge of said slot and means adjustably mounted on said base for engaging the side of said projection opposite said recess and locking the character plate in position.

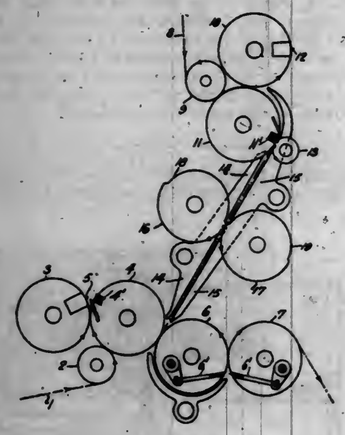
1,748,985. LIQUID-DELIVERY DEVICE. RAYMOND STEWART HUNICKE, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to The Barrett Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Mar. 15, 1927. Serial No. 175,538. 6 Claims. (Cl. 221—95.)



1. In a liquid delivery device the combination which comprises, a container for the liquid, a main withdrawal pipe, valve controlled auxiliary withdrawal pipes communicating with said main withdrawal pipe, all pipes terminating in said container and said auxiliary pipes terminating at higher levels than the main pipe, and at different levels in said container and suction means connected with the main pipe exteriorly of the container for withdrawing liquid from said container, whereby the withdrawal of liquid from the container may be interrupted when the level of the liquid therein reaches the level of the termination of any auxiliary pipe selected.,

1,748,986. METAL WINDOW. ALFRED M. LANE, St. Louis, Mo. Filed Dec. 17, 1927. Serial No. 240,656. 11 Claims. (Cl. 182—72.)

1. A window comprising jambs, a lower sash slidable between said jambs, sash cords or the like connected to said sash for balancing the same, guard members mounted on the sash opposing faces of said jambs and extending from the top of said sash in the lowered position thereof to the upper portions of said jambs, said sash cords extending between said jambs and said guard members, and a bracket removably secured to the top of said sash at each end thereof and slidably engaging the portions of the guard members which cover said sash cords.



1,748,987. AEROPLANE. BERT MESSICK, Lansing, Mich. Refiled for abandoned application Serial No. 44,683, filed July 20, 1925. This application filed Apr. 12, 1929. Serial No. 354,671. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—12.)

1. In an aeroplane, a fuselage, and an airfoil above said fuselage, said airfoil being secured to said fuselage intermediate of the span of said airfoil, and said airfoil including fore and aft portions approximately parallel to the longitudinal axis of the plane and an intermediate portion connecting said fore and aft portions, said intermediate portion declining rearwardly towards the longitudinal axis of said aeroplane, said airfoil including a central longitudinal girder or spine, the fore and aft portions of which are approximately parallel to the longitudinal axis of the aeroplane and the intermediate portion of which declines rearwardly towards said axis.

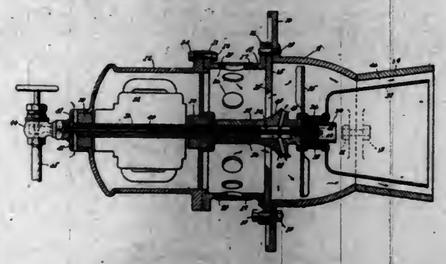
1,748,988. SHEET-INSETTING MECHANISM FOR ROTARY MULTIPLE-WEB-PRINTING MACHINES. EDWARD THOMAS MORRIS, London, England, assignor to R. Hoe & Co. Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 24, 1926, Serial No. 124,737, and in Great Britain July 29, 1925. 10 Claims. (Cl. 270—48.)

1. In a sheet insetting machine, the combination of cutting cylinders, a collecting cylinder, means in addition to and cooperating with the cutting cylinders for feeding the sheet to be inset from said cutting cylinders to said collecting cylinder, and additional means running at the speed of the collecting cylinder for feeding the sheet to be inset located between the first said means and the collecting cylinder and having provision for releasing the sheet.

1,748,989. PROCESS FOR TREATING SILICEOUS MINERALS. ARTHUR J. MOXHAM, Odessa, Del., assignor to Electro Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 25, 1924. Serial No. 752,164. 4 Claims. (Cl. 23—32.)

1. The method of treating siliceous minerals containing potassium, aluminum and ferric iron in combined form which consists in treating the mineral with sulfuric acid, converting said ingredients into sulfates in solution, separating the solution from the residue, crystallizing out a part of the potassium and aluminum sulfates as potash-alum, separating the crystals from the mother liquor, and precipitating the ferric sulfate and the remainder of the potassium and aluminum sulfates in strong sulfuric acid.



1,748,990. ACOUSTIC DIAPHRAGM. EVERETT C. NILSON, Worcester, Mass., assignor of forty per cent to Ralph G. Nilson, San Francisco, Calif., and twenty per cent to Nils Nilson, Worcester, Mass. Filed Dec. 16, 1927. Serial No. 240,596. 21 Claims. (Cl. 181—32.)

1. In a sound amplifying device, a diaphragm, said diaphragm comprising a cone and a truncated cone surrounding said cone, the lesser circumference of said truncated cone and the circumference of said cone being coincident, the statical moment of said diaphragm about an axis passing through the apex of said cone and perpendicular to the axis of said cone being approximately zero.

1,748,991. OIL BURNER. HODGSON S. PIERCE, Detroit, Mich., assignor to The Cope Swift Company, Inc., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Jan. 26, 1928. Serial No. 249,535. 9 Claims. (Cl. 158—77.)

1. In combination, a casing, a motor supported at one end thereof provided with a hollow shaft, a vaporizing cup at the opposite end of said casing driven by said motor, and an air displacing device fixed on said shaft between said motor and said cup and driven thereby, the interior of said shaft being connected with the low pressure area adjacent said device whereby air will be drawn through said shaft upon rotation of said motor.

1,748,992. FOAM-GENERATING TANK. WILLIAM R. PIRSCH, Kenosha, Wis., assignor to Peter Pirsch and Sons Co., Kenosha, Wis., a Firm composed of Peter Pirsch, W. R. Pirsch, and Cella Pirsch Even. Filed Sept. 20, 1926. Serial No. 136,549. 2 Claims. (Cl. 169—32.)

1. A foam generating tank comprising an outer container, an inner container pivotally mounted therein and having an open and a closed end, said open end portion being bent at substantially a right angle to form a spout, and means for rotating the inner container on its pivot to reverse the position of the spout and to thereby cause the contents of the inner container to be discharged into the outer container.

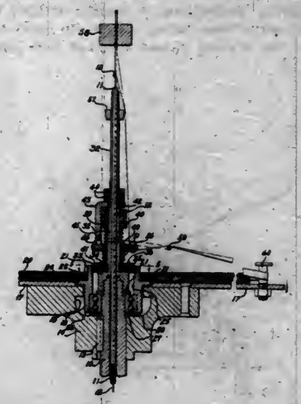
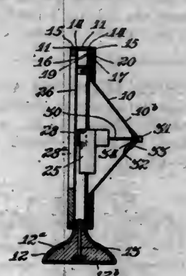
1,748,993. ELECTRICAL COIL AND METHOD OF MANUFACTURING IT. CHESTER ARTHUR PURDY, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 19, 1926. Serial No. 142,561. 10 Claims. (Cl. 175—356.)

9. An inductance coil having a core formed of a plurality of substantially identical semi-toroids spaced apart at diametrically opposite points, and a non-magnetic cementing material in the space between the semi-toroids to allow for adjustment of the air gap between the semi-toroids and upon its solidification integrally uniting the semi-toroids.



1,748,994. WOOD-HEEL-TURNING MACHINE. RALPH LESLIE RAYMOND, Montreal, Quebec, Canada, assignor to Dominion Wood Heel Corporation, Limited, Montreal, Canada, a Corporation. Filed Dec. 30, 1926. Serial No. 157,999. 13 Claims. (Cl. 12—87.)

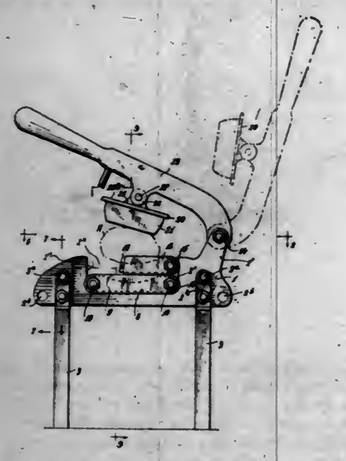


1. A wood heel turning machine comprising a frame, a pair of lower brackets slidably mounted thereon, curved arms extending from the brackets, a lower track having its ends pivoted to said brackets, and cylindrical rests eccentrically journaled in the free ends of said arms and supporting said track.

1,748,995. SERVING APPARATUS. LESTER OSWALD REICHELT and JOHN JAMES ROHLOFF, Oak Park, Ill., assignors to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 5, 1927. Serial No. 196,587. 9 Claims. (Cl. 117—41.)

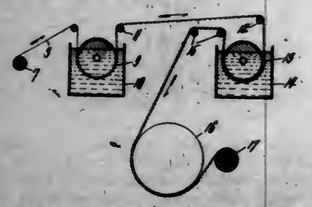
1. In a serving apparatus, a driving element, a driven element carrying material to be served to a core, means intermediate said elements for communicating power to the driven element from the driving element, coaxially arranged elements acting in opposite directions associated with the power communicating means for normally causing the communication of a predetermined amount of power to the driven element, and means responsive to the tension of the material being served for varying the action of the elements acting in opposite directions to change the action of the power communicating means.

1,748,996. LOUD-SPEAKER. FRANK J. REICHMANN, Chicago, Ill. Filed May 6, 1926. Serial No. 107,046. 16 Claims. (Cl. 181—31.)



1. In a cone type sound reproducer, a composite tympanum having a flat, annular portion, and a central conical portion, annular non-vibrating members secured in compensating relationship to the periphery of said annular portion, and means for imparting vibration to said composite tympanum, and in which said non-vibrating members comprise a pair of annular metal members having a facing of felt disposed adjacent said tympanum.

1,748,997. CUTTING OR SLICING DEVICE. COSTAS G. RENTOS, New York, N. Y. Filed May 3, 1927. Serial No. 188,453. 1 Claim. (Cl. 146—169.)



A device of the character described comprising a frame having an inner opening, a cutter member provided with spaced cutters disconnected from one another between their ends, adapted to be removably supported upon the frame in register with said opening, a second cutter member provided with spaced cutters disconnected from one another between their ends, adapted to be located over the first named cutter member with the cutters of the second named member parallel with and above the first named cutters and out of vertical register therewith, the second named cutters being in register with the spaces between the first named cutters, a member pivotally supported by the frame to operate over the cutters, and a presser pivotally hung from said member to have unobstructed swinging motion in the plane of the cutters, said presser having projections to engage articles on the cutters, said projections being spaced to pass between the cutters of the second named member and located in position to oppose the cutters of the first named member, the pivotal supporting of the presser causing it to accommodate itself to the shapes of different articles on the cutters, the second named cutters operating to cut parallel slices from an article and the first named cutters operating to cut said slices into parallel pieces as the said projections pass between the second named cutters into engagement with the first named cutters.

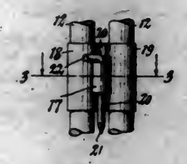
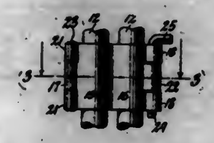
1,748,998. COMPOSITE SHEETING AND METHOD OF MAKING. GEORGE A. RICHTER, Berlin, N. H., assignor to Brown Company, Berlin, N. H., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Oct. 6, 1928. Serial No. 310,710. 3 Claims. (Cl. 92—41.)



3. A method of making a reinforced pulp web, which comprises progressively passing wire screening about a cylinder mould rotating in a pulp suspension to deposit a layer of pulp on one side of the screening, progressively passing it about a second cylinder mould rotating in a pulp suspension with the layer of pulp thereon contacting with the mould to deposit a layer of pulp on the other side of the screening, and drying the resulting composite web.

1,748,999. CLEANING FLUID. CHARLES F. RUDZENIA, Oakland, Calif. Filed Mar. 1, 1927. Serial No. 171,912. 1 Claim. (Cl. 87—5.)



As a composition of matter, a cleaning fluid formed by mixing the following ingredients in the following proportions: fatty acids 33%; pine oil 15%; potash 5%; water 10%; soft petrolatum 5%; benzine 4½%; alcohol 1¼%; acetone 12½%; banana oil ½%; cocoanut oil ¾%; and hydrocarbon solvent 12½%.

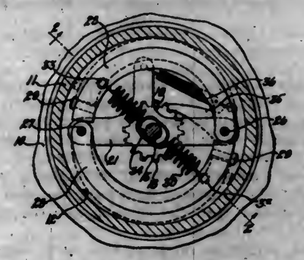
1,749,000. COUPLING FOR FENCE POSTS. JOHN C. SCHEELER, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Buffalo Wire Works Co., Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 27, 1928. Serial No. 328,705. 3 Claims. (Cl. 256—1.)

1. A coupling for connecting two fence posts or like members, comprising two plates which normally oppose each other and each of which is provided at its opposite ends with jaws adapted to engage with the corresponding sides of said members and said plates having loops which cross each other, and a pin insertable between said crossed loops.

1,749,001. COUPLING FOR FENCE POSTS AND THE LIKE. JOHN C. SCHEELER, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Buffalo Wire Works Co. Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 18, 1929. Serial No. 333,262. 3 Claims. (Cl. 256—1.)

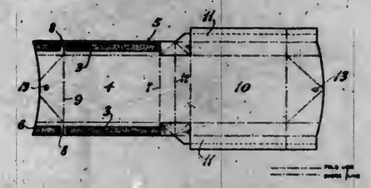
2. A coupling for connecting two fence posts or like members, comprising two plates which normally oppose each other and each of which is provided intermediate of its ends with two jaws adapted to engage with the corresponding sides of said members, pivot eyes arranged on one pair of the corresponding ends of said plates, a pivot pin passing through said eyes, locking eyes arranged on the other corresponding pair of ends of said plates and crossing each other, and a locking pin insertable between said crossed locking eyes.

1,749,002. WRENCH. JOHN J. SCHNEIDER and EDWARD NESTER, Buffalo, N. Y. Filed Dec. 6, 1927. Serial No. 238,082. 3 Claims. (Cl. 81—165.)



1. A wrench including a handle, relatively movable jaws carried by said handle, a rack on one of said jaws cooperating to effect relative movement of said jaws, a knurled worm moving said rack and means for locking said jaws comprising a spring detent fixed at one end to said handle and having a tooth at its outer end which is adapted to be moved into and out of engagement with the knurled surface of said worm, and means for moving said spring detent into and out of engagement with said worm comprising an element having a reduced shank arranged in registering slots provided in said handle and spring detent and heads arranged along opposite sides thereof, said element being movable along said slots to compress said spring detent toward said handle, said element being operable from opposite sides of the wrench.

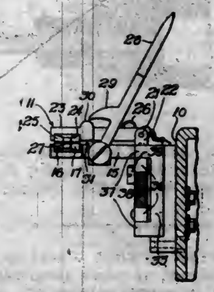
1,749,003. MERCERIZED WOOD-FIBER TISSUE AND PROCESS OF PREPARING SAME. MILTON O. SCHUR and ROYAL H. RASCH, Berlin, N. H., assignors to Brown Company, Berlin, N. H., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Jan. 5, 1927. Serial No. 159,285. 20 Claims. (Cl. 260—146.)



4. That step which comprises treating a wood fiber web with a caustic soda solution of mercerizing strength containing an oxidant, washing the web substantially free from treating chemicals, and converting into a cellulose derivative.

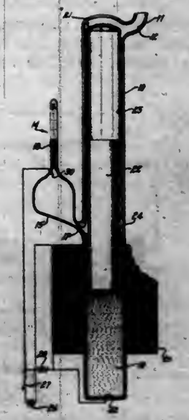
1,749,004. SPEED-REGULATING DEVICE. MARION LLEWLLYN STRAWN, La Grange, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 13, 1927. Serial No. 183,425. 6 Claims. (Cl. 188—134.)

1. In a centrifugal governor, a stationary cup-shaped member, a rotatable member, means movable on the rotatable member comprising a pair of arcuate diametrically oppositely pivoted members, means secured to each of said members for frictional braking engagement with a surface of the stationary member in response to centrifugal force, means normally causing said members to be drawn inwardly an equal amount to disengage the frictional means from the surface of the stationary member, and means for adjusting the rotatable member along its axis of rotation for varying the braking force applied by the pivoted members upon said surface and thereby the speed of rotation of the rotatable member.



1,749,005. MULTIPLEX BAG. WILLIAM L. TAYLOR, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed July 22, 1927. Serial No. 207,675. 2 Claims. (Cl. 229—55.)

1. A multiplex bag having outwardly extending ears and comprising a cover and liner, the liner being entirely removed or cut out in that portion of the bag which forms the ears to permit said ears to be perfectly and compactly folded against the bottom of the bag.



1,749,006. CLAMPING DEVICE. BRUNO MAX ALFRED TREBES, Oak Park, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed June 20, 1923. Serial No. 646,729. 1 Claim. (Cl. 219—4.)

The combination with an apparatus for electrically brazing articles, of a pair of clamping devices each comprising a pair of jaw members, one of which is pivotally mounted with respect to the other, means for resiliently urging the pivoted clamping device about its pivot and toward the other clamping device to exert a pressure upon the abutting ends of the articles to be brazed, and a lever pivoted on one of the jaw members of each clamping device, said lever having a plurality of cam surfaces which engage the other jaw member to move it between its open and closed positions and to selectively lock it in such positions.

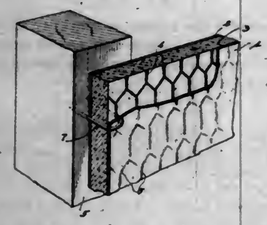
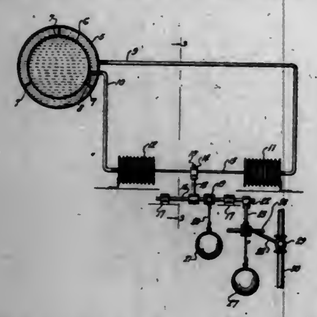
1,749,007. PRESSURE-GAUGING APPARATUS. CHARLES WALES, La Grange, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 20, 1926. Serial No. 149,570. 12 Claims. (Cl. 73—31.)



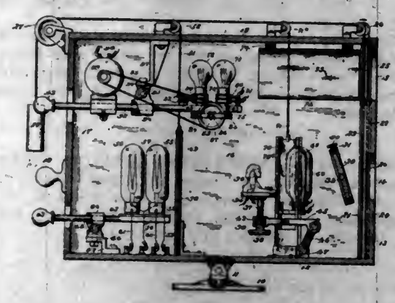
1. In a pressure gauge, a liquid retaining means, a liquid medium contained therein, a pressure registering means for communication with a pressure system and connected with the retaining means, and means operable within the retaining means for introducing liquid from the retaining means into the registering means.

1,749,008. INSULATING MATERIAL. HOWARD GEORGE WALKER, La Grange, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 31, 1927. Serial No. 216,625. 2 Claims. (Cl. 106—13.)



1. An insulating material comprising approximately 50 to 55% rubber, 18 to 23% hard rubber dust, 15 to 5% silica gel, 7.75% zinc oxide, 6.25% litharge, 2% sulphur, and 1% paraffin.

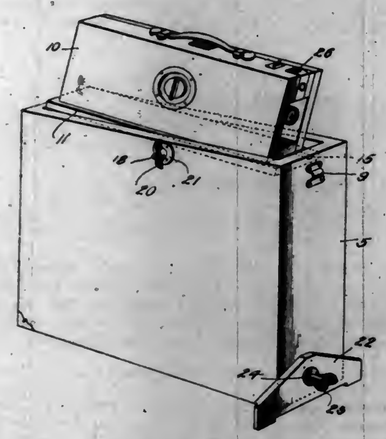
1,749,009. PLASTER BOARD. CURRY O. WALPER, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by mesne assignments, to United States Gypsum Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 23, 1926. Serial No. 124,355. 6 Claims. (Cl. 154—45.9.)



1. In a board having a core interposed between sheets of facing material, a reinforcing wire fabric interposed between one of said sheets and said core.

1,749,010. HEAT-ACTUATED DEVICE. CORNELIUS G. WEBER, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Jan. 12, 1928. Serial No. 246,284. 10 Claims. (Cl. 137—161.)

1. A heat actuated device comprising actuating mechanism, means normally engaging said actuating mechanism to hold the same in inoperative position, thermostatic means rapidly influenced by rapid changes in temperature for controlling said engaging means, and a second thermostatic means affected less rapidly than the first mentioned thermostatic means by rapid changes in temperature, but affected the same in substantially the same length of time by slow temperature changes for preventing the first mentioned thermostatic means from operating the engaging means when a slow temperature change occurs.



1,749,011. LIGHT-PROJECTION DISPLAY. THOMAS WILFRED, Huntington, N. Y. Filed Aug. 30, 1924. Serial No. 735,168. 28 Claims. (Cl. 272—10.)

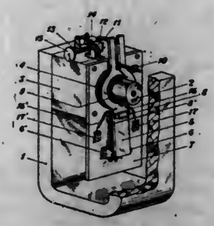
8. The art of light projection display comprising projecting upon a curtain through a lens a beam of light and interposing an object in the light path behind the lens to cast its shadow while at the same time independently illuminating the object to develop details of the object on the projected shadow, namely by maintaining within the object an interior source of light separate from the beam of light projected upon the curtain, and the object having light transmitting walls.

10. Light projection display apparatus comprising a front lens, a filamentary source of light to the rear of the lens, means for holding a three dimensional object in the light path between the light source and lens to throw its shadow, means for rotating the holding means about an axis crossing the light path between the light source and lens, means for simultaneously illuminating the front of the rotating object, and means for cooperatively operating the rotating means and progressively moving the light source during projection.

1,749,012. CAMERA CARRYING AND SUPPORTING MEANS. THOMAS CARROLL WILLSON, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed Nov. 14, 1927. Serial No. 233,168. 14 Claims. (Cl. 95—86.)

1. A camera carrying and supporting means comprising a case, means for supporting a camera at the upper end of said case, and adjustable means for supporting the latter in desired angular relation with a supporting surface.

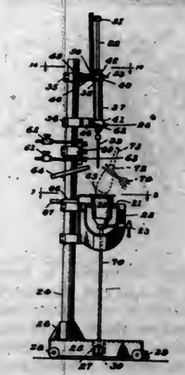
1,749,013. AIR BAG AND METHOD OF MANUFACTURING SAME. WILLIAM S. WOLFE, Akron, and JESSE R. CROSSAN, Wadsworth, Ohio, assignors to Seiberling Rubber Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 19, 1926. Serial No. 142,553. 17 Claims. (Cl. 18—59.)



1. The method of producing an inflatable former, which consists in building the former of a plurality of continuous annular sections of unvulcanized rubber, said sections differing from each other in cross-sectional configuration, vulcanizing the sections separately, and uniting the vulcanized sections under internal pressure to form a complete whole.

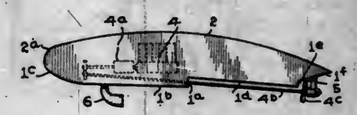
1,749,014. MANUFACTURE OF BINAPHTHYLENEDIOXIDE-QUINONE. LUDWIG ZEH, Wiesdorf-on-the-Rhine, Germany, assignor to General Aniline Works, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 4, 1928, Serial No. 310,443, and in Germany Oct. 13, 1927. 4 Claims. (Cl. 260—54.)

1. Process which comprises reacting upon finely divided binaphthylene dioxide suspended in water with chromic acid at a temperature between about 20–50° C.



1,749,015. METER. FREDERICK C. BISBEE, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 14, 1927. Serial No. 239,931. 4 Claims. (Cl. 175—339.)

1. In combination, a magnet having adjacent pole pieces, a coil armature adapted to move between said pole pieces, pivotal means supporting said armature, and magnetic means fastened to said armature and adapted to be influenced by said magnet.



1,749,016. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR MAKING TUBING. HARRY R. BOALS, Corning, N. Y., assignor to Corning Glass Works, Corning, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 8, 1927. Serial No. 238,565. 7 Claims. (Cl. 49—29.)

2. In an apparatus for shaping tube blanks, a base, a standard thereon, a yoke supported on the standard, a mold pivotally mounted in the yoke, said mold having a punty receiving opening in its bottom wall, a punty extending through said opening with its moil end disposed within the mold, means on the base for engaging the handle end of the punty to prevent accidental movement of the mold and a reciprocating plunger carried by the standard above the mold and adapted to be projected into the mold.

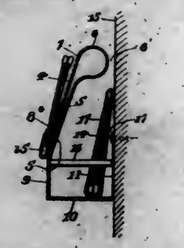
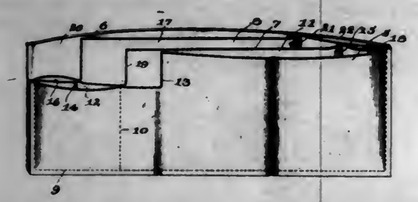
1,749,017. SPEED BOAT. HENRY LOWE BROWNBACK, Norristown, Pa., assignor to Brownback Motor Laboratories, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 18, 1925. Serial No. 57,185. 1 Claim. (Cl. 114—66.5.)



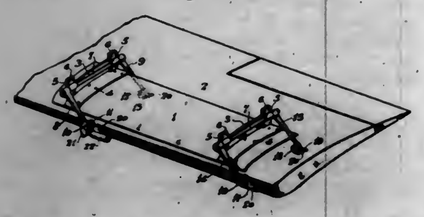
A water borne craft comprising a hull of truss construction, substantially rectangular in plan, having an aerodynamic upper surface conforming substantially with an aerofoil curve extending the entire length of the hull from bow to stern, and having a stepped hydrodynamic bottom surface of corresponding length; said hull having a relatively small cock-pit set therein flush with the upper surface; and means associated with the hull for propelling the same.

1,749,018. SLACK ADJUSTER. CHARLES ALBERT CAMPBELL, Watertown, N. Y., assignor to The New York Air Brake Company, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 17, 1925. Serial No. 44,303. 11 Claims. (Cl. 188—200.)



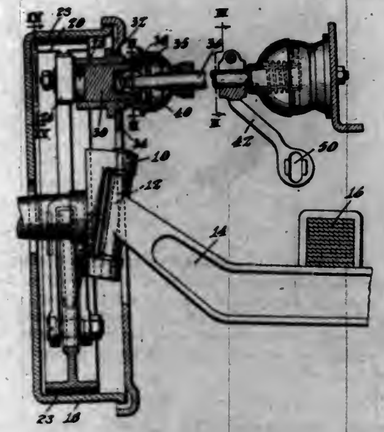
1. The combination with an air brake cylinder unit including a tubular piston rod, of a ratchet thrust member in telescoping relation with said rod; a slack adjuster of the ratchet type supported by said rod and forming a self adjusted driving connection between said rod and thrust member; a second thrust member adapted for connection with brake rigging and in telescoping thrust relation with said ratchet thrust member, and said ratchet thrust member being rotatable relatively to said second thrust member and to said tubular piston rod; and releasable means for locking said ratchet thrust member against rotation.

1,749,019. MATCH HOLDER. JOHN LEE CLARKE, Forest Hills, N. Y. Filed Mar. 17, 1928. Serial No. 262,347. 7 Claims. (Cl. 206—20.)



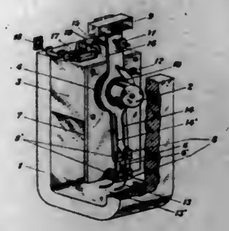
1. A match holder comprising a rearwardly inclined base having means on one end adapted to support same in an inclined position, a rearwardly and forwardly extending resilient loop on the opposite end of the base, a downwardly extending clamping arm projected from said loop and arranged in opposed relation to the base and cooperating with the latter to secure a match book thereon.

1,749,020. BILL FOLD. JOHN A. CURRY, Mount Vernon, Ala. Filed Mar. 28, 1928. Serial No. 265,405. 5 Claims. (Cl. 150—38.)



1. A billfold including front and rear walls, longitudinal dividing walls extending the length of the bill fold, said walls being stitched to each other by vertical stitchings at spaced points intermediate their respective lengths to form pockets placed in offset arrangement.

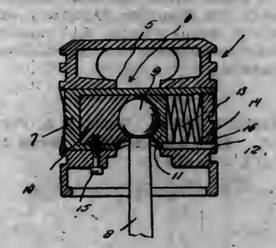
1,749,021. AEROPLANE. EDWARD H. DAVIS, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Feb. 22, 1929. Serial No. 341,861. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—12.)



In combination with an aerofoil for aeroplanes, an automatic air deflector comprising, in combination, an elongated vane, right angle brackets carried by said vane, bearing straps carried by said brackets, a pair of shafts rotatably mounted in said bearing straps, a pair of levers pivotally mounted on the ends of each shaft, means for pivotally mounting the lower end of each lever to the upper surface of said aerofoil, and positive means for raising said levers comprising a tubular member anchored to the aerofoil, a plunger movably mounted within said tubular member, a spring to normally move said plunger outwardly from said tubular member, and an arm fixed to one of said levers and adapted to engage said plunger, for the purposes specified.

1,749,022. BRAKING OF WHEELS. ADIEL Y. DODGE, South Bend, Ind., assignor to Bendix Brake Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Feb. 23, 1927. Serial No. 170,133. 17 Claims. (Cl. 188—194.)

1. A king pin, a wheel and a brake therefor arranged to turn on said king pin, a universal joint for operating the brake comprising a first axis extending generally transverse to the direction of the king pin axis and a second axis perpendicular to the first axis, said second axis, when the brake is set, being tilted out of the plane perpendicular to the straight forward position of the wheel plane and passing through the king pin axis.



1,749,023. METER. WILLIAM H. EDWARDS, Flushing, N. Y., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 14, 1927. Serial No. 239,935. 8 Claims. (Cl. 175—339.)

1. In combination, a magnet having concentric pole pieces, a coil armature adapted to move between said pole pieces, and resilient means fastened to and supporting said armature at one end thereof and tending to center said armature at its midposition, the weight of said armature being adapted to counteract the force exerted on said armature by said resilient means.

1,749,024. PISTON PIN. WILLIAM E. FENNEL, Jr., Moberly, Mo. Filed May 7, 1928. Serial No. 275,839. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—108.)

1. As a new product of manufacture, a piston pin comprising a cylinder closed at one end, a sectional core arranged in said cylinder and embodying relatively stationary and movable sections, said sections having their adjacent portions provided with semi-spherical recesses cooperating in producing a spherical socket for connection of a ball joint connector, together with spring means arranged in one end portion of the cylinder and cooperable with the relatively movable section.

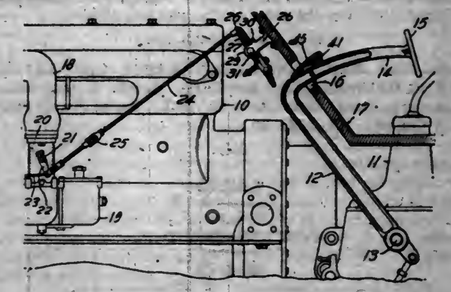
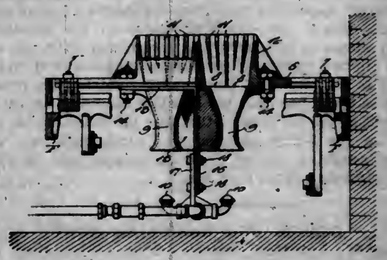
1,749,025. PIECED-CLOTH FORMATION. EMIL GALATI, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 14, 1927. Serial No. 226,188. 2 Claims. (Cl. 112—262.)

1. A pieced cloth formation comprising a channeled edging stitched on the contiguous edges of the pieces joined, and a stitched connection through the crowns of the said edgings in a plane parallel with and adjacent one surface of the joined pieces, said stitches lying entirely within the plane formed by said pieces.



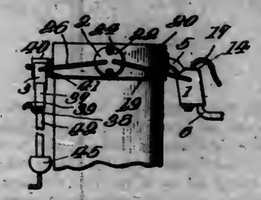
1,749,026. CINEMATOGRAPHIC MACHINE. AUGUSTO GENTILINI, Rome, Italy, assignor to Società Anonima Radio, Rome, Italy. Filed Aug. 28, 1926, Serial No. 132,299, and in Italy Sept. 11, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.8.)



1. A cinematographic machine comprising a rotating cylinder having a toothed crown for engaging the perforations of the film, a plurality of lenses disposed on the periphery of said cylinder, a light source, a condenser disposed between said light source and said cylinder, said lenses being arranged to occupy a position spaced from the film a distance corresponding to the focal length of the lenses, a fixed diaphragm disposed in front of said rotating cylinder between said cylinder and said condenser and adapted to limit the field of action of the lenses having substantially a rectilineous movement, said film being adapted to pass in front of said condenser, and a fixed prism arranged in the interior of the rotating cylinder for deflecting the light beams onto a screen from the condenser after having passed through said film and the said objectives.

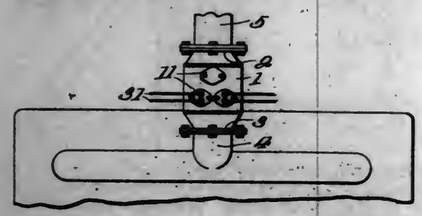
1,749,027. ATTACHMENT FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. FRED C. GOLDSMITH, Houston, Tex. Filed May 10, 1928. Serial No. 276,787. 17 Claims. (Cl. 192—01.)

13. A device of the character described comprising a pair of associated operating members one connected to the clutch pedal of a motor vehicle and the other to the throttle of the carbureter thereof, said members being adapted to coact to effect opening movement of the throttle as the clutch pedal approaches operative position and being ineffective for causing movement of the throttle upon movement of the clutch pedal toward inoperative position, said members being wholly disengaged when the clutch pedal is in operative position.



1,749,028. SMOKE CONSUMER. JOHN W. HULSON, Keokuk, Iowa, assignor to Hulson Grate Company, Incorporated, Keokuk, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed Sept. 13, 1928. Serial No. 305,764. 8 Claims. (Cl. 110—60.)

1. A smoke consumer for furnaces, comprising a Venturi tube, means for mounting said Venturi tube in a substantially vertical position, a fluid nozzle at the lower end of said tube for upwardly directing a blast of fluid therethrough to induce ascent of air through the tube, a continuous upwardly opening wall around the upper end of said Venturi tube, and a plurality of upwardly diverging webs spanning the space within said wall for diffusing the air and fluid ascending through said tube.



1,749,029. VAPORIZER FOR HYDROCARBON ENGINES. JAMES W. INGLETON, Astoria, Oreg. Filed Aug. 18, 1925. Serial No. 50,961. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—133.)

1. A charge forming device for hydrocarbon engines including in combination, a vaporising chamber, means for supplying hydrocarbon oil to said chamber, means for utilising the exhaust gases from said engine for vaporising the oil in said chamber, a superheater closed to the atmosphere projecting into the combustion chamber, means for passing the vaporized oil from the vaporizing chamber through said superheater whereby said vaporized oil is superheated and further vaporized in the absence of air, and means for mixing air with the superheated vaporized oil and directing the same to the engine cylinder.

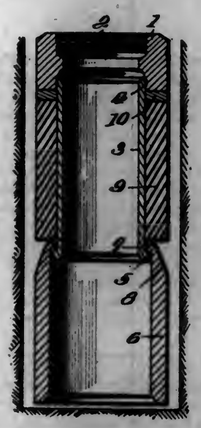
1,749,030. EXPLOSIVE-FUEL-MIXTURE GENERATOR FOR HYDROCARBON ENGINES. JAMES W. INGLETON, Astoria, Oreg. Filed Aug. 18, 1925. Serial No. 50,962. 3 Claims. (Cl. 123—25.)

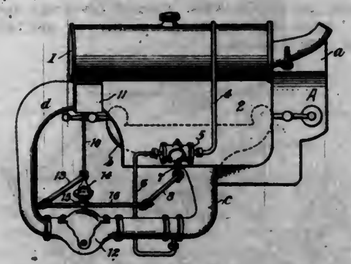
1. A vaporizer for hydrocarbon engines comprising a casing, means for passing the exhaust gases from the engine through said casing, a plurality of generating chambers located in said casing and connected one to another, means for supplying oil to one of said chambers whereby the oil fed thereto will be vaporized and caused to pass into another chamber, means for leading the vaporized oil from said last named chamber out through the casing into an air mixer, means for regulating the supply of oil to said chambers, means for supplying water to the chambers whereby steam is generated and intermixed with the vaporized oil, and means for regulating the amount of water supplied to the chambers, the chamber receiving the vaporized oil being higher than the chamber receiving the oil to be vaporized and inclined so that any oil collecting on the bottom of the higher chamber will drain back into the chamber receiving the oil from the supply and be subjected to further vaporizing heat.

1,749,031. DEVICE FOR GASIFYING HEAVY OILS. JAMES W. INGLETON, Astoria, Oreg. Filed June 10, 1926. Serial No. 114,985. 2 Claims. (Cl. 48—107.)



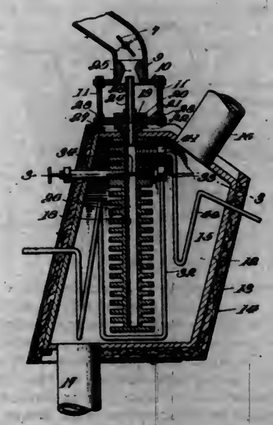
2. A device for gasifying heavy oils, comprising a casing, an inclined partition dividing said casing into an upper oil vaporizing chamber and a lower combustion chamber, a pipe extending through the upper wall of the casing for feeding heavy oil on to the inclined partition, said upper wall having a series of openings whereby said pipe may be shifted and the heavy oil fed onto said inclined partition at different distances from the lower end thereof, means for collecting the heavy constituents separating from the oil on said inclined partition and supplying the same to the combustion chamber for burning, said combustion chamber having an air intake, a cross partition in said combustion chamber forming a compartment, a pipe extending from said compartment through said inclined partition to a point above the same for directing the vaporized heavy oils from the vaporizing chamber into said compartment, means whereby said vaporized oil may be led from said compartment, and means for supplying air to the vaporized oil.

1,749,032. SLEEVE FORM. WILLIAM A. FINKEL, Washington, D. C. Filed May 2, 1928. Serial No. 274,657. 1 Claim. (Cl. 223—18.2.)



A sleeve-form for use with garments otherwise supported on body forms, comprising a flexible inflatable body having an exterior outline corresponding to that of a garment sleeve, means to permit inflation of the body for distension within the sleeve of the garment, and a flexible friction tab extending from the upper end of the body to be inserted and frictionally held between the body-form and garment beyond the sleeve to support the sleeve-form within the sleeve, the flexibility of the tab permitting a particular sleeve-form to be used with either garment sleeve.

1,749,033. BOTTOM HOLE PACKER. CHARLEY W. FISHER, Coffeyville, Kans., assignor to Robinson Packer Company, Tulsa, Okla., a Corporation of Oklahoma. Filed July 2, 1926. Serial No. 120,133. 6 Claims. (Cl. 166—10.)

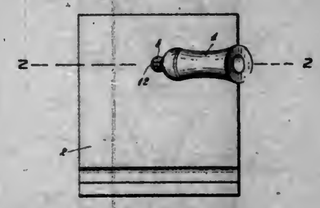


2. A bottom hole packer comprising a pair of telescoping sections, one of the sections being provided with a packing sleeve and a packing ring, the other section being provided with a tapering portion to expand the packing sleeve and adapted to engage the packing ring so as to seal the space between the telescoping sections.

1,749,034. AUTOMATIC THERMOSTATIC AUTO FUEL MIXER. IRL W. HUMPHREY, Terre Haute, Ind. Filed Feb. 12, 1927. Serial No. 167,748. 1 Claim. (Cl. 123—25.)

In an automatic thermostatic auto-fuel mixer, the combination with an internal combustion engine, of a water-container, mounted upon and adapted to be heated by contact with the manifold of said engine, a metal apron attached to and pendent from said water-container and side of the crank-case of the engine, a tube in fluid-passage connection with the top of said water-container, and a cutoff-valve located in said tube, a tube leading from said cutoff-valve to an inlet provided at the base of the intake of the engine, a forked lever fixed upon the projecting end of the valve-stem of said cutoff-valve, a thermostatic member comprising a coil-spring attached to said apron and adapted to expand when heated by radiation from the engine, and a shaft attached at its upper end to the free end of said coil-spring, a forked-lever fixed upon the lower end of said shaft, a connection-rod pivotally connecting the outer ends of said two forked-levers, a fork-like connection mounted upon the extreme lower end of said shaft and in oprative connection with the stem of the needle-valve of the carburetor of the engine, a lever fixed upon said shaft and adapted to operate in unison with the lever attached to the valve-stem of said valve, a connecting-rod extending between said two levers and adapted to operate the said two valves in unison.

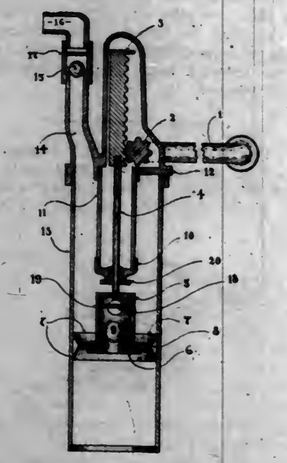
1,749,035. VAPORIZER FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. JAMES WILLIAM INGLETON, Astoria, Oreg. Filed Mar. 19, 1925. Serial No. 16,743. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—188.)



1. A carburetor comprising a casing forming an outer chamber, a vertically disposed member located within said outer chamber and having a vaporizing chamber formed therein, means for passing the exhaust gases from a hydrocarbon engine through said outer chamber for heating the vaporizing chamber, a supply tank associated with said casing, a pipe leading from the supply into the outer chamber and in a circuitous path in said chamber to an intake port formed in the wall of the member located in the casing for feeding oil to the vaporizing chamber, a needle valve for controlling said intake port, said intake port being disposed at an elevation above the surface of the oil in the supply tank whereby the oil is drawn from the tank into the vaporizing chamber by the suction force of the engine, said member containing the vaporizing chamber being circular in cross section and having horizontally projecting ribs, said ribs extending from one side of the casing to the other, the intake for the exhaust gases being at one side of said member and the outlet at the other whereby the exhaust gases pass between the ribs for heating said member.

1,749,036. EXTENSION DEVICE. JOSEPH N. KUEHNE, Bellevue, Ky., assignor to The Wadsworth Watch Case Company, Dayton, Ky., Corporation of Kentucky. Filed Aug. 5, 1927. Serial No. 210,850. 11 Claims. (Cl. 24—71.)

1. In means of the character described, a pair of bands, a folding section disposed between the inner end of each of said bands comprising a link and a housing, said housing having inturned spaced apart flanges provided with a series of pairs of spaced apart slots and hingedly connected to said link at their inner ends, the inner end of one of said bands being hingedly attached to the outer end of said link, the inner end of the other band having an upturned lip adapted for engagement within a selected pair of said spaced apart slots in said housing for longitudinal adjustment of said last mentioned band relative to said housing, and locking means for holding said housing in nested relation with said link.



1,749,037. SUPPORT FOR FOUNTAIN-PEN HOLDERS. DAVID J. LA FRANCE, Cambridge, Mass., assignor to The Carter's Ink Company, Cambridge, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed Mar. 1, 1928. Serial No. 258,173. 2 Claims. (Cl. 120—108.)

1. In a support of the swiveling type for the holder of a fountain pen, a base having a socket opening from the under side of the base and presenting a concave surface on its interior, said base having also a hole extending from the top surface thereof into said socket, a pin having a head extending above said base and a shank extending through the hole in the base with extension into the socket therein, said pin having also a flange with frictional bearing against the top surface of the base around the hole in it, a tightening nut on said shank of the pin inside said socket, a flat spring interposed and tensioned between said nut and the concave surface of the socket in the base with the ends of the spring gripping said surface, and means for pivotally mounting said holder on the head of said pin.

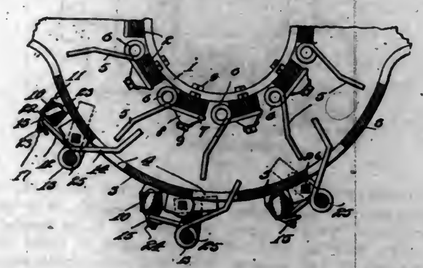
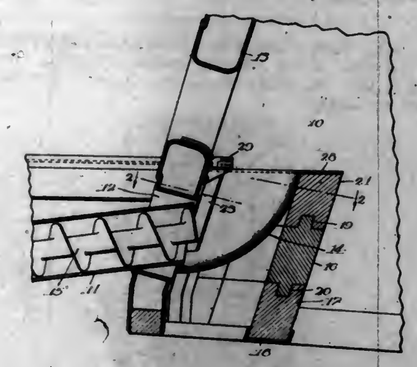
1,749,038. PUMP UNIT. JESSE D. LANGDON, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Mar. 24, 1928. Serial No. 264,296. 1 Claim. (Cl. 103—225.)



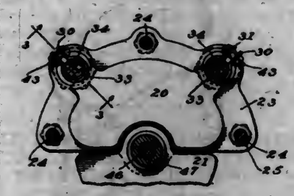
A piston comprising a pair of soft metal cups disposed back to back and having rims extending away from one another to be compressed within a cylinder, a bushing extending through said cups, a valve cage threaded on said bushing and clamping said cups, and a valve seatable on said bushing within said cage.

1,749,039. PORTABLE ELECTRIC AIR HEATER. ADDISON TURNEY LINCECUM, El Campo, Tex. Filed Mar. 20, 1929. Serial No. 348,595. 1 Claim. (Cl. 219—39.)



A portable electric air heater comprising a casing, a motor having fans at its opposite ends positioned at the central portion of said casing, heating elements above and below said motor, cone-shaped air deflecting members in the upper and lower ends of said casing provided with means for supporting said heating elements, and annularly arranged inlet passages disposed at the central portion of said casing and annular outlet passages at the top and bottom of said casing.

1,749,040. STRIPPING-FINGER ADJUSTMENT FOR THRASHING MACHINES. CARL R. LIVERMON, Roxobel, N. C. Filed Mar. 22, 1928. Serial No. 263,783. 11 Claims. (Cl. 130—30.)

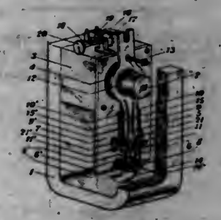


3. In a thrashing machine, a row of movably anchored stripping fingers, a member common to and connecting said fingers intermediate of their ends for movement as a unit, and means supporting said member and manually operable to move said member in opposite directions to cause it to project and retract the stripping ends of said fingers as a unit into and away from the zone of stripping operation, respectively.

1,749,041. LOCOMOTIVE STOKER. NATHAN M. LOWER and EDWIN ARCHER TURNER, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignors, by mesne assignments, to The Standard Stoker Company Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 4, 1926. Serial No. 113,782. 9 Claims. (Cl. 110—101.)

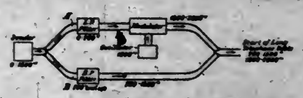
1. In a locomotive stoker, in combination, a boiler having a firebox, the backhead thereof being apertured for the introduction of fuel, a wall of masonry substantially U-shaped in horizontal section, extending inwardly from the backhead of the boiler and partially enclosing the backhead aperture, angle bars secured to the backhead and engaging shoulders on the wall, a riser conduit within the chamber partially enclosed by the wall, means for delivering fuel to the riser conduit, and means for forcing fuel therethrough.

1,749,042. VARIABLE CONDENSER. ALBERT E. MARSHALL, Baltimore, Md., assignor to Corning Glass Works, Corning, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Sept. 8, 1924. Serial No. 736,632. 1 Claim. (Cl. 175—41.5.)



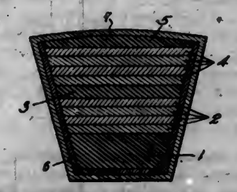
A condenser mounting, comprising end plates, stator plates, an insulator extending between the end plates, and means for securing the stator plates rigidly thereto, said means comprising a clamp member provided with a plurality of recesses through which the ends of the stator plates are inserted and bent at right angles to the surface of the stator plates, and means for rigidly securing the clamp member to the insulator.

1,749,043. SCREW. JOSEPH NEISER, London, Ohio. Filed Feb. 27, 1929. Serial No. 343,055. 3 Claims. (Cl. 85—45.)



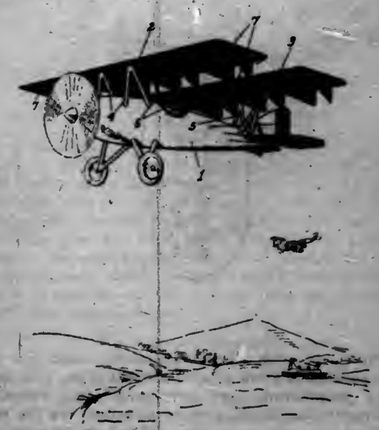
1. A screw having a head and a threaded shank depending from said head, the head having means projecting from the outer surface thereof and a slot embraced by the projecting means, said projecting means being adapted to be formed into a smooth surface to close the slot against unauthorized manipulation of the screw.

1,749,044. METER. ELIOT W. NILES, Bloomfield, N. J., assignor to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 14, 1927. Serial No. 239,934. 5 Claims. (Cl. 175—339.)



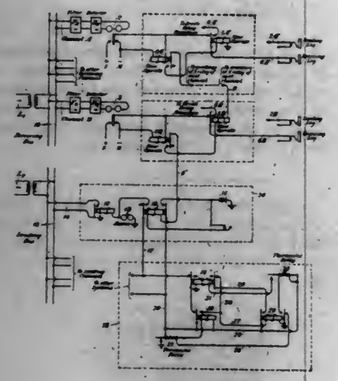
1. In combination, a magnet having adjacent pole pieces, an armature supported by pivotal means, a coil fastened to said armature and adapted to move between said pole pieces, and means under stress fastened to said armature and adapted to influence its movement through its arc of vibration.

1,749,045. SIGNALING SYSTEM. HARRY NYQUIST, Millburn, and KENNETH W. PFLEGER, Arlington, N. J., assignors to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed June 11, 1927. Serial No. 198,285. 11 Claims. (Cl. 178—44.)



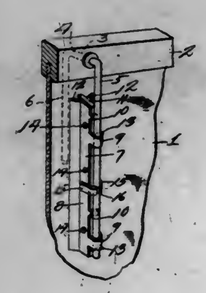
2. The method of compensating for the departure from exact cut-off given by filters when separating components of a signal wave in separate channels according to frequency, which consists in equalising the attenuation and phase shift in the separate channels and thereafter combining the currents in those channels.

1,749,046. POWER-TRANSMISSION BELT. EDGAR W. SNYDER, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to L. H. Gilmer Co., Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 15, 1928. Serial No. 254,407. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—63.)



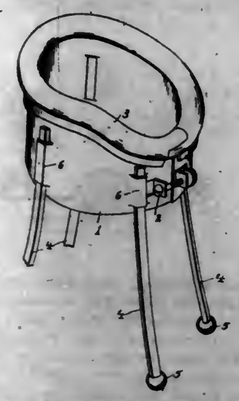
A V driving belt including a layer of rubber at its inner circumference, a reinforce layer, superposed on the rubber layer, a cushion layer superposed on the reinforce layer, a rubberized layer of open weave fabric cut on the bias superposed on the cushion layer and a rubber layer on the outer circumference, a covering enclosing said layers on three sides, and an outer covering completely enveloping the whole.

1,749,047. AIRPLANE. GEORGE C. ST. LOUIS, Fresno, Calif. Filed Oct. 9, 1928. Serial No. 311,290. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—12.)



1. In an airplane, a wing, and air compressing plates secured to and depending from the under surface of the wing in planes at right angles thereto, and arranged in pairs; the plates of each pair diverging from each other to the rear edge of the wing, and meeting each other at the front edge of the wing.

1,749,048. CARRIER-TELEGRAPH ALARM SYSTEM. VAUGHN P. THORP, River Edge, N. J., and WILTON T. REA, Flushing, N. Y., assignors to American Telephone and Telegraph Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 6, 1928. Serial No. 259,521. 5 Claims. (Cl. 178—69.)



1. A carrier telegraph system comprising a line circuit over which carrier currents are normally flowing, transmitting channels and receiving channels associated with said line circuit, an alarm circuit completed by the joint failure of all of said receiving channels due to an abnormal line circuit condition, and means controlled by the completion of said alarm circuit for intermittently disabling said transmitting channels.

1,749,049. WINDSHIELD CLEANER. ELDON A. TURNER, Graniteville, Mass. Filed Apr. 18, 1928. Serial No. 270,925. 2 Claims. (Cl. 15—255.)

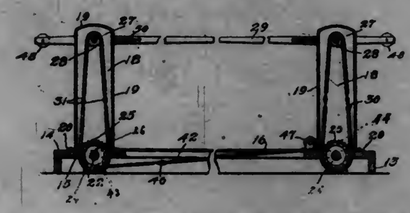
1. The combination with a windshield wiper arm movable in parallel relation to a windshield glass, of a frame rockably mounted on said arm, said frame comprising spaced registering strips, a wiper strip between the registering strip, securing means passing through the registering strip and the wiper strip, the rear edges of said registering strips being connected together by arcuate integral bearing members arching the wiper arm, one of the registering strips being provided with integral lugs extending under the wiper arm and forming a bearing for one side of said arm.

1,749,050. FACE SHIELD. RAYMOND E. WALKER, Wollaston, Mass. Filed Jan. 25, 1928. Serial No. 249,391. 3 Claims. (Cl. 4—159.)

1. As a new article of manufacture a device of the character described comprising a tubular member having a top edge that is made undulating and of a size and shape to fit throughout its circuit against the front of a person's face so as to bear against the forehead, temples, cheeks and lower lip, and means for supporting said member in an elevated position with its undulating top edge uppermost and its lower end open to the atmosphere.

1,749,051. SAFETY-RAZOR HANDLE. JAMES ALEX. DENBY WATT, London, England. Filed Oct. 18, 1926, Serial No. 142,444, and in Great Britain July 6, 1926. 1 Claim. (Cl. 30—12.)

A safety razor handle comprising a plurality of frustro-pyramidal members telescopically related to one another, the smaller end of each member being of less size on the interior than the larger end of the next succeeding smaller member, on the exterior, means in the smallest member for the attachment of a blade holder to the handle and a closure member to the larger end of the largest member.



1,749,052. SHAVING BRUSH. JAMES ALEX DENBY WATT, London, England. Filed Feb. 10, 1928, Serial No. 253,396, and in Great Britain Mar. 16, 1927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 15—184.)

A shaving brush comprising a shank, bristles carried by the shank, an outer sleeve mounted for longitudinal movement on the shank and arranged when in one position to surround and protect the bristles, said shank and sleeve being provided with coengaging screw threads and means to limit the extent of movement of the sleeve, and a foot member provided at one end of the recess to receive and closely fit on the outer end of the shank and thereby detachably secured to the shank, said foot member being provided at the opposite end with a recess to receive and closely fit on the outer end of the sleeve and with a chamber to enclose and protect the outer ends of the bristles.

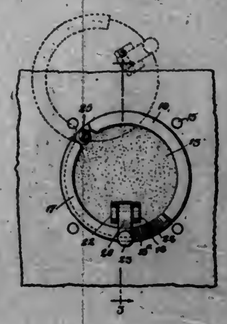
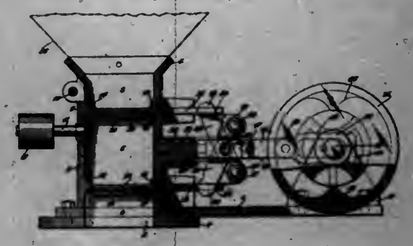
1,749,053. AUTOMATIC RAILWAY GATE. ADAM WIDUCH, STANLEY HAYDUK, and WALENTY SLIWA, Michigan City, Ind. Filed May 9, 1929. Serial No. 361,630. 5 Claims. (Cl. 246—293.)



1. In an automatic railway crossing gate comprising swinging members, shafts disposed below the rails, means between said shafts and said swinging members for transmitting the rotation of said shafts to said swinging members for the purpose of bringing said swinging members from an upright open position to a horisontal closed position, bars associated with the rails, the ends of said bars adjacent the crossing being bent towards said shafts, said bars being adapted for actuation by the wheels of the train, lever arms rigidly connected by their one ends to said shafts, the other ends of said lever arms being in pivotal connection with said bent ends of said bars, and means upon the ties for laterally supporting said bars for maintaining the same in an operative association with the rails.

1,749,054. ICE-BOX ATTACHMENT. AKOS ANDREW YERGA and MIKE EVANOWFF, Hammond, Ind. Filed Aug. 31, 1927. Serial No. 216,699. 22 Claims. (Cl. 268—48.)

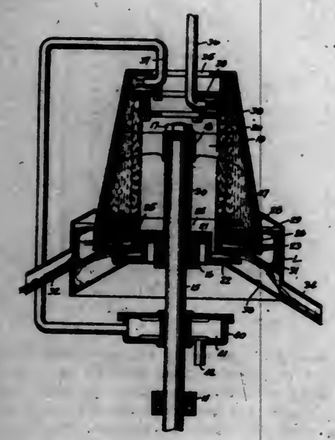


1. In a closure device the combination of a main door, a track extending on both sides of and above said door, slidable door means for normally closing the space around said track, means tending to close said door means, said means being controlled by operating means directly connected to and readily releasable from said main door.

1,749,055. DOOR ATTACHMENT. GEORGE W. ACKERMAN, New York, N. Y. Filed June 30, 1928. Serial No. 289,351. 9 Claims. (Cl. 20—89.)

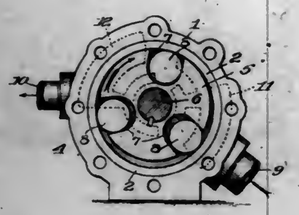
1. A door grille including an open cross barred frame adapted to be secured in an opening in a door, and a closure plate swivelly connected to the inner face of said frame, a handle for operating the plate, and stop means coacting with the plate to prevent opening movement thereof beyond a position where it is gravitationally returnable, said stop means comprising complemental arcuate ribs on the interior of the frame and closure plate.

1,749,056. MEASURING DEVICE. HERMAN S. ALBRECHT, St. Louis, Mo. Filed May 10, 1926. Serial No. 108,196. 6 Claims. (Cl. 221—112.)



1. A measuring device comprising a housing having an opening in one side thereof, a pair of spaced plates mounted in said housing and forming a measuring chamber between them, one of said plates being opposite said opening, a hinged wall in said opening adapted to be moved outwardly by pressure of material actuated by said plate which is opposite said opening, and mechanism for reciprocating said plates to open and to close the passage to said measuring chamber and to open and to close the outlet from said chamber.

1,749,057. APPARATUS FOR SEPARATING SOLIDS FROM LIQUIDS. ARTHUR L. ARMENTROUT, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Nov. 11, 1926. Serial No. 147,764. 12 Claims. (Cl. 233—14.)



1. A separating apparatus comprising a centrifugal vessel of frusto-conical form, means for revolving the vessel, means for supplying a composition having a light constituent and a heavy constituent to the vessel at the small end thereof, means for supplying a carrier liquid heavier than the light constituent and lighter than the heavy constituent to the small end of the vessel but separately from the composition so as to prevent intermixing of the light constituent with the carrier liquid, and outlets at the large end of the vessel through which the light constituent is discharged from the vessel separately from the heavy constituent and the carrier liquid.

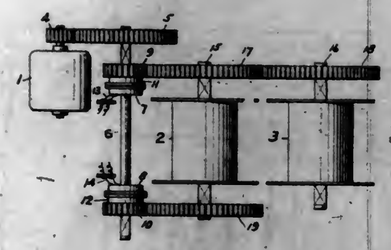
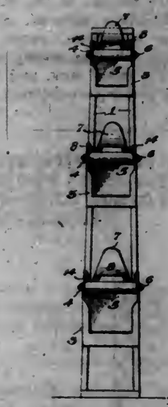
1,749,058. ROTARY PUMP. LESTER P. BARLOW, Stamford, Conn. Filed Feb. 14, 1928. Serial No. 254,222. 17 Claims. (Cl. 103—136.)

1. In a rotary pump, a housing having a rotor chamber with intake and discharge openings, a rotor in said chamber and having radial slots, roller pistons loosely fitting in said slots to allow for an equalisation of the fluid pressure on the entire high pressure side of the pistons during the pumping stroke, and fluid passage means permitting the fluid to be conducted away from the advancing side of the pistons as they pass over the high point of the rotor to prevent trapping of fluid in advance of the pistons in the rotor chamber.



1,749,059. GYROSCOPIC COMPASS. PRESTON R. BASSETT, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Sperry Gyroscope Company, Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 5, 1923. Serial No. 630,034. 15 Claims. (Cl. 33—226.)

1. In a gyroscopic compass, a rotor, means for mounting the same for spinning about a normally horizontal axis including rotor bearings permitting said rotor to shift its position axially in response to changes in the resultant direction of the forces acting thereon whereby meridian seeking properties are imparted thereto.

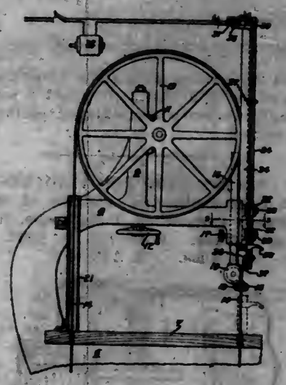


14. In a gyroscopic compass, the combination with the sensitive element including the rotor, and a follow-up element, of electro-magnetic means acting between said elements for exerting torque on the sensitive element to impart directive power thereto, and a pressure sensitive means on said sensitive element at an end of the rotor axle, and adapted to receive the end thrust of the rotor upon inclination of the rotor axle, said means being in circuit with said first-named means for controlling the same.

1,749,060. CABLE-CONTROL DEVICE. ROBERT H. BEAUMONT, Radnor, Pa., assignor to R. H. Beaumont Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Dec. 24, 1928. Serial No. 328,253. 1 Claim. (Cl. 254—185.)

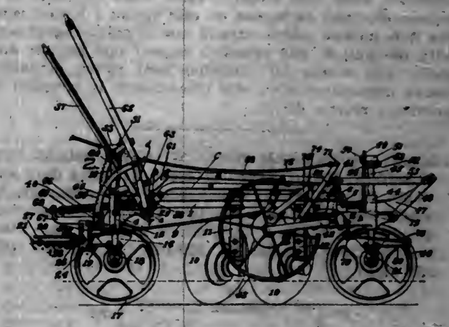
A cable control device comprising in combination a driving motor, two separate cable drums keyed to two separate shafts, a third shaft having two driving members for two electric clutches fast thereon and two driven members of two electric clutches rotatable thereon, pinion members rotatable on said third mentioned shaft adapted to be driven by said electric clutch members, gear trains between said first and second mentioned shafts and said pinions on said third mentioned shaft for driving said drums, means for driving said third mentioned shaft from said motor, and brushes for carrying current to said clutches.

1,749,061. BAG-DELIVERING MACHINE. EARL BLACKER, Everett, Wash. Filed May 7, 1929. Serial No. 361,125. 6 Claims. (Cl. 211—52.)



1. In a bag delivering machine, the combination of a rack having a series of spaced hooks for engaging bag holding casings, a plurality of such bag holders, said bag holders being of different sizes, each of said bag holders comprising a casing to receive the bags, a U-shaped arm affixed to the casing and adapted to be engaged by one of said hooks on the aforesaid rack, a freely rotatable roller mounted in the upper portion of the casing of the bag holder, a weight element pivotally mounted on the aforesaid U-shaped arm, said weight member also having a wire hook element extending forwardly and loosely engaging the outermost bag, whereby to automatically open the outermost bag to facilitate its withdrawal by the operator.

1,749,062. SIGN DEVICE. ARTHUR R. BLOOM, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 27, 1927. Serial No. 186,946. 12 Claims. (Cl. 40—132.)

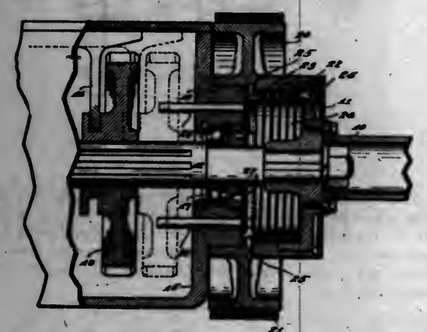


1. A sign display device having in combination, a translucent sheet having a picture on its front side adapted to be illuminated and viewed by reflected light, said sheet having a picture on its opposite side alined with said picture adapted to be viewed compositely therewith by light passing through said sheet, means separate from and in the rear of said sheet of similar outline to and covering certain portions of said first mentioned picture but exposing others, a light source forward of said sheet and a light source in the rear of said sheet, said sources of light being adapted to be alternately operated whereby when said last mentioned light source is operated, portions of said pictures are accentuated and a relief effect produced.

1,749,063. SAFETY DEVICE. SAM R. BROWN, Burlingame, Calif., assignor of one-half to Joseph A. Brown, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Nov. 26, 1927. Serial No. 235,825. 7 Claims. (Cl. 143—159.)

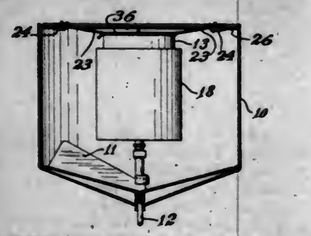
7. In combination with a band saw, a frame for said saw, an electric motor for driving said saw, a supply circuit for said motor, a guard for said saw vertically slidable on said frame, and electro-magnet means actuated from said supply circuit for retaining said guard in its upper position.

1,749,064. GANG PLOW. THEOPHILUS BROWN, Moline, Ill., assignor to Deere & Company, Moline, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 21, 1921. Serial No. 486,642. 16 Claims. (Cl. 97—73.)



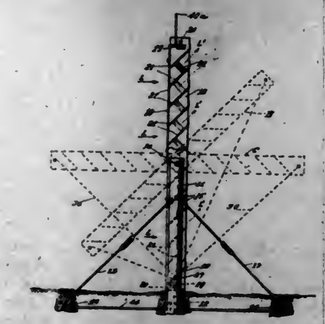
1. In a power lift gang plow, the combination of a frame including a plow-carrying beam, front and rear furrow wheels, a landwheel, means operable to adjust said frame relatively to the landwheel to vary the depth of plowing, and mechanism independent of said means and actuated by power from one of said wheels to raise the furrowward part of the frame relatively to said furrow wheels irrespective of adjustment of the landward part thereof with respect to the land wheel.

1,749,065. MEANS FOR BERTHING AIRSHIPS. CHARLES DENNISTON BURNEY, Westminster, London, England, assignor to Airship Guarantee Company Limited, London, England, a British Company. Filed Dec. 20, 1928, Serial No. 327,239, and in Great Britain Jan. 30, 1928. 7 Claims. (Cl. 244—2.)



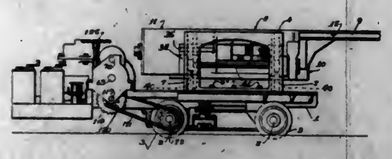
1. Means for berthing an airship comprising a carriage consisting of an undivided section and a section divided longitudinally into two portions hinged together and to said undivided section.

1,749,066. SAFETY STOP FOR VEHICLES. RALPH B. BURTON, Indianapolis, Ind., assignor of one-half to L. G. S. Devices Corporation, Indianapolis, Ind., a Corporation of Indiana. Filed Jan. 5, 1928. Serial No. 244,580. 10 Claims. (Cl. 192—4.)



1. In an automobile having a transmission capable of being arranged to provide forward and reverse drive, one or more driving wheels, and a propeller shaft for transmitting power from said transmission to said driving wheels; the combination of a helical spring rotatable with said propeller shaft, a member having a cylindrical recess co-axial with said spring, spring actuating means normally operative when said propeller shaft tends to rotate in a reverse direction to impose on said spring a torque causing it to unwind and to expand into gripping engagement with the wall of said recess to connect said member and shaft, and means for rendering said spring actuating means inoperative when said transmission is arranged to provide a reverse drive.

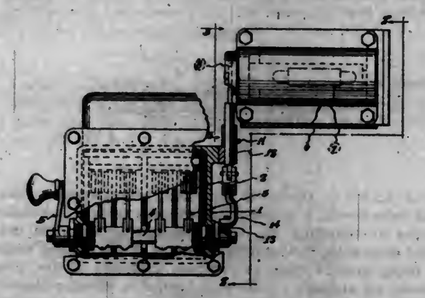
1,749,067. ICE-CREAM-FREEZING ATTACHMENT FOR WASHING MACHINES. CLIFFORD ELBRIDGE COLE and BASIL W. MCGINNIS, Birmingham, Ala., assignors, by mesne assignments, to Nineteen Hundred Corporation, Binghamton, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 14, 1927. Serial No. 226.107. 12 Claims. (Cl. 259—53.)



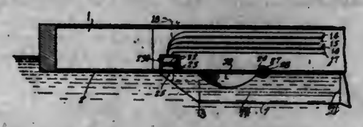
1. An ice cream freezing attachment for a washing machine having a vertically disposed stationary tub, open at the top, an agitator in the bottom of the tub and means to impart rotary motion to the agitator, comprising an ice cream freezer having a stationary brine tank and a rotary cream receptacle within the brine tank and arranged concentrically therewith, radially arranged supporting means connecting the brine tank with the walls of the tub and so disposed as to position the brine tank substantially concentric with respect to the axis of rotation of the agitator and above the agitator, coupling means provided on the cream receptacle, power transmitting means coacting with the coupling means and extending through the bottom of the brine tank, and means for detachably connecting the power transmitting means to the agitator.

1,749,068. ORCHARD PROTECTIVE SYSTEM. JOHN DEL REA DE LAND, Pico, Calif. Filed May 22, 1928. Serial No. 279,788. 7 Claims. (Cl. 47—1.)

1. An orchard protective wind-break structure embodying a normally vertical louver wall adapted to be erected at the windward side of the orchard and to deflect wind currents upward and above the orchard, the height of said wall being substantially that of the orchard trees.



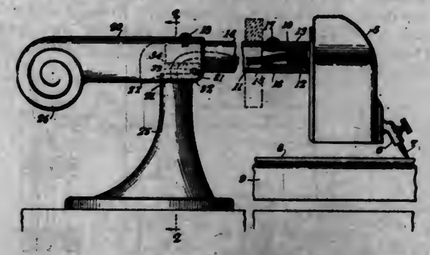
1,749,069. MINING MACHINE. EDWARD J. DOBERSTEIN, Blue Island, Ill., assignor to Goodman Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 29, 1923. Serial No. 683,330. 11 Claims. (Cl. 262—28.)



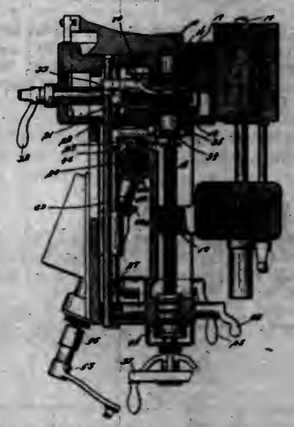
1. In a mining machine, a base, a turntable on said base, a cutting element supported for vertical movement on a plurality of uprights spaced apart on said turntable, said cutting element comprising a cutter arm at the forward end of said frame, a motor at the rear end of said frame and detachable connections thereto, permitting rearward withdrawal of said motor and supporting connections mounted on said frame for engagement with said upright supports.

1,749,070. ELECTRIC-CIRCUIT SAFETY LOCK. ALFRED B. ESSELTINE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Goodman Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 31, 1927. Serial No. 243,858. 3 Claims. (Cl. 200—50.)

1. In a device of the character described, the combination with an enclosed electric switch including a movable switch member, of an enclosed electric fuse mounting provided with an end opening for the insertion and removal of an electric fuse therein, and means operated by said switch member including a locking member movable over said end opening to prevent removal of a fuse in said mounting when said switch member is moved to closed circuit position.

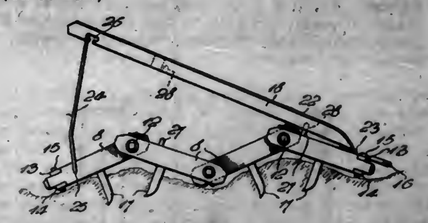


1,749,071. METHOD OF AND MEANS FOR PROPELLING SHIPS. FRAZER W. GAY, Newark, N. J. Filed June 5, 1928. Serial No. 282,920. 13 Claims. (Cl. 115—13.)



1. The method of propelling ships consisting in displacing the water in advance of the entrance surfaces of a ship's hull by exploding an explosive mixture beneath the surface of the water so that expansion of the explosion gases sets the water in motion downwardly and laterally away from the entrance portions of the hull, and applying a propelling force to the hull.

1,749,072. ELECTRIC PHONOGRAPH. CARL F. GOUDY, Flushing, N. Y., assignor to Pacent Radio Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 11, 1928. Serial No. 269,073. 10 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.41.)



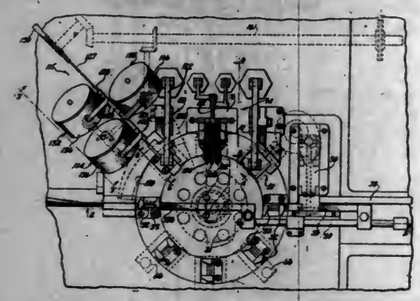
1. In electric phonographs, a vertically swivelled tubular member, a horizontally pivoted arm on the upper end of said member, said arm having a tubular forward end portion, an electric reproducer unit on the forward end of said arm, an electric conductor cord extending from said reproducer unit through the tubular portion of said arm and down the vertically swivelled tubular member and adjustable spring means acting on said vertically swivelled tubular member to control the laterally swinging action of the reproducer unit.

1,749,073. INTERLOCKING MANUAL AND POWER FEED CONTROL. BENJAMIN P. GRAVES, Edgewood, R. I., assignor to Brown & Sharpe Manufacturing Company, Providence, R. I., a Corporation of Rhode Island. Filed Aug. 20, 1928. Serial No. 300,902. 18 Claims. (Cl. 90—21.)

1. In a milling machine, a saddle member having a transverse feed, a knee member having a vertical feed, a train of parts including power and manually operable feeding means for each of said members, a manually operable control device and means responsive to operation of said device for selectively engaging either of said trains to simultaneously render one feed of the train operative and the other feed of the train inoperative.

1,749,074. HARROW. JOHN FREDERICK HILL, Clatskanie, Oreg. Filed Mar. 8, 1928. Serial No. 260,069. 4 Claims. (Cl. 55—32.)

1. A flexible harrow, runners at the upper side of said harrow for use in transporting the latter when inverted, and means for supporting said runners above the harrow when the latter is in use, whereby said runners will not interfere with flexibility of the harrow.



1,749,075. MEANS FOR SEPARATING ADHERING ROLLED METAL SHEETS. EUGEN HINDSEER, Hamborn, Germany, assignor to Vereinigte Stahlwerke Aktiengesellschaft, Dusseldorf, Germany, a Corporation of Germany. Filed Jan. 7, 1927, Serial No. 159,735, and in Germany Aug. 19, 1926. 4 Claims. (Cl. 29—17.)

1. An apparatus for separating adhering rolled metal sheets comprising in combination a device engaging between the sheets to be separated, means for pulling the sheets over said device, means for imparting to said device a separating motion during the travel of the sheets over the device, and immovable cutters coacting with said movable separating device.

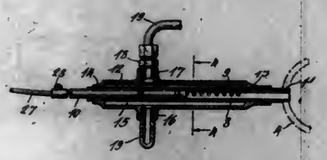
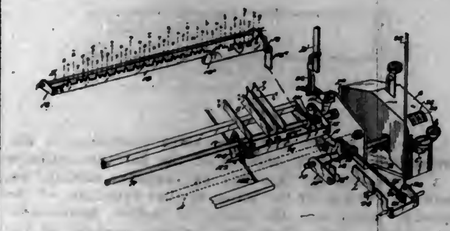
1,749,076. APPARATUS FOR ASSEMBLING MEMBERS. ROBERT HOFSTETTER, Downers Grove, Ill., assignor to Western Electric Company, Incorporated, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 15, 1927. Serial No. 168,314. 9 Claims. (Cl. 18—1.)



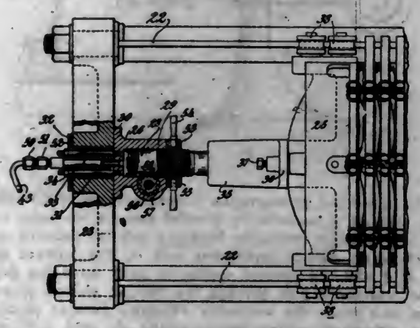
1. In apparatus for assembling previously gauged members with companion members, retaining means for individual supplies of previously gauged members, means for gauging companion members, actuating means therefor, and means operable in response to the actuation of the gauging means to selectively release members from the individual supplies thereof for association with the gauged companion members in accordance with the determination made by the gauging means.

1,749,077. OILING SYSTEM FOR GEARS. FRANK W. KENNEDY, Trenton, N. J., assignor to De Laval Steam Turbine Company, Trenton, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Apr. 29, 1925. Serial No. 26,623. 5 Claims. (Cl. 184—6.)



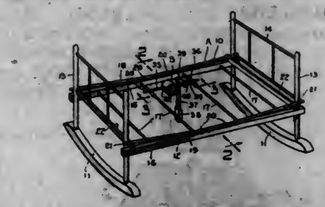
1. Means for oiling gears in mesh comprising a reservoir adapted to hold a lubricant in sufficient quantity to submerge a part of the gear tooth structure when the gears are idle, a lubricant-receiving chamber, a pump adapted to convey oil from said reservoir to said chamber, said chamber having a capacity for an amount of oil which when removed from the reservoir will lower the level therein below the gears and said pump having a capacity such that when the gears are started the level of the oil in the reservoir will be lowered below the gears, and an oil conduit adapted to convey oil from said chamber to the gear teeth at a rate below the capacity of the pump.

1,749,078. GAS SAVER AND CARBON REMOVER. ARTHUR H. LANGMAN, Denver, Colo., assignor to Arthur C. Leisenring, Denver, Colo. Filed May 4, 1929. Serial No. 360,419. 4 Claims. (Cl. 123—119.)



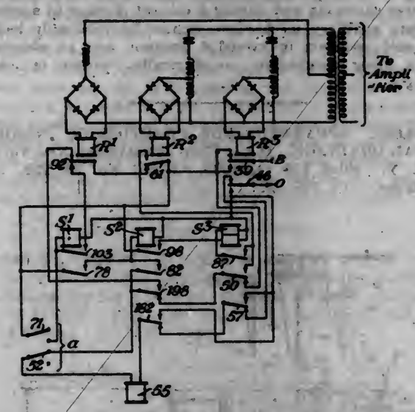
1. A device of the class described, comprising an elongated tube having a plurality of openings therein, a tubular member surrounding the tube and having its ends connected therewith, the interior diameter of the tubular member being greater than the outside diameter of the tube whereby an annular chamber is formed, a plunger located within the tube and slidable therein to cover and uncover one or more of said openings, the tubular member having an opening therein which is adapted to be connected with the crank case of an engine.

1,749,079. TYPEWRITER WORD REGISTER. LOUIS M. LLORENS, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor to Automatic Word Counter, Inc., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 16, 1925. Serial No. 23,550. 11 Claims. (Cl. 235—102.)



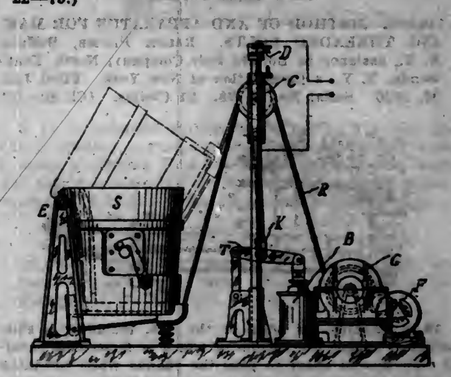
1. In a typewriter, a centrally disposed shiftable margin release finger member, a stationary front bar on which said member is mounted, and a word registering mechanism controlled by said member and including a thrust rod pressing said member in one direction and which is repressed by carriage action on said member.

1,749,080. HYDRAULIC FILTER PRESS. WILLIAM H. MATHERS, Hollis, N. Y., assignor to Richard Dudgeon, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 25, 1927. Serial No. 178,373. 1 Claim. (Cl. 210—188.)



A filter press having a hydraulic jack mounted in its end support in place of a removed screw jack, said hydraulic jack having its base mounted against the inner surface of said support over the threaded opening originally provided to receive the screw, a retaining plate mounted against the outer surface of said support over the opposite end of said threaded opening, and fastening elements passing through said opening and connecting the base of said hydraulic jack with said retaining plate.

1,749,081. COMBINED DOLL'S CRADLE AND SOUND-PRODUCING MEANS. LOUIS MARX, New York, N. Y. Filed Jan. 28, 1928. Serial No. 250,152. 7 Claims. (Cl. 46—37.)



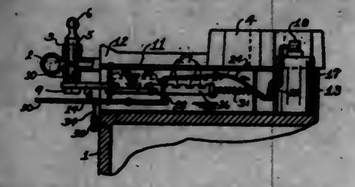
1. In combination, a doll's cradle comprising a bed body mounted for rocking movement; and a doll crier comprising a self-contained sound producing unit mounted for bodily sound producing movement on said cradle, said self-contained sound producing unit comprising a casing and sound producing means all contained within said casing, and means for operating the sound producing unit when the said cradle is rocked, said means including mechanism for imparting to said sound producing unit an arcuate movement greater in amplitude than that of the swinging arc of said cradle.

1,749,082. RAILWAY-TRAFFIC-CONTROLLING APPARATUS. RONALD A. MCCANN, Swissvale, Pa., assignor to The Union Switch & Signal Company, Swissvale, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Sept. 26, 1929. Serial No. 395,333. 5 Claims. (Cl. 246—63.)

1. Train carried railway traffic controlling apparatus comprising three relays R^1, R^2 and R^3, controlled in such manner that relays R^1 and R^2 are energized under "authorized" conditions, relays R^1 and R^2 are energized under "approach restricting" conditions, relay R^1 alone is energized under "slow" conditions, and all three relays are de-energized under "stop" conditions; three stick relays S^1, S^2 and S^3, a manually operable acknowledging switch a having a normally open contact 71, a pick-up circuit for relay S^1 including a back contact of relay R^3 and said contact 71, a pick-up circuit for relay S^2 including a back contact of relay R^3 and a front contact of relay S^1, a pick-up circuit for relay S^3 including a back contact of relay R^3 and a front contact of relay S^2, a stick circuit for relay S^3 including a back contact of relay R^3 and a front contact of relay R^2, a stick circuit for relay S^2 including a back contact of relay R^3 and a back contact of relay R^2 as well as a front contact of relay R^1, a stick circuit for relay S^1 including back contacts of relays R^3, R^2 and R^1, a brake valve magnet, a first circuit for said magnet including a front contact of relay R^2 and a back contact of each relay S^2 and S^1, a second circuit for said magnet including a back contact of relay R^3 and a front contact of relay R^2 as well as a front contact of relay S^2 and a back contact of relay S^1, a third circuit for said magnet including back contacts of relays R^2 and R^3 as well as a front contact of relay R^1 and a front contact of relay S^3, and a fourth circuit for said magnet including a back contact of relay R^3 and a front contact of relay S^1 as well as a front contact of relay S^3.

1,749,083. APPARATUS FOR POURING LIQUIDS SUCH AS MOLTEN METAL. ALBERT WOOD MORRIS, Drexel Hill, and SAMUEL PRICE WETHERILL, Jr., Haverford, Pa., assignors to Wetherill-Morris Engineering Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 18, 1929. Serial No. 347,976. 13 Claims. (Cl. 22—79.)

1. A ladle manipulating mechanism for pouring operations comprising means to support a ladle for pivotal movements, power tilting means operably connected to the ladle, a starting device for the tilting means, and means operable after the tilting means starts to automatically reverse its action on the ladle and again start the tilting operation whereby a surging action of liquid in the ladle is dampened upon initial pouring actions of the ladle.



1,749,084. SHOE. ROBERT F. MCCARTHY, Webster Groves, Mo., assignor to International Shoe Company, St. Louis, Mo., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 3, 1929. Serial No. 352,146. 3 Claims. (Cl. 36—58.5.)

1. A shoe comprising a shoe lining having a defined point therein, an elastic body attached to the outer side of the lining in a definite relationship to said defined point, a shoe upper having its upper edge secured to the lining, and a counter secured between the upper and the lining at the heel portion of the shoe and at the outer side of said body.

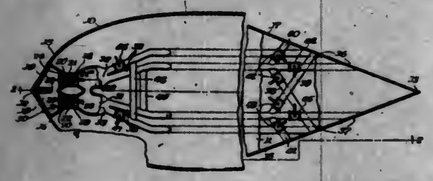
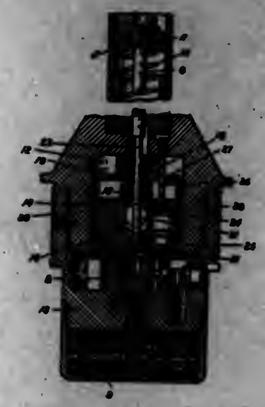
1,749,085. SAFETY CONTROL FOR GAS STOVES. CHARLES PEBBLES, Yonkers, N. Y. Filed June 17, 1927. Serial No. 199,507. 8 Claims. (Cl. 158—117.1.)



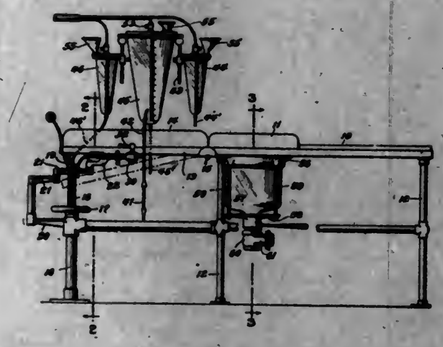
1. In combination with a gas burner and a thermostat, a radiant heat collector mounted adjacent to said gas burner and a heat conductor slidably engaging said heat collector and conductively connecting said heat collector with said thermostat.

1,749,086. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR MAKING THREADED BOLTS. RALPH PLUMB, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor to Buffalo Bolt Company, North Tonawanda, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Jan. 26, 1926. Serial No. 88,778. 21 Claims. (Cl. 80—8.)



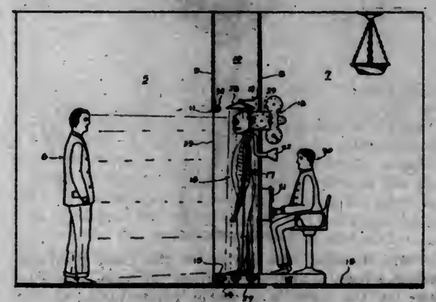
19. Apparatus for bolts or the like, including a slot-bottomed hopper the bottom of which is formed by parallel rolls spaced apart to pass the shanks while retaining the heads of the bolts, and means for rotating said rolls in opposite directions, with their adjacent bolt-engaging surfaces rotating upwardly and away from each other, said rollers having their axes inclined so that bolts properly entrained in the slots slide downward and, below the hopper, bolt-separating escapement mechanism for passing the bolts, one at a time, while holding back bolts in train behind the escapement, said rolls being formed with sections slidable endwise to permit dropping of the bolt heads therethrough, together with mechanism for operating the latter and said escapement in synchronous relation, a funnel guide into which said bolts fall, shank downward and mechanism in operative relation for receiving the bolts from the lower end of the funnel.

1,749,087. SHIP PROPULSION. PETER F. RILEY, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 25, 1927. Serial No. 228,565. 4 Claims. (Cl. 115—16.)



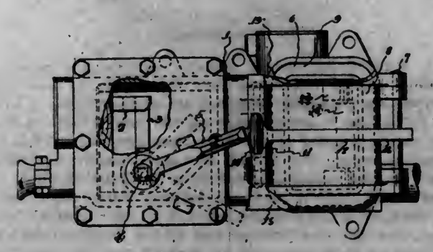
1. In a propulsion means for ships, in combination with the hull of the vessel, a funnel shaped intake at the forward part of the vessel below the water line, a propeller arranged axially of said intake at substantially the apex thereof, and substantially filling said intake at said apex and a water exhaust conduit extending aft from said propeller having an enlarged water expansion chamber therein, and means in said conduit for regulating the rate of flow of water therethrough.

1,749,088. FUSE FOR PROJECTILES. GILBERT E. ROGERS, Rockaway, N. J. Filed May 22, 1929. Serial No. 365,204. 11 Claims. (Cl. 102—39.) (Granted under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, as amended Apr. 30, 1928, 370 O. G., 757.)



11. In a fuse, a plunger unit including a percussion plunger and a guide member cooperating to limit their relative extension and having a central passage to accommodate auxiliary mechanism, means for releasably locking said members in extended position, and an element of a firing mechanism, eccentrically carried by the plunger.

1,749,089. APPARATUS FOR PRACTICE OF DUODENAL DRAINAGE. OSCAR BOTO SCHELLBERG, New York, N. Y. Filed Feb. 4, 1929. Serial No. 337,252. 8 Claims. (Cl. 128—227.)

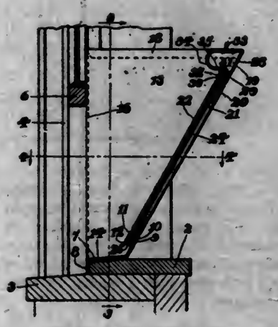


1. In a duodenal drainage apparatus, a patient supporting table, means for inclining the forward portion of said table downwardly, a swinging bracket carried by said table, a valve supported in said bracket, means for supplying a flow of medicated liquid through said valve, means associated with said valve for intestinal injection of liquids passed therethrough into the body of a patient disposed on said table, the forward portion of said table being hinged to incline below the horisontal, a screw secured to the hinged portion for lowering the same to secure gravitational flow of the liquids in the intestines, and means controlled by said valve for evacuation of the liquid from the intestines.

1,749,090. APPARATUS FOR OBTAINING CRIMINAL CONFESSIONS AND PHOTOGRAPHICALLY RECORDING THEM. HELENE ADELAIDE SHELBY, Oakland, Calif. Filed Aug. 10, 1927. Serial No. 212,102. 3 Claims. (Cl. 35—12.)

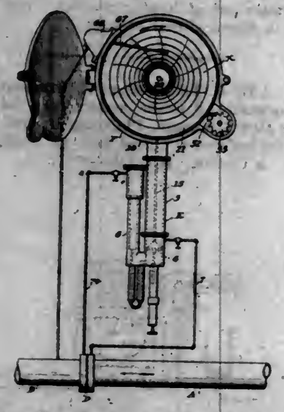
1. A device of the character described, comprising a chamber divided into compartments having partitioning means therebetween, an "apparition" disposed in one of said compartments and supported by said partitioning means, said "apparition" comprising a skeleton, a transparent envelop therefor constituting its body, means comprising an electrical circuit and a plurality of electric bulbs for suitably lighting said body to produce ghastly effects, electric bulbs in the sockets of the cranium of said skeleton, the said bulbs having exteriorly the appearance of eyeballs when illuminated, a camera within said cranium adapted to photographically and simultaneously record both scenes and words, and an electric circuit for suitably lighting the bulbs of the cranium, said circuits being controlled by switches carried by a switchboard located in the rear of said partitioning means.

1,749,091. ELECTRIC CIRCUIT SAFETY LOCK. WILLIAM W. SLOANE, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Goodman Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Dec. 31, 1927. Serial No. 243,886. 4 Claims. (Cl. 200—50.)



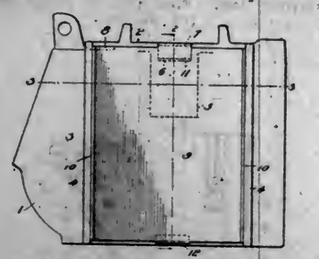
1. In a device of the character described, the combination with a pivoted electric switch member, of a cover locking member pivotally mounted on an axis transverse to and spaced from the axis of said switch member for movement into and out of locking position, and a concave surface formation on said locking member and extending axially thereof and engageable with the free end of said switch member to prevent movement of said locking member out of locking position while said switch member is in closed circuit position.

1,749,092. ASH GATE. LESLIE E. STRINGEL, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Allen-Sherman-Hoff Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed May 15, 1928. Serial No. 639,118. 3 Claims. (Cl. 110—171.)



3. In combination with a hopper having a bottom discharge opening, a trough having spaced upstanding walls, a flange projecting from the hopper between said walls, and means beneath the hopper for causing liquid passing through the hopper to be discharged in said trough.

1,749,093. WINDOW VENTILATOR. FRANK M. ANDRAS, Garrett, Ind. Filed Oct. 1, 1928. Serial No. 309,507. 4 Claims. (Cl. 98—99.)



1. A window ventilator comprising, a base member having an angularly disposed part formed with a channel, a pair of end members, each having at its forwward edge a flange formed with a channel, said angularly disposed part having its end portions overlapping said flanges, and a plate having marginal portions thereof disposed within said channels and coacting with the walls thereof to force said overlapping portions into frictional engagement with said flanges for maintaining said base and end members in assembled relation.

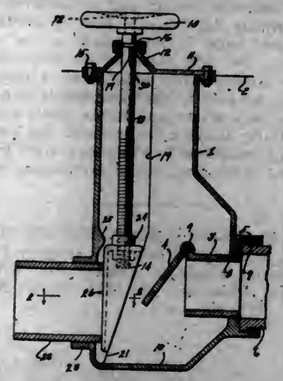
1,749,094. INTEGRATING AND RECORDING DEVICE FOR FLUID METERS. JAMES R. ARMSTRONG, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to Pittsburgh Equitable Meter Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed July 5, 1922. Serial No. 572,846. 26 Claims. (Cl. 234—34.)

17. In a recording device, a record sheet, means for periodically moving the record sheet, means for limiting the movement of the record sheet, a variable actuating means for operating the limiting means proportionately to the value of a variable quantity, and means for recording on the record sheet.

1,749,095. JOURNAL BOX. DONALD S. BARROWS, Rochester, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to The Symington Company, a Corporation of Maryland. Filed July 13, 1922. Serial No. 574,666. 17 Claims. (Cl. 105—225.)

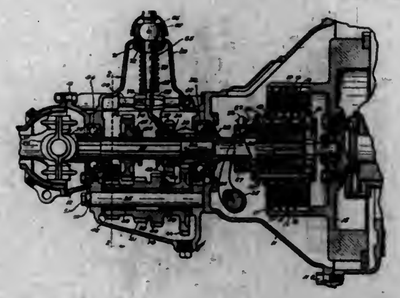
1. The combination with a journal box for pedestal trucks, and a wear plate or liner detachably connected thereto, said wear plate being formed with an angular portion adapted to engage a pair of faces on the journal box and connected to said box by bendable tongues engaging a wall portion thereof, a portion of said wall being thickened and provided with a pocket therein for receiving one of said tongues.

1,749,096. LINK. JOHN B. BAXTER, Troy, N. Y., assignor to Covert Manufacturing Company, Watervliet, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Field May 6, 1929. Serial No. 360,943. 5 Claims. (Cl. 24—232.)



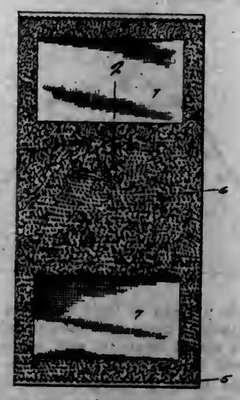
1. A link including two substantially similarly formed members, each having a body part with a hook portion at each end thereof, said members being pivotally connected at their body parts, the hooks of the respective members mating to form eyes and having overlapping outer sections reduced in thickness and provided with flat inner faces, each of said hook portions being provided with a shouldered portion on its inner side extending forwardly from its thicker inner section and with a recess in its outer end portion, the shouldered portions of the hook portions of one member engaging the recesses of the other member when the hook portions are brought together.

1,749,097. ARTIFICIAL TREE. ANTONE BLAZIC, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 18, 1928. Serial No. 326,712. 6 Claims. (Cl. 41—15.)



1. An artificial tree device of the class described including a base, a staff rising from the base, and a basket frame on the staff, said basket frame including a plate with wire arms fixed thereto, radiating outwardly therefrom and curved upwardly and inwardly.

1,749,098. BACK-PRESSURE VALVE FOR DRAINAGE SYSTEMS. EDWARD W. N. BOOSEY, Detroit, Mich. Filed Nov. 26, 1926. Serial No. 150,755. 4 Claims. (Cl. 182—26.)

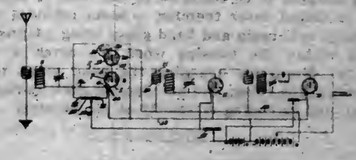


1. A fitting for sewage conduits comprising a casing, a hollow member extending into the casing at one side adapted for connection with a drain and providing an inlet to the casing, a swing valve on the said member within the casing adapted to normally close the said conduit by pressure within the casing, an outlet conduit extending into the said casing at point below the inlet member, the said outlet conduit having a finished inner end, a valve member within the casing adapted to be moved to position over the said finished end of the outlet conduit or withdrawn therefrom, and an inclined way in the casing engaged by the valve in its movement to closed position providing a means for wedging the valve against the end of the outlet conduit.

1,749,099. TRANSMISSION. HENRY FORD, Dearborn, Mich., assignor to Ford Motor Company, Dearborn, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 5, 1927. Serial No. 224,095. 1 Claim. (Cl. 74—89.)

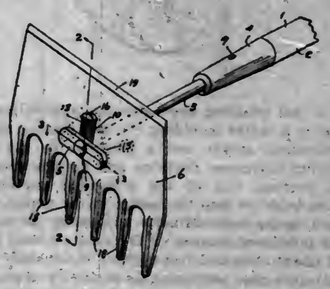
In a device of the character described, a transmission housing having a cover, a shift rod extended through said cover, said shift rod having a ball and socket connection with said cover, a coil spring encircling said shift rod within said cover, a gasket member yieldingly urged by said spring to form a liquid tight joint between the shift rod and the casing, and a washer having an open side adapted to engage the shift rod and to be engaged by the spring to place the gasket and said ball and socket connection between the rod and cover under spring pressure, said washer being readily detachable from the rod by compressing the spring and moving the pressure washer laterally.

1,749,100. COMBINATION BATH TOWEL. PER HEIBERG, Nogales, Ariz. Filed Nov. 24, 1928. Serial No. 321,636. 1 Claim. (Cl. 139—396.)



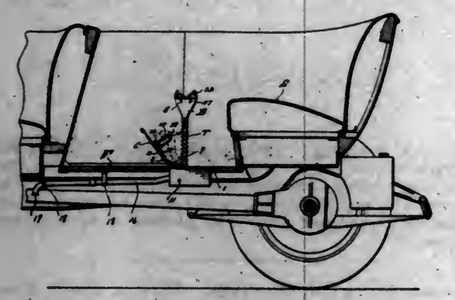
In a combination towel of the character described, a length of fabric of elongated rectangular configuration wherein a certain portion of the fabric inwardly from opposite ends thereof is tightly woven to provide on opposite faces of the towel a pair of relatively large smooth plain areas, and the remaining portion of the fabric being loosely woven to provide on opposite sides thereof a Turkish effect the major portion of the loosely woven area being between the two plain areas and of a greater width and breadth than either of the latter areas of the towel, and each of said plain areas being incompassed by certain remaining loosely woven portions of the fabric.

1,749,101. COMBINATION CONCRETE-MIXER TURNTABLE AND SUBGRADER. JOSEPH WILLIAM HELTZEL, Warren, Ohio. Filed July 27, 1925. Serial No. 46,423. 6 Claims. (Cl. 94—39.)



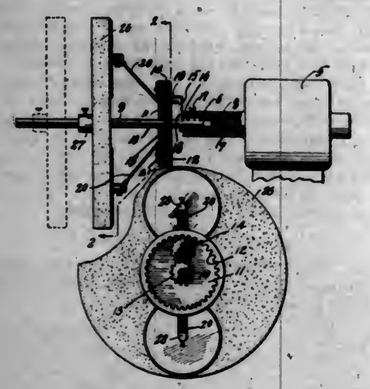
6. A turntable comprising wheels to roll on the side rails defining the side edges of a road under construction, a base adapted to be disposed between said rails and connected to said wheels for up and down movement off and on the ground, and a turntable platform mounted on said base.

1,749,102. RADIORECEIVER. WILLIAM HENRY KITTO, Ferndale, Mich. Filed June 10, 1925. Serial No. 36,125. 2 Claims. (Cl. 179—171.)



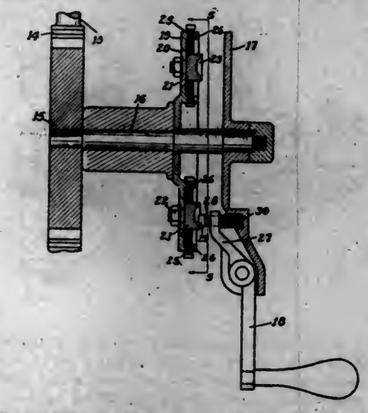
2. In a circuit comprising an input inductance, an output transformer and an amplifying tube, an additional tube having a filament shunted across the filament leads of said amplifying tube, a rheostat interposed between the negative leads of said tubes, a movable contact cooperating with said rheostat, a source of "A" current supply, said contact being connected to the negative terminal of said source, the grids of each tube being connected to one end of said input inductance, the other end of said input inductance being connected to the negative lead of said first named amplifying tube, the plate of said amplifying tube being connected to one end of the primary winding of said output transformer, a source of "B" current supply, the other end of said output transformer being connected to the plate of said additional tube and to the positive terminal of said source of "B" current supply.

1,749,103. FIRE-FIGHTING TOOL. JOHN C. KORTICK, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Sept. 26, 1927. Serial No. 222,064. 4 Claims. (Cl. 306—23.)



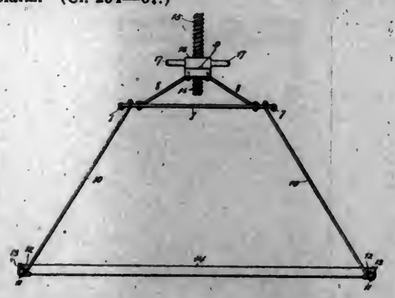
1. A fire fighting tool comprising a handle having an enlarged end, a blade having an opening for receiving said end, cooperating means carried by said blade and said end for preventing rotation of said blade with respect to said end, a clamping member having a lug receivable in the blade opening and means for moving said member against said blade.

1,749,104. URINAL FOR AUTOMOBILES AND OTHER VEHICLES. RUDOLPH KOVACS, Detroit, Mich. Filed July 15, 1929. Serial No. 378,443. 5 Claims. (Cl. 4—110.)



1. A urinal apparatus for automobiles comprising a housing adapted to be installed in the floor of said automobile, a hinged cover therefor, a basin provided with a hand grasp, said basin and hand grasp being adapted to be confined within the housing when the cover is closed, means for detachably engaging the hand grasp to hold the urinal to the cover, and an eduction tube leading from the basin and extending exteriorly of the housing.

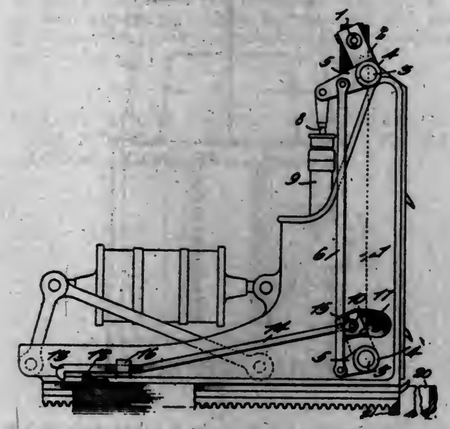
1,749,105. TOOL GRINDER. WILLIAM EMERY LUTZ, Amarillo, Tex. Filed Nov. 18, 1925. Serial No. 69,879. 2 Claims. (Cl. 51—133.)



1. In a tool grinding apparatus for application to and actuation by a motor including the usual motor shaft having a polygonal socket and a housing for the shaft, a shaft having polygonal portions and an intermediate cylindrical portion, one of the polygonal portions being adapted to be fitted into the socket in the motor shaft, an abrading member longitudinally adjustably mounted upon the other polygonal portion of the shaft, a head rotatably mounted upon the cylindrical portion of the shaft and having an internal gear portion at its periphery, a pinion fixed upon the cylindrical portion of the shaft, a sleeve loosely surrounding the cylindrical portion of the shaft, a bracket extending from the sleeve, a pinion rotatably mounted upon the bracket and meshing with the internal gear and with the first mentioned pinion, means for holding the sleeve stationary with respect to the housing for the motor shaft, and means upon the head for supporting a tool in contact with the abrading member.

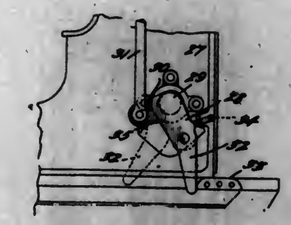
1,749,106. CALIBRATING MECHANISM FOR POSITIVE STOPS FOR VISIBLE PUMPS. WALTER HORTON MARSH, Aspinwall, Pa., assignor to Pennsylvania Pump Company, a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Nov. 29, 1927. Serial No. 236,443. 7 Claims. (Cl. 221—100.)

1. The combination with a container adapted to hold a quantity of fluid, of a fluid delivery mechanism including a vertically movable outlet tube, operating means for raising and lowering said tube to different levels in said container so as to deliver different predetermined quantities of fluid, a movable detent associated with said operating means and independently radially adjustable stops co-operating with said detent for accurately gauging the movement of said positioning means so as to cause said tube to be set in position to deliver a predetermined quantity of fluid.



1,749,107. TRUCK. CHARLES M. MEDAIRY, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed June 14, 1928. Serial No. 285,325. 1 Claim. (Cl. 294—67.)

Means for the purpose set forth including a pair of angle bars having studs at their ends, load-sustaining rails having their ends seated freely on said angle bars, a frame, hangers secured to and diverging downwardly from the corners of said frame and provided at their lower ends with hooks engaging the studs on the angle bars, a head above the frame constructed to cooperatively engage a hoisting element, and suspension rods connecting the head with the corners of the frame, the frame consisting of bars rigidly secured together in rectangular relation.



1,749,108. SAWMILL-DOGGING MEANS. GEORGE M. PELTON, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Filer & Stowell Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed May 25, 1927. Serial No. 194,184. 8 Claims. (Cl. 143—125.)

1. In a saw mill carriage, a knee thereof provided with a slot and a mounting for projecting a dog at different distances beyond the face of the knee including a crank arm pivotally connected to the mounting, a shaft mounted in the knee and on which the crank is mounted, the pivot of the crank and mounting extending through the slot, a rod mounted on the pivot, said rod having a hook, and a stop fixed with reference to the knee and with which the hook contacts to prevent the dog from reaching the saw line by limiting the movement of the dog toward the saw line.

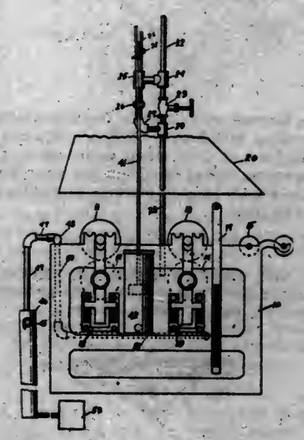
1,749,109. SAWMILL CARRIAGE. GEORGE M. PELTON, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Filer & Stowell Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 19, 1929. Serial No. 348,322. 2 Claims. (Cl. 143—125.)

1. In a saw mill carriage, a knee, a dog mounting, cranks connecting the dog mounting and knee to permit movement of the mounting toward the face of the knee, dogs carried by the mounting, a stop on the carriage, and an arm forming a rigid extension of one of the cranks and adapted to depend in the path of the stop when the dogs are projected to their maximum extent.



1,749,110. SAWMILL CARRIAGE. GEORGE M. PELTON, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to The Filer & Stowell Co., Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Nov. 12, 1929. Serial No. 406,666. 4 Claims. (Cl. 143—126.)

1. In a saw mill carriage, a knee, a dog mounting, cranks connecting the dog mounting and knee to permit movement of the mounting toward and from the face of the knee, dogs carried by the mounting, a stop on the carriage, an arm carried by one of the cranks to cooperate with said stop in the movement of the knee toward the saw line, and means positively connecting said arm and knee to maintain successive positions of said arm substantially parallel with one another.

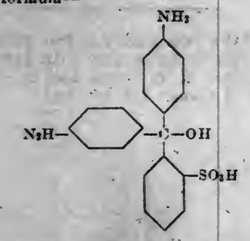
1,749,111. MEANS FOR REGULATING THE LEVEL OF FLUID IN SIZING VATS AND THE LIKE. JOHN J. QUEEN, Charlotte, N. C. Filed Apr. 25, 1927. Serial No. 186,546. 1 Claim. (Cl. 91—46.)

In a slasher, a sizing vat through which material is adapted to be passed to have sizing applied thereto, a source of sizing supply, a pipe connected to said source of sizing supply and extending to the vat, a pipe leading from one side of the vat at a point below the ordinary level of the sizing fluid, said pipe leading into a float chamber, a float mounted in said float chamber, a valve in the pipe leading from the source of sizing supply, connections between the float and the said valve whereby the valve is adapted to be opened when the level in the sizing vat sinks to a predetermined point, and to close the valve when the level in the sizing vat rises to another predetermined point.



1,749,112. BUMPER. BERT RUSSELL, Detroit, Mich., assignor to General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 24, 1928. Serial No. 328,079. 11 Claims. (Cl. 293—55.)

5. A quarter bumper organization comprising: an impact-receiving element; an attachment element; and connecting means therefor comprising a step element.

1,749,113. NEW DYESTUFFS OF THE TRIPHENYLMETHANE SERIES. KARL SCHMIDT, Leverkusen, Germany, assignor to General Aniline Works, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 20, 1928, Serial No. 313,934, and in Germany Apr. 21, 1927. 2 Claims. (Cl. 260—68.)

1. Triphenylmethane dyestuffs having in their free form the probable formula—wherein the benzene nuclei may be further substituted said dyestuffs forming dark blue to black powders easily soluble in water (in form of their alkali metal salts) with violet to blue colorations, dyeing wool, silk and other fibres strong violet to blue shades of good fastness properties especially to alkalies and light.

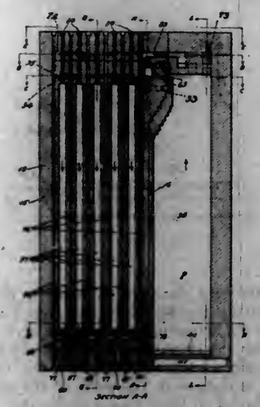
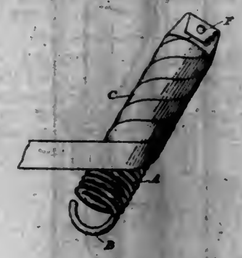
1,749,114. TOY SEWING MACHINE. HERBERT ERICH TAUTZ, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed June 5, 1926. Serial No. 113,882. 1 Claim. (Cl. 112—215.)



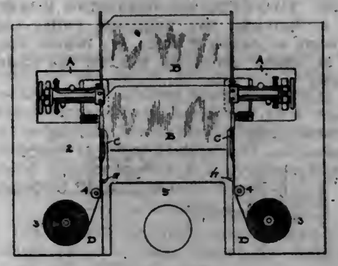
In a machine of the class described, the combination of a bed plate having mounted thereon a needle operating means including a rotatable shaft, a plate detachably connected to the under face of said bed plate and forming a support for a material feeder, said feeder including an elongated strip of metal having its intermediate portion slotted to provide spaced arms, said arms being bent upwardly for movement within slots provided in the bed plate, a depending arm formed integral with said feeder and eccentrically connected to said shaft, said feeder having one end supported for reciprocatory movement and the other for vertical movement in elements formed integral with said support plate, and said feeder adapted to reciprocate transversely of the bed plate to feed the material thereon upon the movement of the shaft.

1,749,115. ELECTRIC STORAGE HEATER. GUNNAR S. TUNE, Oakland, Calif. Filed June 7, 1927. Serial No. 197,061. 3 Claims. (Cl. 219—34.)



2. In an electric storage heater, a hollow body of heat absorbing and heat retentive material, electrical means for heating the same from the inside, a radiator having communication with the inside, a valve in said communication, controlled means for withdrawing heat from said radiator and means responsive to temperature changes in the radiator zone operating said valve.

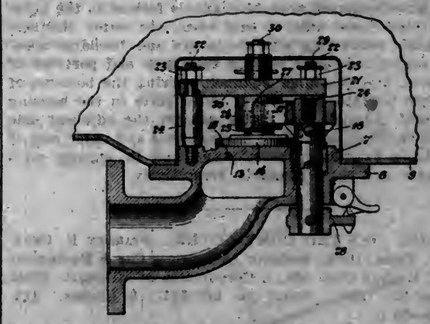
1,749,116. REGENERATIVE HEATING STRUCTURE. JOSEPH VAN ACKEREN, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to The Koppers Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed Oct. 5, 1923. Serial No. 666,735. 10 Claims. (Cl. 202—128.)



1. In a vertical retort battery, in combination: a plurality of high narrow retor chambers, each adapted to receive through its top the charge to be coked and adapted to discharge through its bottom the coked charge; heating walls contiguous to such retort chambers and respectively comprising combustion flues alternately operable in unison for upflow and downflow combustion; horisontal flues respectively connected with the tops of the combustion flues; vertical feed channels respectively connected with the bottoms of the combustion flues, said feed channels being located in the heating walls in alternation with the combustion flues; and groups of high narrow regenerators, the regenerators of one group serving the combustion flues for downflow combustion and being directly connected in pairs with the horizontal channels at the top of the combustion flues, and the regenerators of the other group serving the combustion flues for upflow combustion and being each connected at its top with some of the vertical feed channels, each group of regenerators when operating for inflow comprising both air and fuel gas regenerators.

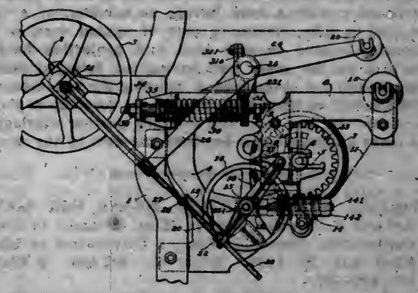
1,749,117. SPRING DEVICE. JOHN WEICHSEL, New York, N. Y. Filed Mar. 10, 1926. Serial No. 93,743. 4 Claims. (Cl. 267—74.)

1. A spring device comprising a coil spring and a one piece extensible metallic housing entirely enclosing said spring having a normal length approximately equal to the normal length of the spring and being adapted to accommodate itself to variations in the effective length of the spring when it is stressed and relaxed.



1,749,118. SEWING MACHINE. SAMUEL WECHSLER, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor of one-half to The Jaite Company, Jaite, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 17, 1927. Serial No. 161,560. 6 Claims. (Cl. 112—137.)

1. In a double-headed sewing machine of the character described, the combination of two sewing appliances arranged in spaced relation, a pair of correspondingly spaced folders, automatically operating means for varying the distance between said folders during the sewing-induced passage between said folders of articles of unequal dimension measured cross-wise of their direction of movement and means for operating said sewing appliances.



1,749,119. VALVE. WYLIE G. WILSON, Elizabeth, N. J., assignor to Everlasting Valve Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 25, 1928. Serial No. 256,687. 7 Claims. (Cl. 251—18.)

1. In a valve of the character disclosed, a valve body having a port with a valve seat surrounding said port and a supporting surface forming a lateral continuation of said seat, a valve disc for sliding movement over said valve seat and lateral continuation, an operating member for shifting the valve disc, a backing for said operating member and means for supporting said backing spaced from the valve body and with openings about the sides of the valve between the base and backing to thereby enable the moving valve disc to discharge solid matter lodged between the base and backing clear of the valve structure.

1,749,120. LET-OFF FOR LOOMS. WILLIAM H. BAKER, Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Filed June 21, 1928. Serial No. 287,336. 8 Claims. (Cl. 139—110.)

7. In loom let-off mechanism comprising a warp-beam-actuating ratchet-wheel, an actuating pawl, a pawl-carrier, means for yieldingly urging said pawl-carrier and pawl reversely toward starting position, a yieldingly-actuated whip-roll, and a whip-roll arm, the combination with the said elements, of a longitudinally movable rod connected with said whip-roll arm and carrying a shoulder for engagement with the pawl-carrier to define the said starting position, and a reciprocating rod equipped for engaging said pawl-carrier in movement of the rod in one direction and thereby actuating the pawl-carrier from said starting position so as to produce unwinding rotation of the warp-beam, both rods guided by the pawl-carrier in their reciprocation movements.

1,749,121. ROTARY PUMP. LESTER P. BARLOW, Stamford, Conn. Filed Feb. 16, 1928. Serial No. 254,699. 11 Claims. (Cl. 103—136.)

1. A rotary pump, comprising a housing having a rotor chamber with a raceway therein, said housing having intake and discharge openings for said chamber, a rotor in said chamber and having radial slots opening through one end of the rotor, rollers working in said slots for displacing fluid through said chamber, inner and outer interconnected arcuate channels formed in the housing at the open ends of said slots, the outer channels constantly connecting with the intake and discharge openings, respectively, and serving the outer end portions of the slots, and the inner channels serving the bottoms of the slots beneath the rollers, and a plate in the housing over said channels and fitting against the adjacent side of said raceway, said plate having inner and outer sets of port holes extending therethrough and in register with the inner and outer channels, respectively.

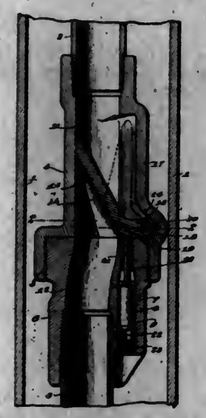
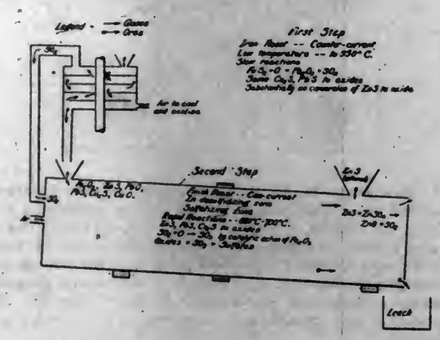
1,749,122. BOLTED DOME COVER. STARLEY F. BEASLEY, Tulsa, Okla., assignor to Peerless Car & Equipment Co., Kansas City, Mo., a Corporation of Missouri. Filed June 22, 1928. Serial No. 287,591. 8 Claims. (Cl. 220—55.)



1. A bolted cover for pressure tanks comprising the combination with a tank having an opening, of a cover for said opening having a pair of spaced ears, a bolt pivotally secured to said tank and projecting between the ears of the cover and having an enlarged portion overlapping the cover, and a cam lug formed integrally with the bolt to effect unseating of the cover upon pivotal movement of said bolt, the enlarged portion overlapping the cover until the latter has been unseated by the cam.

1,749,123. SHED-DIVERTING MEANS FOR LOOMS. ARTHUR E. BENSON, Boston, Mass., assignor to Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Aug. 28, 1928. Serial No. 302,486. 3 Claims. (Cl. 139—97.)

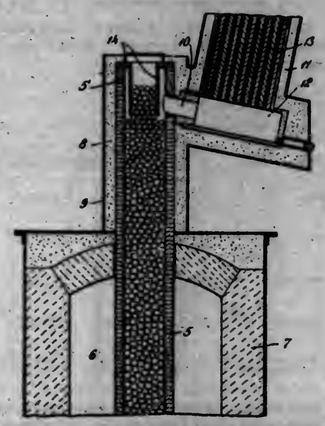


1. A loom comprising a lay, lay operating means comprising an actuating pitman, shed forming mechanism, a rock shaft extending transversely of the loom and having parallel radial supporting arms, a bar carried by said arms extending transversely of the central portion of the shed, an operating arm extending radially from the rock shaft and engaging and actuated by the pitman to rock the rock shaft and move the bar to engage and divert the adjacent shed layer thereby to place greater tension on the warps forming said shed layer than upon the remainder thus to produce "cover" in the woven fabric.

1,749,124. AUTOMATIC WELL-FLOWING DEVICE. ALEXANDER BOYNTON, San Antonio, Tex. Filed Dec. 1, 1927. Serial No. 237,051. 11 Claims. (Cl. 103—232.)

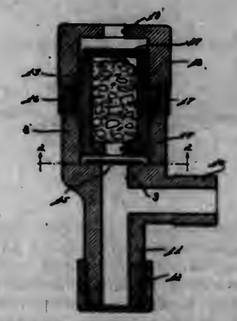
1. Apparatus of the character described comprising a body having a conduit for the passage of liquid and a communicating passageway for the introduction of lifting pressure fluid, and means respectively situated in the chamber and in the passageway each being independently and solely movable by the opposing effects of gravity and of liquid and pressure fluid impacts but mutually coactive for the control of the pressure fluid flow through said passageway.

1,749,125. TWO-STEP SULPHATIZING ROAST. FREDERIC A. BRINKER, San Francisco, Calif., assignor of one-fourth to Joseph P. Ruth, jr., Denver, Colo. Filed Oct. 21, 1926. Serial No. 143,126. 10 Claims. (Cl. 75—18.)



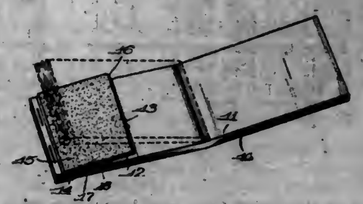
1. A process for sulphatizing ores containing iron and other sulfides comprising two steps in the first of which the minerals are moved in contact with the liberated gases at a temperature sufficient for conversion of the iron sulfide and at least portions of other sulfides but too low for the conversion of material amounts of zinc sulfide, and in the second of which the minerals from the first step move concurrently with the gases from the first step and are sulphatized.

1,749,126. REDUCING ZINCIFEROUS MATERIALS. EARL H. BUNCE and GEORGE T. MAHLER, Palmerton, Pa., assignors to The New Jersey Zinc Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 4, 1928. Serial No. 244,401. 10 Claims. (Cl. 75—28.)



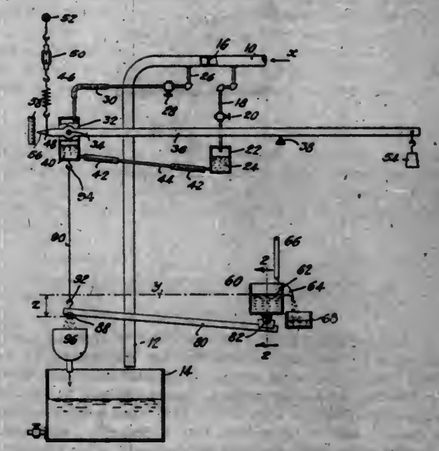
1. The improvement in the reduction of zinciferous material containing at least one contaminating metal which comprises conducting the gaseous product of the reducing operation through a hot eliminating medium maintained under reducing conditions at a temperature sufficiently low to effect substantial removal of said contaminating metal from said gaseous product, renewing said eliminating medium from time to time by fresh eliminating material added thereto at a temperature approximating that at which the medium is maintained, and subjecting the thus-treated gaseous product to appropriate treatment for the recovery of the zinc content thereof.

1,749,127. REDUCING ZINCIFEROUS MATERIALS CONTAINING LEAD. EARL H. BUNCE and GEORGE T. MAHLER, Palmerton, Pa., assignors to The New Jersey Zinc Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Jan. 4, 1928. Serial No. 244,519. 15 Claims. (Cl. 75—28.)



1. The improvement in the reduction of zinciferous material containing lead which comprises conducting the gaseous product of the reducing operation through a hot body of the reducing charge maintained at a regulated temperature sufficiently low to effect substantial removal of lead from said gaseous product, and subjecting the thus de-leaded gaseous product to appropriate treatment for the recovery of the zinc content thereof.

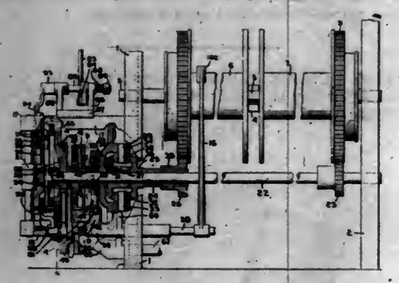
1,749,128. AIR-RELIEF DEVICE. AUGUST BUSS, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 18, 1928. Serial No. 255,804. 4 Claims. (Cl. 137—122.)



1. An air relief vent of the class described, comprising: an interiorly threaded member provided with an opening communicating with the system to be vented; a cup-shaped retaining member threaded into said member and provided with an opening in its base, said base being inwardly of said threaded member; a movable closure positioned between the opening in said base and the opening in said interiorly threaded member for opening and closing communication of said opening with said system; and absorbent material contained in said retainer.

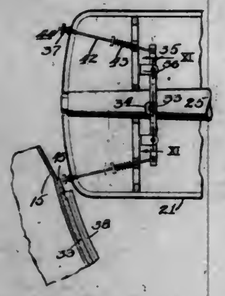
1,749,129. CHECK BOOK. HARVEY CONOVER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 1, 1928. Serial No. 309,624. 1 Claim. (Cl. 281—3.)

A check book comprising a book of checks, including stubs, a blotter of the length of said checks including their stubs, means for binding said blotter and checks at one end of the book, said blotter being in length substantially equal to half the length of the check including its stub, said blotter comprising two layers of blotting paper and an interposed strip of flexible material adhered thereto, one layer of said blotting material being scored and the other being creased on a transverse line substantially coincident with the line of detachment of the checks and stubs.



1,749,130. APPARATUS FOR PROPORTIONING LIQUIDS. PARLEY WESLEY CRAIG, Ensley, Ala. Filed Nov. 28, 1927. Serial No. 236,304. 4 Claims. (Cl. 210—81.)

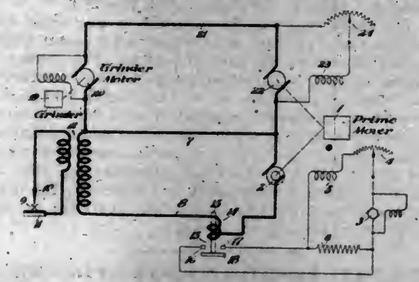
1. Apparatus for automatically proportioning liquids including a duct for conveying one of the liquids, said duct having a restricted port, a member supported on an antifriction fulcrum, the movements of said member being responsive to pressure variations on opposite sides of said port, a liquid reservoir, an outlet conduit communicating with the lower portion of and movable relatively to said reservoir and means connecting said conduit and said member so that the elevation at which liquid is discharged from said outlet conduit is controlled by said member.



CARNEGIE LIBRARY OF ATLANTA

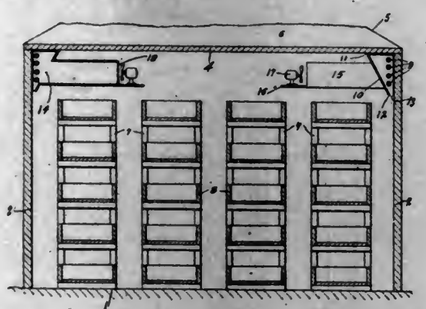
1,749,131. LET-OFF MECHANISM FOR LOOMS. HARRY A. DAVIS, Hopedale, Mass., assignor to Draper Corporation, Hopedale, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed Mar. 26, 1927. Serial No. 178,528. 11 Claims. (Cl. 139—108.)

1. Let-off mechanism for a loom having two warp beams comprising a positively rotated let-off member, a hand wheel rotatable with the let-off member, manually controlled means for connecting and disconnecting the let-off member and hand wheel, differential driving connections between the hand wheel and both beams whereby the tension on the warp on both beams is continuously equalized, and means to vary the amount of said rotation of the let-off member in proportion both to the warp tension and to the amount of yarn on the beams at each pick.



1,749,132. AIRPLANE. ALBIN J. ERICKSON, Chicago, Ill. Filed Oct. 18, 1928. Serial No. 313,223. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—15.)

1. An airplane of the type described comprising a wing section and mounting means therefor comprising an axis about which said wing section is adapted to rotate, means for rotating said wing section, means adapted to alter the angle of incidence of a portion of said wing section whereby to convert said wing section into a propeller, and means for releasably engaging and locking said wing section to form a fixed lifting surface.



1,749,133. ARC WELDING SYSTEM. ROYAL E. FRICKEY, San Francisco, and ARION S. KALENBORN, Redwood City, Calif. Filed Nov. 29, 1924, Serial No. 752,870. Renewed Dec. 17, 1928. 3 Claims. (Cl. 219—8.)

1. In an arc welding system, a step down portable transformer having input and output terminals, a welding circuit associated with the output terminals of the transformer, a portable constant current generator, a portable conductor interconnecting the generator and the input terminals of the transformer, said generator having a high reactive armature whereby the potential on the conductor may be maintained below a safe value during operation of the welding arc, and means associated with the generator for maintaining the potential below a dangerous value when the welding circuit is open.

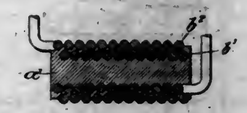
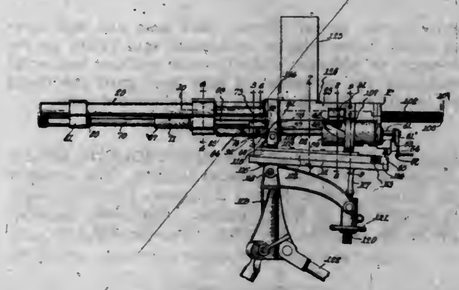
1,749,134. MUSHROOM PIT. ROGER W. GRISWOLD, Ashtabula, Ohio. Filed Feb. 8, 1928. Serial No. 252,785. 10 Claims. (Cl. 62—102.)



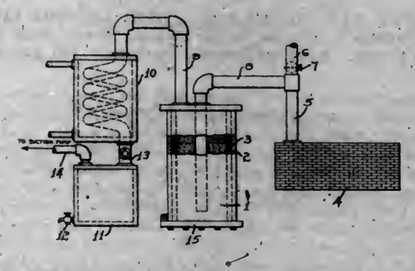
1. In combination, a series of fluid pipes, means substantially enclosing said pipes, said means being formed with a plurality of spaced inlet apertures and an outlet aperture, and separate means for causing a flow of air through said respective inlet apertures.

1,749,135. PIPE CLAMP. CHARLES HARTER, University City, Mo. Filed Apr. 19, 1928. Serial No. 271,145. 8 Claims. (Cl. 248—31.)



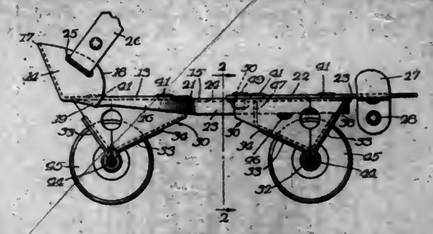
1. A pipe clamp comprising oppositely disposed clamping members adapted to clamp the pipe, a retaining member separated from one of said clamping members, and a wedge located between said retaining member and the last mentioned clamping member, said wedge being movable independently of said members to force the clamping members into engagement with the pipe.

1,749,136. INCANDESCENT ELECTRIC LAMP. JOHN ALLEN HEANY, New Haven, Conn., assignor to Sirian Lamp Company, Newark, N. J., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 3, 1916, Serial No. 107,867. Renewed Apr. 18, 1924. 4 Claims. (Cl. 176—16.)



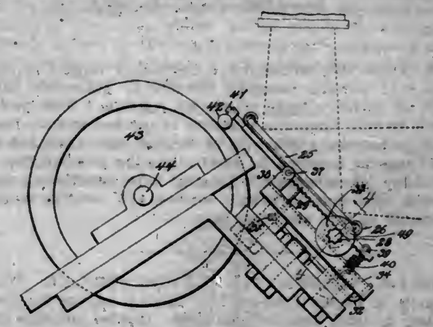
1. A glower for incandescent electric lamps comprising a resistor containing tungsten, a support of refractory compound in intimate contact with the resistor and capable of being heated to incandescence thereby, and a radiating surface associated with the glower composed of tungsten.

1,749,137. MACHINE GUN. ROBERT F. HUDSON, Richmond, Va., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Automatic Guns, Inc., Washington, D. C., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 28, 1923, Serial No. 621,824. Renewed Feb. 28, 1927. 51 Claims. (Cl. 89—2.)



25. A machine gun, including a receiver, a barrel, a reciprocatory breech block mounted in the receiver, rotary means for reciprocating the breech block, and gas and spring actuated means and external means for operating the rotary means.

1,749,138. PROCESS OF COKING. HARRY G. JENNISON and CHARLES R. FABEN, Toledo, Ohio; said Faben assignor to said Jennison. Filed July 28, 1928. Serial No. 296,046. 8 Claims. (Cl. 202—19.)

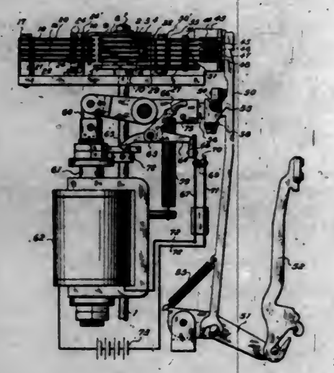


1. The process of coking which comprises destructively distilling a batch of a heavy hydrocarbon liquid to a hard low volatile coke by conducting hot gases produced by the combustion of carbonaceous fuel, under induced draft, into the batch of liquid and liberating the same near the bottom thereof, and allowing said gases to bubble up through said liquid.

1,749,139. ROLLER SKATE. PLINY N. JOSLIN, De Kalb, Ill. Filed Oct. 8, 1927. Serial No. 224,879. 18 Claims. (Cl. 208—175.)

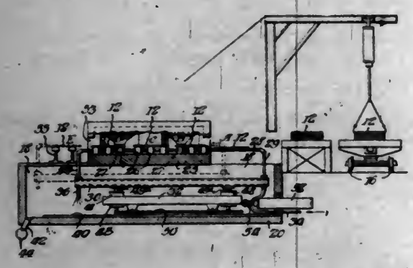
1. In a roller skate, a heel plate having an integral shank girder, and a toe plate, the shank girder extending under the toe plate from the rear end of the latter, and said rear end being located within the length of the girder.

1,749,140. MOTION-PICTURE-PROJECTING MACHINE. THOMAS A. KILLMAN, Nashville, Tenn. Filed Dec. 21, 1925. Serial No. 76,607. 6 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.8.)



3. In a motion picture projecting machine, an optical rectifier comprising a mirror, a frame mounted on the mirror, means for oscillating the mirror and frame, a fulcrum engaging the frame, a base carrying the fulcrum, and means on the fulcrum, and movable in relation to the frame to shift the fulcrum in relation to said base.

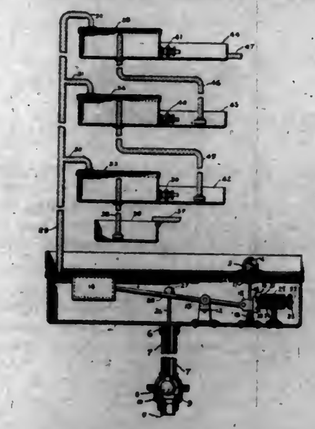
1,749,141. STEAM CONDENSER. JOHN F. KIRGAN, Easton, Pa., assignor to Ingersoll-Rand Company, Jersey City, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed May 21, 1927. Serial No. 193,151. 3 Claims. (Cl. 257—43.)



1. A surface condenser comprising a casing having a steam inlet and an outlet for air and non-condensable gases, an inlet water box for said casing and an outlet water box for said casing, and rows of tubes connecting said boxes arranged in substantially parallel planes perpendicular to the path of steam flow, said tubes being arranged in parallel vertical rows at the end of the condenser adjacent the inlet water box, and alternate tubes in a vertical direction at the other end of the condenser being displaced sidewise with respect to the remaining tubes to provide a staggered arrangement.

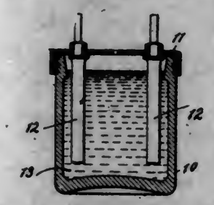
1,749,142. SELECTIVE SYSTEM AND APPARATUS. EDWARD E. KLEINSCHMIDT, Long Island City, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Teletype Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 18, 1924. Serial No. 726,838. 55 Claims. (Cl. 178—27.)

1. A selecting mechanism comprising a magnet, a plurality of selector members movable in succession said selector members being selectively restrained from movement by said magnet, a plurality of notched selector bars each embodying a plurality of notches and controlled by said selector members to selectively align said notches, a plurality of selectable actuating bars selectively controlled by alignment of said notches, and printing means actuated by said actuating bars.



1,749,143. SHEET-METAL HEATING FURNACE. WILLIAM A. LACKE, Chicago, Ill. Original application filed May 2, 1921, Serial No. 466,184. Divided and this application filed Nov. 29, 1922. Serial No. 603,939. 17 Claims. (Cl. 214—18.)

1. In mechanism of the class described, a plate heating furnace, internally provided with a multiplicity of supports, a plurality of said supports so sustaining one plate of a plurality of plates side by side through the furnace that gas may pass above and below the plate, automatic means manipulatable from outside the furnace for carrying a plate step by step into the furnace, on to a plurality of said support, and finally out of the furnace, for the purposes set forth.



1,749,144. AUTOMATICALLY-OPERATING MECHANISM FOR ELEVATING LIQUIDS. REA D. LENTZ, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Oct. 27, 1926. Serial No. 144,641. 6 Claims. (Cl. 103—236.)

1. In a device of the class described the combination of a closed receptacle provided with an inlet and a valve adapted to control said inlet, a discharge outlet for said receptacle, a controlling valve for said outlet, means for supplying a liquid to said receptacle through said inlet, a float in said receptacle adapted to be actuated by said liquid therein, means between said float and said inlet and outlet valves adapted to actuate said valves by the movement of said float and adjustable resilient means for restraining the movement of said float until the liquid level in said receptacle reaches a predetermined point.

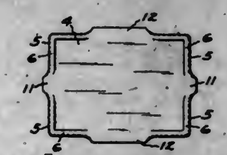
1,749,145. ELECTRODE FOR ELECTROLYTIC CELLS. ERNEST F. LUNDBERG, Cleveland Heights, Ohio, assignor to Willard Storage Battery Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Jan. 31, 1927. Serial No. 164,663. 5 Claims. (Cl. 175—318.)

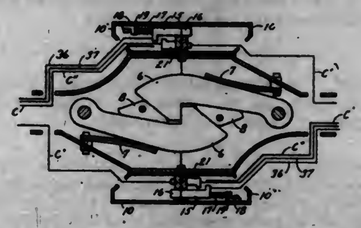
2. In an electrolytic cell, a suitable electrolyte, a film-forming electrode, and a ferrous electrode containing more than ten per cent by weight of chromium.

1,749,146. GUIDE FOR CABLES AND THE LIKE. EDMUND R. MAISON, Mount Clemens, Mich. Filed Jan. 14, 1929. Serial No. 332,271. 8 Claims. (Cl. 64—17.)



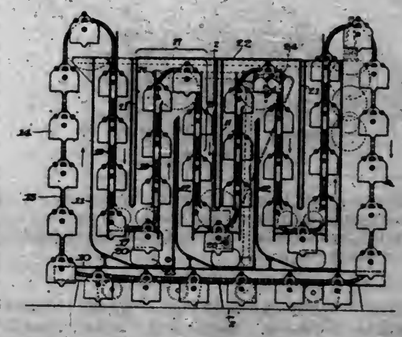
8. A roller of the class described comprising: a rotatable body having a central groove formed on its periphery lying on a plane at right angles to the axis of said body and provided on its periphery at opposite sides of said central groove with a plurality of peripheral grooves, each provided with a restricted area portion and with a widened area portion, each groove communicating at its restricted area portion with the next inwardly positioned groove.

1,749,147. PROCESS OF PISTON-RING CASTING. THURLOW E. MCFALL, Sparta, Mich. Filed Mar. 5, 1929. Serial No. 344,373. 3 Claims. (Cl. 29—156.62.)



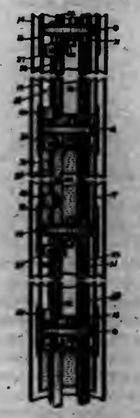
1. The method of providing ring castings for piston rings having a face of approximately one eighth inch, which consists in forming a pattern having a face of approximately one-fourth of an inch plus allowance for machining and shrinkage, casting from said pattern, and dividing the casting produced into two equal parts by cutting the casting circumferentially midway between its opposite flat sides.

1,749,148. PROCESS OF FLANGING SHEET METAL. JAMES A. MCGREGOR, Cleveland, Ohio. Original applications filed Oct. 8, 1926, Serial No. 140,362, and Mar. 7, 1928, Serial No. 259,665. Divided and this application filed Mar. 7, 1928. Serial No. 259,664. 11 Claims. (Cl. 113—51.)



1. The method of forming a sheet metal article having a completely peripheral depending flange, which comprises forming a depending corner flange in a piece of sheet metal, forming additional depending corner flanges, and forming depending flanges intermediate said corner flanges to thereby form a completely peripheral depending flange.

1,749,149. ELECTRIC COUPLER SYSTEM. GEORGE A. MEAD, Mansfield, Ohio, assignor to The Ohio Brass Company, Mansfield, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed July 30, 1925. Serial No. 47,078. 2 Claims. (Cl. 177—311.)

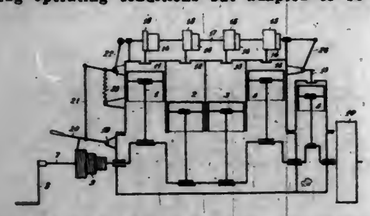


1. The combination in a car and electric coupler secured to the end of a car of a head, a coupling hook arranged to connect with a cooperating device upon impact, exposed electrical contacts upon the coupling face of said head and insulated therefrom, conductors leading from the contacts, a current supply circuit to said car from a source of power, a movable contact upon the coupler head cooperating with a fixed contact forming a circuit controller and arranged to open an auxiliary circuit connected thereto when the head is coupled and to close the auxiliary circuit when the head is uncoupled, a manually operated switch to open and close and control the circuits to the contacts and connect some of the conductors and the auxiliary circuit to the current supply circuit, an electrically controlled signal connected to the auxiliary circuit and in series circuit with the circuit controller and the manually operated switch to indicate when the switch is closed and the coupler in an uncoupled relation to a cooperating coupler.

1,749,150. PASTEURIZER. GEORGE J. MEYER, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Geo. J. Meyer Manufacturing Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 5, 1928. Serial No. 622,976. 6 Claims. (Cl. 126—272.)

1. A pasteuriser comprising a tank having a bottle conveyer passing therethrough provided with suspended bottle carriers, stationary guides within the tank, and guide means carried by the bottle carriers for engagement with said guides to prevent the bottle carriers from tilting during their travel through the tank.

1,749,151. FLUID-ELEVATING APPARATUS. LESTER H. MILES, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 22, 1927. Serial No. 200,621. 5 Claims. (Cl. 103—239.)



1. An oil well lift including a plurality of stages connected together, each of said stages comprising a hollow member, a transverse partition and a conductor member communicating with the space above and below said partition, a valve communicating with the interior of said stage, float means in said stage, said float means being adapted to actuate said valve to allow gas to enter said stage when the fluid therein rises to a predetermined point and actuate said valve to allow the gas in said stage to escape when the fluid in the stage falls below a predetermined point.

1,749,152. STARTING MECHANISM FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. FRIEDRICH MÜLLER, Vienna, Austria. Original application filed Mar. 25, 1921, Serial No. 455,575, now Patent No. 1,570,914, and in Austria May 4, 1918. Divided and this application filed July 15, 1925. Serial No. 43,855. 5 Claims. (Cl. 123—182.)

1. In an internal combustion engine, a number of working cylinders, and means for automatically bringing the working cylinders to their normal compression conditions in a consecutive manner during engine starting comprising air escape means for the cylinders normally closed during operating conditions but adapted to be open to initiate the engine starting operation, mechanism for automatically consecutively closing the air escape means for the various cylinders, and engine driven means for operating said mechanism.

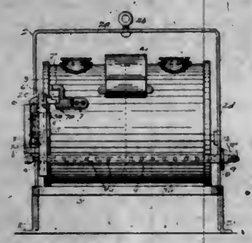
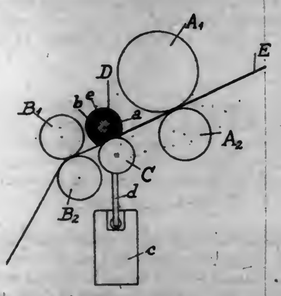
1,749,153. SELF-PRESERVING MILK PRODUCT. THOMAS O'CONNOR, Minneapolis, Minn.; Merchants Trust Company executors of said Thomas O'Connor, deceased. Filed Feb. 8, 1926. Serial No. 86,927. 10 Claims. (Cl. 99—11.)



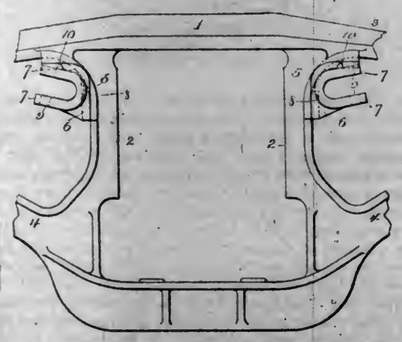
1. A self preserving, condensed milk product containing not less than twenty-five per cent of water, between seven and fourteen per cent of sodium chloride and at least twenty-eight per cent of milk solids, together with a quantity of sugar.

1,749,154. SHUTTER FOR MOTION-PICTURE PROJECTORS AND CAMERAS. ARCHIBALD M. O'HAGEN and GEORGE C. BERGER, Fosston, Minn. Filed Dec. 21, 1927. Serial No. 241,617. 4 Claims. (Cl. 88—19.3.)



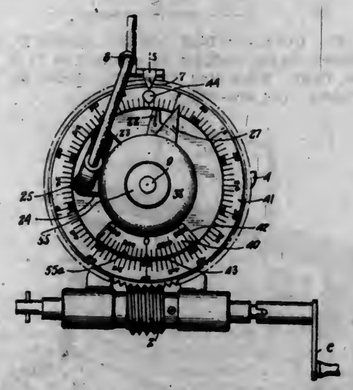
3. A shutter mechanism for motion picture apparatus comprising three shutters each having a blade arranged concentrically and symmetrically about the lens of the motion picture apparatus, the blade of each shutter having its side edges diverging outwardly to a point which travels across the center of the lens and then converging outwardly to the end of the blade, forming an obtuse angle.

1,749,155. AUTOMATIC FIRE EXTINGUISHER. HOWARD W. PARTLOW, Utica, N. Y. Filed Dec. 5, 1927. Serial No. 237,888. 2 Claims. (Cl. 169—27.)



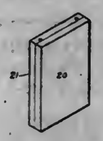
1. A latch release mechanism for a fire extinguisher having a tumbler rotatably mounted in a frame and provided with a latch on its periphery, including a vertical member, means connected to said member and formed for connection to the frame to rigidly support the member adjacent to an end of the frame and in spaced relation to the periphery of the tumbler, a horizontal lever pivoted between its ends to said vertical member and having its inner end lapping the periphery of the tumbler and engageable with the latch of the tumbler, a vertical lever having its upper end underlying and engageable with the under side of the outer end of the horizontal lever, means to pivotally mount said vertical lever, on said vertical member, temperature responsive means connected at one end to the lower end of the vertical lever to actuate the same, and means to support the other end of said temperature responsive means from said frame of the tumbler.

1,749,156. DRAWING DEVICE FOR SPINNING MULES, SPINNING FRAMES, AND PREPARATORY MACHINES. JULES PELIMLIN, Mulhouse, France. Filed Feb. 15, 1927, Serial No. 168,480, and in France Feb. 17, 1926. 8 Claims. (Cl. 19—142.)



1. An upper intermediate roller for drawing devices for machines of the class described comprising a cylindrical core portion and a flexible resilient cover, said cover being characterized by its considerable thickness, great resiliency and flexibility, so that by pressing on the bottom roller it embraces the latter upon a comparatively large part of its peripheral surface, the cylindrical core portion being provided on each side of the cover with a step-up part of such a diameter as to limit the pressure of the top roller upon the sliver or roving within a predetermined maximum, independently of the amount of pressure.

1,749,157. BRAKE-HANGER BRACKET. WILLIAM G. POWELL, Altoona, Pa. Filed May 16, 1928. Serial No. 278,269. 7 Claims. (Cl. 105—205.)



2. In a car truck construction, a side frame having an integral brake hanger bracket projecting laterally therefrom, said bracket consisting of an arcuate basal web and upper and lower inclined jaws at the end of the web.

1,749,158. AUTOMATIC COUNTER AND STOP DEVICE. PAUL REISS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Viking Tool and Machine Co., Inc., Brooklyn, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 24, 1926. Serial No. 150,585. 10 Claims. (Cl. 235—132.)

2. In a counting device, a frame, a pair of disks rotatably mounted on the frame and having teeth formed on their peripheral edges, one of the disks being provided with a greater number of teeth than the other of said disks, means common to said disks for driving the latter independently of each other, a slidable ring mounted on one of the disks and having a depression, a notched pin carried by the other of said disks and formed to be received in said depression, a circuit closer, and an adjustable dog mounted on the frame and having a portion disposed in the path of said pin whereby to actuate the circuit closer.

1,749,159. HEAT, COLD, AND SOUND INSULATING MATERIAL. WILLIAM R. RESPESS, New York, N. Y., assignor to Leonard C. L. Smith, Long Island City, N. Y. Filed Nov. 26, 1927. Serial No. 235,864. 10 Claims. (Cl. 154—44.)

7. The combination of a plurality of sheets of heat, cold and sound insulating material forming a block, a water and air proof coating for each sheet functioning also as a binder between the adjacent faces of the sheets, a channel between each pair of sheets and formed therein, connecting members for the channels to form a continuous conduit, an inlet valve for one end of the conduit and an outlet valve for its outer end, an additional sheet of said material connected to said block, a channel formed with the latter sheet, independent of said conduit, an inlet valve for one end of the latter channel and an outlet valve for the other end of the latter channel.

1,749,160. DUPLICATING MACHINE. GEORGE SABIK, Western Springs, Ill., assignor to U. S. Duplicator Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Jan. 9, 1928. Serial No. 245,346. 19 Claims. (Cl. 101—133.)

1. In a duplicating machine, the combination of a frame adapted to hold a duplicating surface, a paper stop near one end of the position to be occupied by said duplicating surface in position to arrest a sheet of paper fed toward said surface, and a movable impression roller mounted to be moved from a position beneath the stopped end of said paper to contact said paper and swing the same over said stop and onto said duplicating surface, substantially as described.

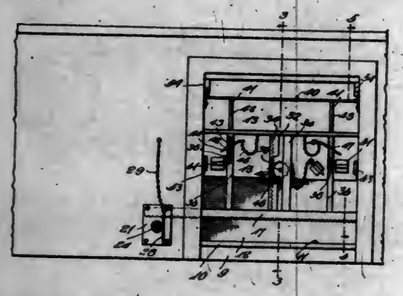
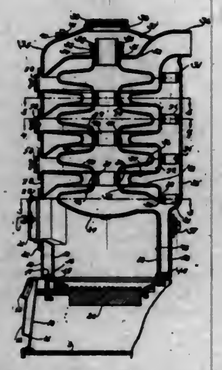
1,749,161. FILLING APPARATUS. MILTON SCHNAIER, New York, N. Y. Filed July 11, 1925. Serial No. 42,877. 18 Claims. (Cl. 226—108.)



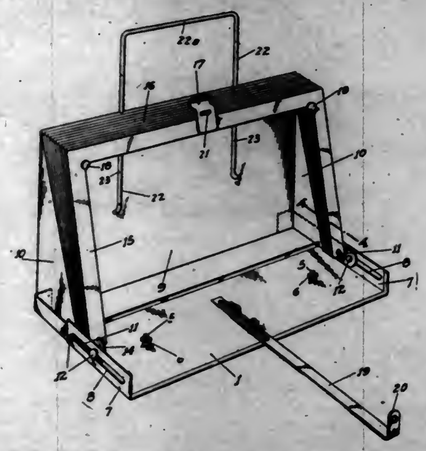
1. An apparatus of the class described including a reservoir, a plurality of measuring cylinders having their upper ends in communication with the reservoir, inlet valves of diameters substantially the same as the diameters of the cylinders and above the latter, outlet valves at the lower ends of the cylinders and self-draining ports opening into the upper ends of the measuring cylinders substantially directly below said inlet valves, whereby liquid may flow freely into the measuring cylinders when the outlet valves are closed and the inlet valves opened and may flow freely out of them easuring cylinders when the inlet valves are closed and the outlet valves opened.

1,749,162. THREAD PROTECTOR. HENRY D. SCOTT, Wheeling, W. Va. Filed Mar. 28, 1929. Serial No. 350,652. 8 Claims. (Cl. 137—91.)



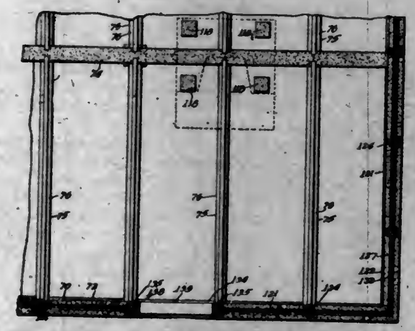
1. A thread protector for internally threaded pipe couplings and the like, comprising a disk having a plurality of tongues bent downwardly from the plane thereof and provided with threads on their outer faces for engaging the internal threads of a pipe or coupling, the disk having an annular marginal portion for protecting the end of the pipe or coupling.

1,749,163. GRAIN-CAR DOOR. JURGEN SIEMSEN, Custer, Mont., assignor of one-half to Anna Berry, Billings, Mont. Filed Mar. 8, 1928, Serial No. 260,095. Renewed May 29, 1929. 5 Claims. (Cl. 20—31.)



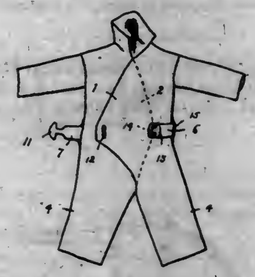
1. A door comprising a lower slidable section of rectangular form and provided at its vertical edges with laterally projecting flanges, an upper horizontal bar extending between and secured to the upper ends of said flanges, said bar being outwardly spaced from said lower door section, a lower horizontal bar extending between and secured to said flanges, vertical bars extending between and secured to said upper and lower horizontal bars, said vertical bars being outwardly spaced from said lower door section, and an upper rectangular door section slidably received between said lower section and said upper and vertical bars, the vertical edges of said upper section being slidably engaged with said flanges.

1,749,164. FURNACE. JOHN SPOUSTA, River Rouge, Mich. Filed Feb. 11, 1927. Serial No. 167,409. 1 Claim. (Cl. 122—218.)



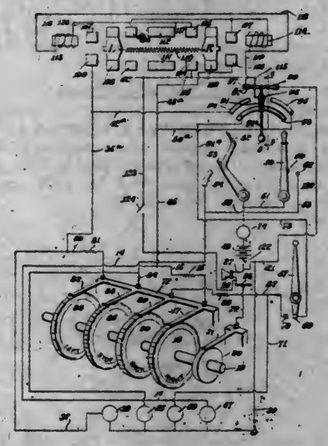
A furnace of the class described comprising a plurality of duplicate double walled sections, with the spaces between said walls in intercommunication, the inner wall of each of said sections being bulged inwardly away from the outer wall, a plurality of centrally disposed, disk-like hollow intercommunicating sections enclosed by said double walled sections, the edges of adjacent disc like sections extending in overlapping, spaced relation to said bulged walls, the space between said bulged walls and disk-like sections forming sinuous passages for the escape of gas, a supporting section comprising spaced walls forming continuations of the walls of the double walled sections, the space between said walls being in communication with the space between said double walled sections, a centrally disposed hollow globe-shaped member connected to said supporting section and disk-like members, and establishing communication between the enclosed spaces of said sections and members, and providing support for said disk-like members, a hollow top section communicating with said double walled sections and said disk-like sections and having an exit flue in communication with said sinuous passages, said supporting section inclosing a combustion chamber space.

1,749,165. COLLAPSIBLE COVER. JORDAN D. STANTON, Berkeley, Calif., assignor of one-half to I. G. Krieger, Lodi, Calif. Filed Mar. 26, 1927. Serial No. 178,635. 3 Claims. (Cl. 45—68.1.)



1. In a collapsible cover structure, a base plate, a cover structure mounted on the plate for horizontal movement to and from the front of the plate, said structure including a front bow arranged to be lowered to or raised from the plate, a slotted element projecting outwardly from the bow, a bar on the plate, a tongue on the outer end of the bar to engage the slotted element when the front bow is lowered, and means connecting the bar to the plate in a manner to permit of adjustment of the bar on the plate to the same extent and in the same direction as the movement of the cover structure relative to the plate.

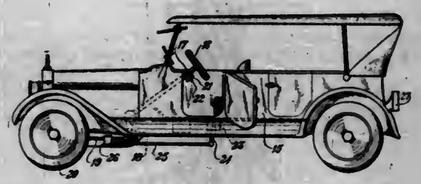
1,749,166. BUILDING CONSTRUCTION. FRANK S. SWAN, Glen Ellyn, Ill. Filed June 14, 1926. Serial No. 116,053. 9 Claims. (Cl. 72—1.)



1. A wall for a building comprising a foundation built of interlocking members of concrete formed independently of each other, concrete posts formed independently of the foundation and supported thereby, slabs of concrete disposed intermediate the posts and formed independently thereof, said posts and slabs being arranged to form the outer walls of the building.

1,749,167. GARMENT. FRANCES E. SWANSTROM, Duluth, Minn. Filed Aug. 30, 1928. Serial No. 302,924. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—79.)

The combination with a garment of the class described having body and leg portions, of integral overlapping flaps comprising the entire front of the body portion, a seat flap overlapping the entire lower portion of the back of the body portion, and fastening means attached to the upper opposite corners of the seat flap, one for cooperative engagement with one front flap through the garment, and the other for cooperative engagement with the other front flap externally of the garment.

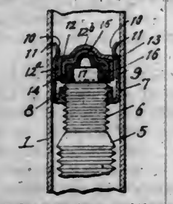


1,749,168. VEHICLE SIGNAL. EVERETT W. SWARTWOUT, White Plains, N. Y. Filed Jan. 11, 1921. Serial No. 436,455. 16 Claims. (Cl. 177—337.)

5. In a vehicle having a steering device, the combination with a plurality of indicating means; of means operative automatically upon movement of the steering device for operating said indicating means corresponding to the direction of movement of the steering device, said steering device automatically operated means comprising contact means controlled by the steering device, a set of contacts engaged by a contact arm supported on said steering device for the neutral position of said contact means and sets of contacts respectively for the "left" and "right" positions of said contact means; manually operable, electrically held means comprising separate manually operated "left" and "right" members for correspondingly setting said indicating means in advance of the operation of the steering device, said manually operable, electrically held means comprising electromagnetic means for holding said manually operable means in set position prior to the operation of the steering device; and electrical circuit means connecting said set of contacts for the neutral position of said contact means with the said manually operable, electrically held means when the steering device is in neutral position.

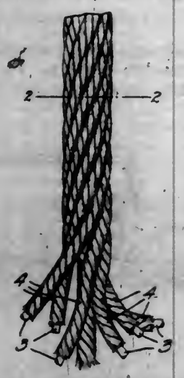
13. The combination with a vehicle provided with a steering mechanism of a plurality of electrical circuits, a source of power, manually operable bridge members for selectively controlling said circuits, an electro-magnet for each bridge member, contacts for each of said bridge members, a connection between said bridge members, contacts so arranged with relation to said bridge members that one bridge member contacts to complete the circuit for energising the electro-magnet for holding the other bridge member, means for restoring said manually operable bridge members to neutral position upon release from its electromagnet and switch means controlled by turning said steering mechanism in the direction indicated whereby said manually operable bridge member is released and said signal is maintained until after said turn has been made and said steering wheel returned to straight ahead position.

1,749,169. COURSE-SIGNALING SYSTEM. EVERETT W. SWARTWOUT, White Plains, N. Y. Filed Aug. 31, 1922. Serial No. 585,355. 10 Claims. (Cl. 177—337.)



1. In a vehicle having a steering device, the combination with a plurality of indicating means; of means operative automatically upon movement of the steering device for operating said indicating means corresponding to the direction of movement of the steering device; said steering device automatically operated means comprising contact means controlled by said steering device, a set of contacts engaged by a contact arm supported on said steering device for the neutral position of said contact means and sets of contacts respectively for the "left" and "right" positions of said contact means, manually operable, electrically held means comprising "left" and "right" members for setting said indicating means in advance of the operation of said steering device, said manually operable, electrically held means further comprising common manually operated means for setting said "left" and "right" members respectively and further comprising electro-magnetic means for holding said "left" and "right" members in set position prior to the operation of said steering device, and electrical circuit means for energizing said electromagnetic means when said contact means is in neutral position and for de-energizing said electromagnetic means when said contact means is in either its "left" or its "right" position.

1,749,170. QUICK-DETACHABLE DUSTCAP. EWALD F. TOBOLD, Cleveland, Ohio, assignor to The Dill Manufacturing Company, Cleveland, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Apr. 18, 1927. Serial No. 184,479. 8 Claims. (Cl. 152—12.)



1. A dust cap construction comprising a shell which is closed at one end and open at the other end, an attaching member within said shell having a body portion which is adapted to be mounted upon the end of a valve stem, a plurality of upturned resilient fingers carried by the body portion, a cup-shaped member encircled by the said resilient fingers, a sealing member mounted within said cup-shaped member and free to turn with respect thereto, said fingers having portions adapted to be engaged by the said cup-shaped member to move them outward when the attaching member is mounted upon the end of a valve stem.

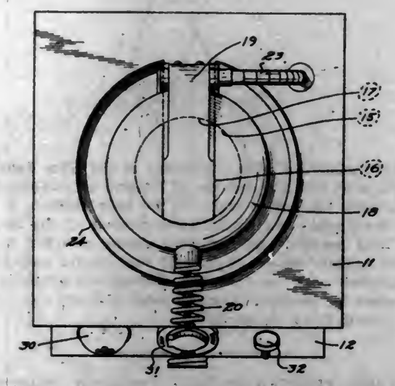
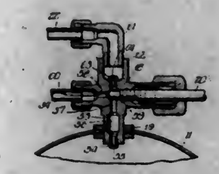
1,749,171. ROPE STRUCTURE. HAROLD M. WALL and WALDO REINER, Beverly, N. J. Filed Jan. 26, 1924. Serial No. 688,703. 1 Claim. (Cl. 117—59.)



A composite rope consisting of a core member twisted from a plurality of fibrous strands in one direction and a plurality of wires laid around the core in the opposite direction, each of said wires being incased in a plurality of casing strands spirally wound on the respective wire in the same direction as the core winding, said casing strands being impregnated with a lubricant, said lubricant containing a copper salt.

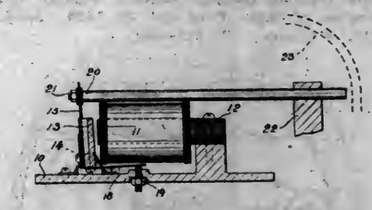
1,749,172. AUTOMATIC STOP. DIXON E. WASHINGTON, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Nov. 30, 1927. Serial No. 236,871. 3 Claims. (Cl. 188—81.)



1. In combination with a rotatable shaft, a stop therefor comprising a ratchet, a housing for the ratchet, a plurality of dogs, a cam adjacent said ratchet having faces to hold said dogs out of engagement with the ratchet and means holding said stop in the operative position adapted to permit gradual reversal of the housing and shaft when the dogs move to the ratchet engaging position.

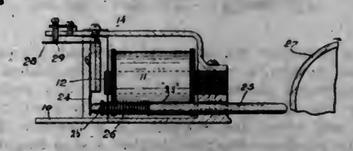
1,749,173. ELECTRICALLY-HEATED WAFFLE IRON. GEORGE FREDERICK WELLS, San Francisco, Calif. Filed Apr. 4, 1927. Serial No. 180,883. 6 Claims. (Cl. 53—10.)

1. In an electrical waffle iron, a stationary waffle mold, a hinged waffle mold, means for electrically heating both molds, a pedestal upon which the stationary mold is supported, said pedestal being narrow and having straight vertical sides, and a removable tray having a slot in which the pedestal can be accommodated when the tray is in place beneath the stationary mold.



1,749,174. VAPOR-STOVE CONSTRUCTION. ANTON J. ZRAGEK, Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., assignor to Prentiss-Wabers Products Co., Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Mar. 28, 1929. Serial No. 350,532. 4 Claims. (Cl. 158—81.)

1. In a vapor stove, a pressure fuel tank, a mixing valve connected to the air under pressure in the top of the tank, a connection between the mixing valve and the liquid fuel in the tank, a generator, a connection between the mixing valve and the generator, and a separate valve controlled connection between the generator and liquid fuel in the tank.



1,749,175. ELECTRIC SIGNAL BELL. FRANK ALBRIGHT, Bronx, and WILLIAM ELSASSER, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Stanley & Patterson, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 14, 1926. Serial No. 154,844. 2 Claims. (Cl. 177—7.)

1. In combination, an electromagnet, an armature, a striker, a translating device cooperating with said striker, means for resiliently biasing the armature away from the magnet, and means for resiliently connecting said striker with said armature and located on the face of said armature opposite to that adjacent to said magnet, the resiliency of said connecting means being greater when said armature is moving toward said magnet than when moving away from said magnet.

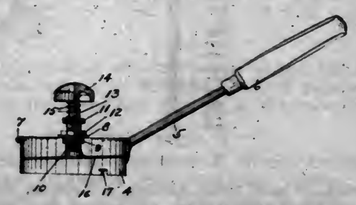
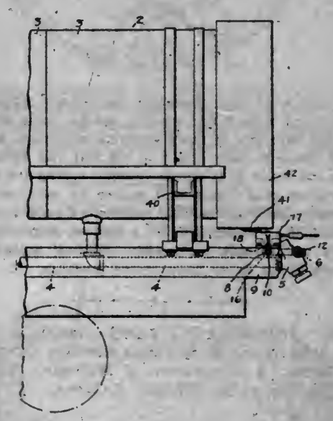
1,749,176. ELECTRIC SIGNAL BELL. FRANK ALBRIGHT, Bronx, and WILLIAM ELSASSER, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignors to Stanley & Patterson, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 14, 1926. Serial No. 154,845. 3 Claims. (Cl. 177—7.)



1. In combination, an electromagnet, an armature actuated thereby, a plunger, resilient means on said armature contacting with said plunger for moving the same in one direction, resilient means on said armature for regulating its stroke, and resilient means on said plunger for cushioning the stroke of said contacting means and for moving said plunger in the opposite direction.

1,749,177. SILENCING COVER FOR MACHINES. ROY N. BAXTER, Portland, and BERT C. RUB, Tigard, Oreg. Filed Jan. 18, 1927. Serial No. 161,933. 1 Claim. (Cl. 45—68.1.)

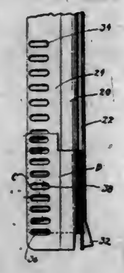


A silencing cover consisting of a box adapted to rest upon the floor having its upper end open and having each side wall formed of spaced wall elements having their adjacent sides felt covered; a removable section adapted to be mounted upon said box having an over-lapping connection with said lower box member, the sides of said section sloping toward the front and having grooves on their inner upper edges; a glass cover for said section slidably placed in said groove and resting on the front and back of said section; and having felt pads placed between the contacting sides of said glass and its supporting members.

1,749,178. DEVICE FOR FORMING HAMBURGER PATS AND THE LIKE. ALMER A. BERG, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed June 3, 1929. Serial No. 367,919. 2 Claims. (Cl. 107—48.)

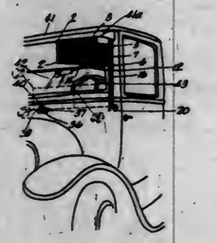
1. A device of the character described comprising a ringed shell member, a presser plate within the member, a rod projecting from the plate, a knob on the rod, a bearing member for the rod carried by the shell member, and a spring for yieldably raising the rod, said bearing member serving as a stop for the plate and being vertically adjustable whereby the chamber formed by the shell member and plate may be regulated as to size.

1,749,179. SAFETY DEVICE FOR TANKS. AUGUSTINE DAVIS, Jr., Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed Nov. 4, 1927. Serial No. 231,117. 8 Claims. (Cl. 175—264.)



1. In connection with a tank having an outlet conduit leading from the lower portion of the tank, the combination with a valve in said conduit and external to the tank, a lock for preventing opening of said valve, and means adapted to be applied to release said lock and by such application to electrically ground the tank prior to the discharge of liquid from said outlet conduit.

1,749,180. ROLL-SCREEN LATCH. HARRY DIXSON, Pella, Iowa, assignor to Rolscreen Company, Pella, Iowa. Filed July 29, 1929. Serial No. 381,730. 5 Claims. (Cl. 156—89.)



1. In combination with a guide track having a flat attaching flange, a latch for a rolling window screen comprising a resilient member slidably mounted upon said track in circumscribing relation thereto, the attaching flange of said track having a plurality of spaced openings therein, said resilient member having a plurality of spaced openings therein adapted during its slidable movement to have at least one of its openings in register with one of the openings in said track, whereby a fastening element may be projected therethrough for locking said resilient member relative to the track.

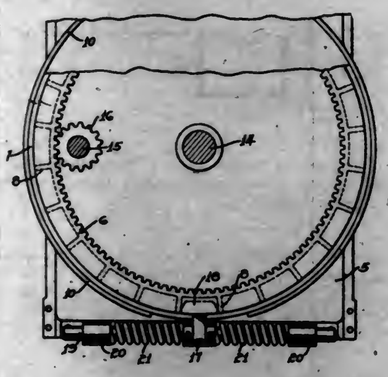
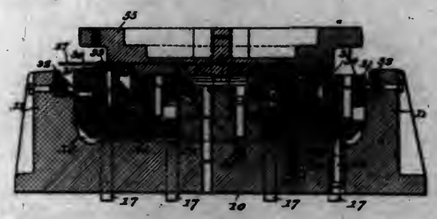
1,749,181. GLARE SHIELD. CONRAD EHRET, Oklahoma City, Okla. Filed Jan. 19, 1929. Serial No. 333,639½. 5 Claims. (Cl. 296—97.)



1. A device of the character described, comprising a frame covered with a fine meshed screen, both screen and frame bent into one or more sections which are angularly disposed towards each other, a vertical rod suitably fastened to the front of a motor vehicle, means for elevating and lowering said frame and screen on said rod, means for securely holding the first section of said frame to a windshield of an automobile at a desired angle, means for fastening said frame and frame holding means to the automobile front in an inoperative position.

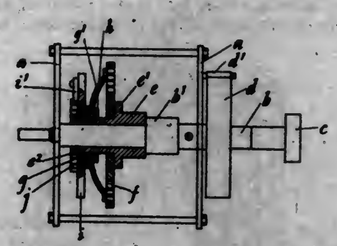
1,749,182. AGITATOR DIP TANK. VERNIE A. FOX, Detroit, Mich., assignor to Young Brothers Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed June 22, 1928. Serial No. 287,528. 8 Claims. (Cl. 91—57.)



1. In combination, a dip tank, a feed screw mounted horizontally in the bottom thereof, paddles carried by said screw and spaced along the length of the screw, and means for driving said screw.

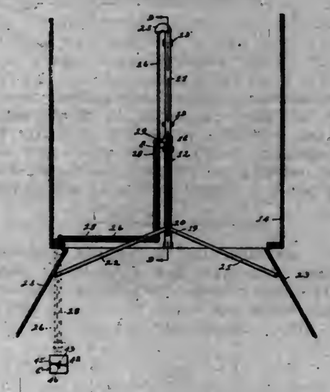
1,749,183. BASE FOR CRANES AND THE LIKE. CHARLES L. GEORGE, Findlay, Ohio, assignor to The Buckeye Traction Ditcher Company, Findlay, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Mar. 21, 1929. Serial No. 348,818. 4 Claims. (Cl. 212—69.)

1. In a device of the character described, a relatively fixed base member, a member mounted for limited rotational movement thereon and formed with a peripheral recess, a bar supported on the relatively fixed member adjacent said recess and extending in a direction tangential to the relatively movable member, a stop mounted on said bar and extending into said recess, means holding said stop against longitudinal movement with relation to said bar, bearings on said relatively stationary member in which said bar is longitudinally slidable, and resilient means resisting slidable movement of the bar in either direction.



1,749,184. APPARATUS FOR FORMING FLANGED OPENINGS IN SHEET-METAL PANELS AND THE LIKE. RUSSELL E. HANSEN, Detroit, and OTTO J. GROEHN, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich., assignors to Hudson Motor Car Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Dec. 17, 1927. Serial No. 240,891. 9 Claims. (Cl. 153—25.)

1. In an apparatus for shaping a flanged opening in a sheet metal body, the combination of a lower die including inner and outer die members, an independently mounted upper die adapted to move in a predetermined path into said opening, means for moving said inner die member to turn the flange of said opening under said outer member, and means causing said outer die member thereafter to move away from the work.



1,749,185. BACK WIND MECHANISM FOR CLOCKS. THOMAS N. HICKS, Perth, Ontario, Canada, assignor of one-half to E. Cantelo White, New York, N. Y. Filed June 23, 1927. Serial No. 200,811. 4 Claims. (Cl. 185—39.)

1. In a device of the character described, an arbor, a driving spring connected thereto, means to wind the spring, a hub mounted on the arbor, a gear carried by the hub, a clutch connection between the gear and hub, a ratchet secured to the arbor, and a pawl mounted on the hub to engage the ratchet.

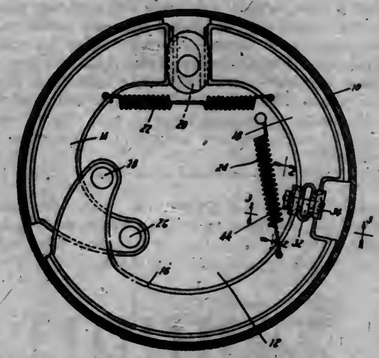
1,479,186. AUTOMATIC DOOR CONTROL. WILLIAM KOCH, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 21, 1927. Serial No. 200,448. 3 Claims. (Cl. 268—64.)

1. An opening and closing mechanism for a pair of doors, including a hydraulic cylinder stationarily mounted with respect thereto, a piston in said cylinder operatively connected with and adapted to open and close said doors, and having a rod extended therefrom, a carriage connected with said rod, a latch member on said carriage, a control mechanism mounted at a point remote from the doors and including separate opening and closing valves connected respectively with said cylinder on opposite sides of said piston for conducting a pressure fluid to the cylinder in a door opening and closing operation, means connected with said valves for selectively feeding the pressure fluid thereto and for draining the same therefrom, and a latch bar projecting longitudinally from an end of said cylinder and operable at the completion of a door closing operation for engaging said latch member to latch and hold the doors closed, and further operable at the initiation of an opening operation for unlatching the doors, and means movable with said piston and adapted to be engaged by said latch.



1,749,187. METHOD OF AND APPARATUS FOR PRESENTING THEATRICAL IMPRESSIONS. JOHN H. LEAVELL, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Aug. 31, 1927. Serial No. 216,564. 6 Claims. (Cl. 88—16.)

1. An apparatus for supplying an olfactory impression in conjunction with a motion picture impression which comprises: means for transmitting said motion picture impression to an audience; means for producing an odor normally associated with said motion picture impression; and means operated by said first means for expelling said odor into the atmosphere breathed by the audience.

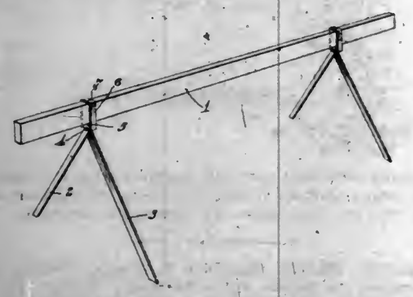
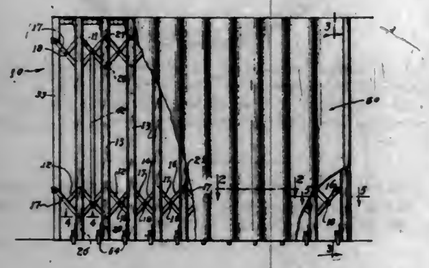
1,749,188. BRAKE. KENNETH E. LYMAN, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Bendix Brake Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed July 16, 1927. Serial No. 206,152. 14 Claims. (Cl. 188—79.5.)



1. A brake comprising, in combination, an anchored shoe and an unanchored shoe arranged end to end, a joint connecting said shoes, and means for automatically adjusting said joint to separate the shoes to compensate for wear.

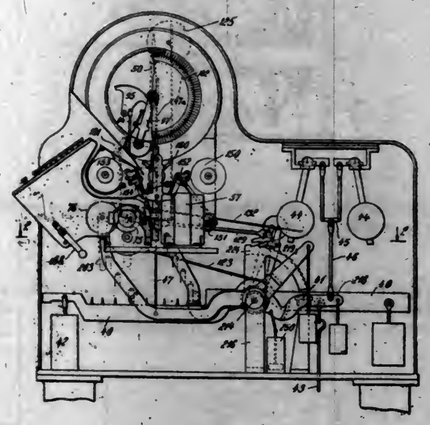
1,749,189. MOTOR-DRIVEN LAWN MOWER. PERRY E. MACK, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Mar. 14, 1925. Serial No. 15,541. 4 Claims. (Cl. 180—19.)



1. In a power lawn mower, ground wheels, a structure shiftable relatively to said ground wheels, inner wheels supported by said structure and fitted loosely within the ground wheels, said inner wheels being adapted for frictional engagement with the ground wheels, means for driving said inner wheels, a handle bar by which said ground wheels may be guided, control handle portions rotatably mounted on said handle bar, and rods connecting said portions to said structure, whereby turning of said portions causes relative movement between said inner wheels and ground wheels to control the application of power to said ground wheels.

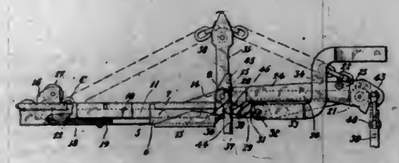
1,749,190. BARRICADE SUPPORT. HAROLD C. McGAHEON, Detroit, Mich. Filed Apr. 16, 1928. Serial No. 270,250. 2 Claims. (Cl. 256—64.)

2. A barricade support comprising a pair of legs stamped from a single flat strip of material, pivoting means for connecting said legs together with the flat faces contacting, a rounded portion formed on said legs above said pivot, arm members formed on said legs above said pivot, fingers formed by bending said arms inwardly at their upper ends, said arm members and said fingers being formed by a twisting bend on said legs so that the flat faces of said strip are adapted to engage the barricade member.



1,749,191. FOLDABLE CURTAIN. CARL H. NORDELL, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Folding Products Corporation, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed May 28, 1927. Serial No. 195,021. 3 Claims. (Cl. 20—19.)

1. In a foldable partition, the combination of a supporting structure, with a plurality of stiles, said stiles comprising pairs of channelled metal members with outwardly turned channels, wooden fillers in said channels and spacers between said channelled members, a pair of extensible members located between said pairs of channelled members and comprising a plurality of links pivoted together, said links being pivotally mounted at similar points on said channelled members, guide means carried by said supporting structure above said partition, and slidably engaged by said stiles, between said channelled members, and a flexible covering of sound and heat insulating material carried by said stiles.



1,749,192. AUTOMATIC RECORDING SCALE. LOUIS A. OSGOOD, Dayton, and ELMER E. WOLF, Springfield, Ohio, assignors, by mesne assignments, to Dayton Scale Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Dec. 8, 1920. Serial No. 429,053. 85 Claims. (Cl. 265—5.)

1. In a recording scale comprising, in combination, a weighing scale, a follow up device, weight changing mechanism for applying weights to a part of the weighing scale, a recorder controller and power means, means for operating the weight changing means from the power means when applied weights are required to counterbalance a load, means for operating the follow up device and said recorder controller from said power means in accordance with the displacement of the weighing scale, means for thereafter positioning type carrying elements of the recorder by said power means to an extent controlled by the recorder controller, means for thereafter taking a printed impression from said type wheels and means for thereafter restoring the recorder, the controller and the follow up device to normal position by said power means.

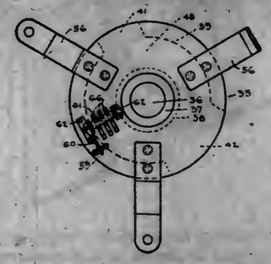
1,749,193. ANCHOR DAVIT. FRANK SCHAUMAN and BROR MAX SCHAUMAN, New York, N. Y., assignors to Automatic Anchor-Control Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Oct. 7, 1927. Serial No. 224,565. 7 Claims. (Cl. 114—210.)

1. Anchor davit mechanism including an anchor carriage, a davit member pivoted at one of its ends and having an anchor chain guide at its other end, a pivotally mounted anchor head receiving and supporting member adapted to be moved under the weight of the anchor in the casting thereof, and said supporting member and the davit member having co-acting means whereby in the movement of said supporting member, said davit member is pivotally moved to its anchor casting position.



1,749,194. WATER COOLER. VICTOR T. SCHMITT, Chicago, Ill., assignor to Hinckley & Schmitt, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Apr. 15, 1929. Serial No. 355,255. 3 Claims. (Cl. 62—44.)

1. In combination a water cooler comprising a casing, a water storage tank in said casing, a pipe extending vertically through said casing, supply means arranged outside of said casing, a washer arranged about said pipe, a valve casing having its lower end resting on said washer, a normally closed spring-pressed valve in said casing for establishing communication between said tank and said supply, and means for maintaining said valve in open position when the supply means and tank are in proper operating position.

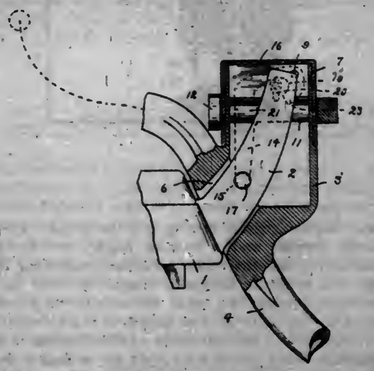
1,749,195. COIN-CONTROLLED OPERATING MECHANISM FOR VENDING MACHINES AND THE LIKE. VERNON ALBERT SCOTT, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, assignor of fifty-one per cent to Urban David Clark, Toronto, Canada. Filed Oct. 31, 1927, Serial No. 230,001. Renewed July 25, 1929. 5 Claims. (Cl. 194—61.)

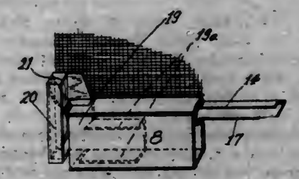
1. In a coin-controlled operating mechanism for vending machines, a base plate having a circularly-arranged groove on one face thereof and a coin inlet and a coin outlet opening into said groove, a coin-driving disc having a circularly-arranged projection sliding in said groove and depressed to form with said base plate a coin chamber, a pin slidably mounted in said base plate and springheld in locking engagement with said base plate, a pivoted finger extending into the path of said coin chamber, and a lever rigid with said fingers and operatively engaging said pin.

1,749,196. SELF-ADJUSTING SHAFT BEARING. WILLIAM STROHMEIER, Andalusia, Ill. Filed June 17, 1929. Serial No. 371,552. 3 Claims. (Cl. 308—62.)



1. In combination with a shaft casing and head therefor, provided with an opening permitting a universal lateral movement of a shaft passing therethrough, a relatively small plate and shaft bearing projected outwardly therefrom, a clamp-plate connected with said head, provided with an opening permitting free lateral movement of said shaft bearing, and radially adjustable stops on opposite sides of said small plate, of equal thickness therewith.

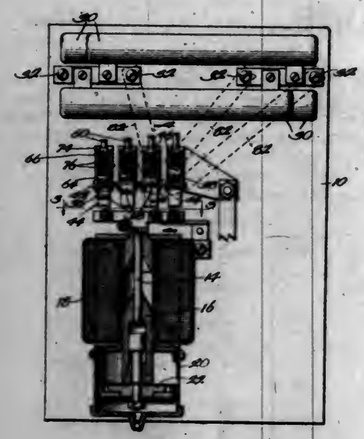
1,749,197. AWNING. JOHN LENARD STUART, Oakland, Calif. Filed Jan. 26, 1929. Serial No. 335,291. 17 Claims. (Cl. 156—44.)



8. An awning comprising a fixed support; a roller mounted thereupon; a flexible cover wound upon said roller; a bar to which the outer edge of said cover is secured; means for rotating said roller; and means connected with said roller and operable in timed relation thereto for moving said bar toward and away from said support, the last mentioned means including a resilient connection adapted to keep said cover taut.

1,749,198. SWITCH-STAND LOCK. PETER SWANSON, Ely, Minn. Filed Jan. 15, 1929. Serial No. 332,646. 4 Claims. (Cl. 246—414.)

1. The combination with a switch stand having a lock engaging lug extending therefrom, and an operating lever, of locking means comprising an open channel shaped member carried by the lever, a housing member for telescopic engagement over the channel shaped member, and a rotatably locking bolt mounted in the members and installable therein after assembly of said members.



1,749,199. TENSION BAR AND GUIDE FOR ROLL SCREENS. CLIFFORD TRAUT, Newport, Ky., assignor to The Higgin Manufacturing Company, Newport, Ky., a Corporation of West Virginia. Filed Mar. 17, 1928. Serial No. 262,417. 7 Claims. (Cl. 156—39.)

1. In a controlling mechanism for roll screens a tension bar formed of sheet metal bent upon itself to form a tubular section and a channel for a screen fastening, screen fastening means within said channel and means at the end of said tension bar to control the movement of the same along guideways comprising a metallic member operating in said guideways and a spring on said metallic member bearing against said guideways.

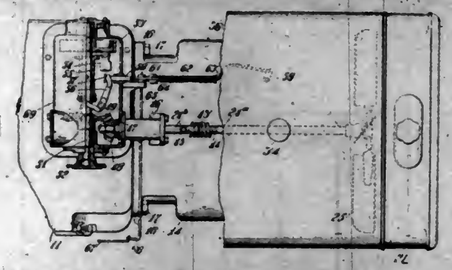
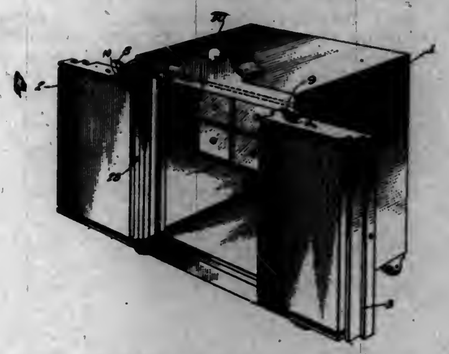
1,749,200. ELECTRIC SWITCH. HERMON L. VAN VALKENBURG, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Square D Company, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Apr. 27, 1925. Serial No. 25,993. 20 Claims. (Cl. 200—166.)



1. An electric switch having an electrically energized stationary support and a contact finger, one having an open concavity and the other a portion projecting into it, whereby the finger is pivotally supported, may be lifted off, and is energized, the front side of the finger making contact with the fulcrum and having a main contact surface, an abutment fixed relatively to the fulcrum, a spring engaging the finger between its ends for urging it forward toward acting position and to maintain it seated on the fulcrum, and a tail at the inner end of the finger, for engaging the abutment to limit the forward movement of the finger about its fulcrum.

1,749,201. MERCURY-BROMIN DERIVATIVE OF FLUORESCEIN. WILLARD L. VOGEL, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-tenth to Paul W. Prutzman. Filed May 28, 1928. Serial No. 281,355. 2 Claims. (Cl. 260—13.)

1. The herein described product: the di-mercury derivative of mono-brom-fluorescein.



1,749,202. TRACTOR. LOUIS W. WITRY, Waterloo, Iowa, assignor to John Deere Tractor Company, Waterloo, Iowa, a Corporation of Iowa. Original application filed Dec. 24, 1923, Serial No. 682,401. Divided and this application filed Jan. 25, 1928. Serial No. 249,366. 12 Claims. (Cl. 123—171.)

1. The combination with an internal combustion motor, a radiator, and a fan for drawing air through said radiator, of means for driving said fan from said motor comprising relatively long shaft members journaled at their outer ends and loosely coupled together at their inner ends, one of said shaft members being connected with the fan and the other being positively driven by the motor, and a spring coupling the inner ends of said shaft members together for transmitting starting torque from one of said shaft members to the other.

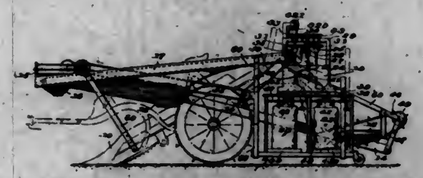
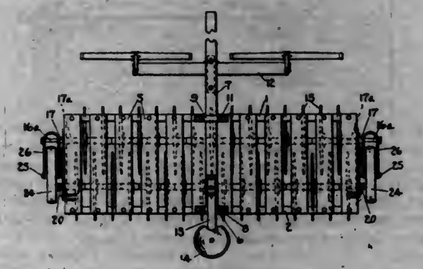
1,749,203. APPARATUS FOR AUTOMATICALLY CLOSING AND LOCKING SAFE DOORS. CARL F. WOLTERS and CHARLES SHULTE, Marietta, Ohio, assignors, by mesne assignments, to Remington Rand Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 5, 1925. Serial No. 13,155. 26 Claims. (Cl. 109—9.)



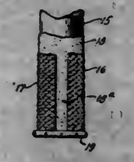
3. In a safe having double doors, means to close each of said doors, a pair of shafts, a dog mounted for movement with each shaft and each adapted to normally retain a door in the open position, a spring tending to move each of said dogs to release its respective door, a stop to hold each of said dogs against such movement, means to release one of said stops and close one of the doors, and a rider actuated upon the closing of said door to release the other of said dogs.

1,749,204. FLOOR SLAB. JOHN C. WOOD and ARTHUR HAGENER, Lakewood, Ohio, and KARL E. WAGNER, Chicago, Ill., assignors to The Whitacre Engineering Company, Waynesburg, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 27, 1927. Serial No. 201,631. 17 Claims. (Cl. 72—66.)



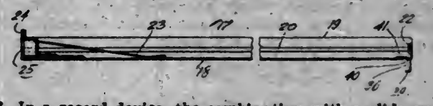
4. A floor slab having reinforced concrete joists and groups of hollow tile blocks bonded between joists, the open ends of tile in the group abutting adjacent tile, a non-reinforced concrete key disposed between abutting ends of the tile in the group and transmitting compressive load between blocks in the group and having lugs extending into the open ends of the abutting tile.

1,749,205. POTATO HARVESTER. WILLIAM HENRY ALLEN, Sr., and EDWIN M. ALLEN, Freehold, N. J.; William Henry Allen, sr., assignor to Pauline Elizabeth Allen and Viola Cecelia Allen, Freehold, N. J. Filed Oct. 3, 1923. Serial No. 666,409. 5 Claims. (Cl. 209—307.)



1. A frame having a conveyor extending transversely thereof in position to receive vegetables, an endless conveyor extending forwardly of the frame at one side thereof, an endless screen conveyer extending transversely of the frame at the front thereof, and an endless screen conveyer extending rearwardly at the other side of the frame, the vegetables in assorted sizes being delivered from said screen conveyers, and transporting means situated between the two side conveyors.

1,749,206. ROTARY HOE. CARL F. BAUER, Rock Island, Ill., assignor to Deere & Company, Moline, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Jan. 28, 1928. Serial No. 250,205. 13 Claims. (Cl. 55—11.)



1. In a rotary hoe, the combination of a frame, a shaft extending transversely of said frame and having an end portion projecting beyond the side of the frame, a plurality of hoe wheels mounted on said shaft, a U-shaped wheel supporting arm having transversely aligned apertures in the opposite sides of its looped end pivotally supported on the projecting end of said shaft, a supporting wheel mounted between the sides of said arm, and means for swinging said arm to adjust said frame and said supporting wheel vertically relatively to each other.

1,749,207. NONSLIPPING DEVICE. ROBERT S. BLAIR, Stamford, Conn. Filed Oct. 8, 1923. Serial No. 667,122. 7 Claims. (Cl. 120—84.)

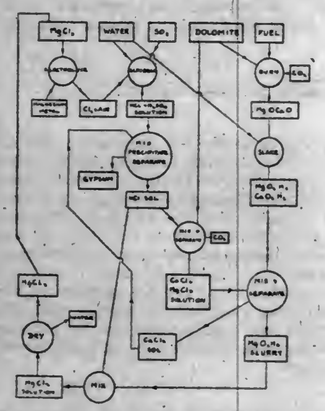
1. In a device of the class described, in combination, an endless band of elastic material, and a member having a plurality of minute inclined projections secured at spaced points to the outer surface of said band, adapted to form a non-slipping surface about a member upon which said band is placed.

1,749,208. RECORD DEVICE. EDWARD CARLSON, Buffalo, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Remington Rand Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Original application filed July 3, 1924, Serial No. 724,061. Divided and this application filed Dec. 30, 1925. Serial No. 78,355. 6 Claims. (Cl. 45—7.)

6. In a record device, the combination with a slide support and a slide movable into and out of said slide support, of a hook member formed of a shank having a hook on one end, the opposite end of said shank being slidable laterally in said slide and extensible therefrom, and a part on said slide support for engaging said hook as said slide is withdrawn from said support and to maintain said slide spaced apart from said support, said shank being adapted to slide into extended position as the slide is withdrawn from said support whereby said slide may be suspended by said hook member and the engaging part on said slide support, substantially vertically outside of said slide support.

1,749,209. CONDUCTOR SUPPORT. MILTON W. COOKE, Pittsburgh, Pa., assignor to The Ohio Brass Company, Mansfield, Ohio, a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Feb. 18, 1929. Serial No. 340,706. 8 Claims. (Cl. 191—48.)

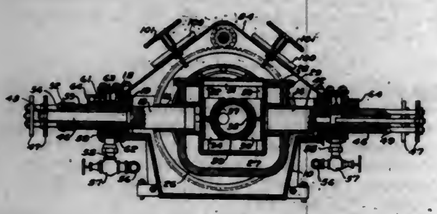
1. A conductor support comprising a support member having means for attachment to a structure and a longitudinally disposed surface thereon for engagement with a conductor, a U-shaped sleeve to contact with the opposite side of the conductor from the said surface and transversely disposed means to engage oppositely disposed portions of the sleeve and draw such portions towards each other and simultaneously draw the support member and sleeve towards each other to grip the conductor and to secure the support and sleeve together.



1,749,210. UTILIZATION OF DOLOMITE OR MAGNESIAN LIMESTONE FOR PRODUCTION OF METALLIC MAGNESIUM, ETC. HERBERT H. DOW and EDWIN O. BARSTOW, Midland, Mich., assignors to The Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Oct. 30, 1926. Serial No. 145,376. 7 Claims. (Cl. 204—19.)

1. A cyclic process of making magnesium and magnesium chloride, which comprises subjecting magnesium chloride to electrolysis in a molten bath, converting the chlorine formed thereby into hydrochloric acid, reacting such acid upon dolomite, separating the magnesium chloride and calcium chloride thereby produced, and returning such magnesium chloride to the bath.

1,749,211. PRODUCTION OF METALLIC MAGNESIUM, ETC., FROM DOLOMITE OR MAGNESIAN LIMESTONE. HERBERT H. DOW and EDWIN O. BARSTOW, Midland, Mich., assignors to The Dow Chemical Company, Midland, Mich., a Corporation of Michigan. Filed Nov. 8, 1926. Serial No. 147,179. 3 Claims. (Cl. 204—19.)



1. A cyclic process of making magnesium and magnesium chloride, wherein dolomite is utilized as the ultimate source of such magnesium, which comprises electrolyzing magnesium chloride to produce magnesium and chlorine, reacting the chlorine with sulphur dioxide and water whereby hydrochloric and sulphuric acids are formed, removing the sulphuric acid by treating with calcium chloride and thereby forming an amount of hydrochloric acid additional to that first formed, reacting a portion of such hydrochloric acid with raw dolomite, treating the resulting solution with hydrated calcined dolomite, separating magnesium hydroxide from the solution of calcium chloride, returning the calcium chloride to the above mentioned third step, treating the magnesium hydroxide with the remaining portion of hydrochloric acid from said third step, dehydrating the magnesium chloride so formed, and returning the dried chloride to the above mentioned first step.

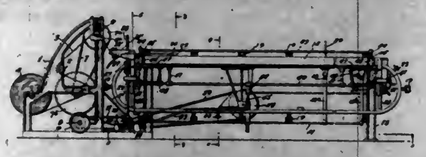
1,749,212. PUMP. THOMAS ELLIOTT, Birmingham, Ala., assignor to Continental Gin Company, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 18, 1928. Serial No. 278,814. 7 Claims. (Cl. 103—171.)

1. In a pump, a plurality of pairs of spaced aligned cylinders, a scotch yoke disposed between the opposed spaced ends of each pair of cylinders and having opposed arcuate slideways, complementary slides fitting in the slideways, a crank for actuating the slides, a reciprocable piston in each of the cylinders, and means connecting each of the pistons with its associated yoke.



1,749,213. PROCESS AND APPARATUS FOR MOLDING. STEPHEN FLAM, Walnut Park, Calif., assignor to Supertile Machinery Corporation, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Feb. 19, 1925. Serial No. 10,265. 15 Claims. (Cl. 25—2.)

1. The process of casting cored articles, which comprises filling a cored mold defining the external and internal surfaces of the articles, with wet plastic material that is incapable before setting, of retaining its molded form without support, and withdrawing the core from the mold before the material has set appreciably, whereby the mold is left around the plastic material which clings thereto and retains it in its cast form.

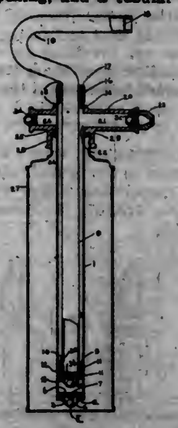
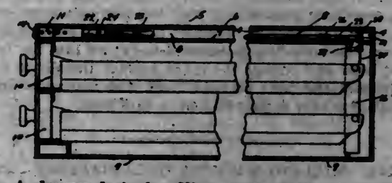
1,749,214. CLOTH SPREADING AND PILING MACHINE. JOSEPH E. GADBOIS, Springfield, Mass. Filed Apr. 16, 1928. Serial No. 270,884. 17 Claims. (Cl. 270—30.)

1. A cloth measuring and cutting machine comprising a material supporting structure, a table extending therefrom, feed mechanism cofunctioning with the supporting structure to feed material across said table, cutting mechanism operatively positioned upon the table for cutting the material in predetermined lengths, and means for elevating the feed mechanism periodically.



1,749,215. SEALING MEANS FOR PERFORATED CONTAINER CAPS. GREGOR H. GLITZKE, Kansas City, Mo. Filed Feb. 27, 1928. Serial No. 257,310. 2 Claims. (Cl. 221—61.)

1. A cap structure for containers comprising a perforated cap element adapted to be removably fitted to the container, a perforated disk secured inside the cap and having perforations of the same size as the perforations of said cap element and in registered relation therewith, and a closure element comprising an imperforate disk or diaphragm of frangible material embraced between said first disk and cap element and sealing the perforations thereof.



1,749,216. DOUBLE-ACTING PUMP. DAVID H. GOLDMAN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed July 19, 1928. Serial No. 294,015. 2 Claims. (Cl. 103—178.)

1. A pump comprising a sheet metal barrel having a valve at the foot and a packing gland at the top and an outlet opening below said gland, a head through which said barrel extends, said head having an outlet communicating with said opening, and a tubular sheet metal piston rod in the barrel, having a valve at its lower end and extending at its upper end through said gland and bent at its upper end to form a handle.

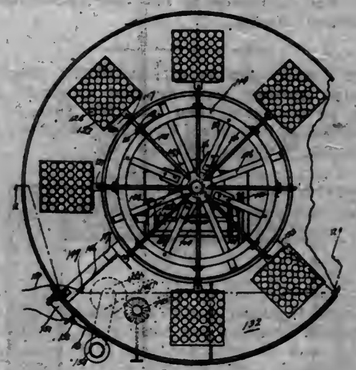
1,749,217. FILING CABINET. THOMAS HEELAN, North Tonawanda, N. Y., assignor to Remington Rand Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 15, 1925. Serial No. 37,174. 6 Claims. (Cl. 45—94.)

1. A drawer lock for filing devices wherein a cabinet is provided with a plurality of drawers, comprising a lock member movably mounted in the cabinet having locking cooperation with said drawers in one position, a bar member slidably mounted in said cabinet, a link connecting said lock member and bar member, an operating rod rotatably mounted in the cabinet, a lost-motion connecting mechanism between the operating rod and said bar member for transmitting the rotary motion of said operating rod to reciprocate said bar member, a key controlled and operated mechanism for operating said rod, and a lost-motion connecting means between said mechanism and said operating rod.



1,749,218. AWNING RAISING AND LOWERING DEVICE. DAVID N. IRWIN, Detroit, Mich. Filed Feb. 4, 1928. Serial No. 251,903. 5 Claims. (Cl. 156—44.)

3. A device of the class described adapted for mounting on the exterior surface of a building wall comprising:

a U-shaped frame; a plurality of rollers rotatably mounted in said frame; a shaft projected through one of said rollers and through said wall, said shaft being rotatable in unison with said roller; and a gear carried by each of said rollers meshing with a gear on the adjacent roller; and a crank on the inner end of said shaft for rotating the same.

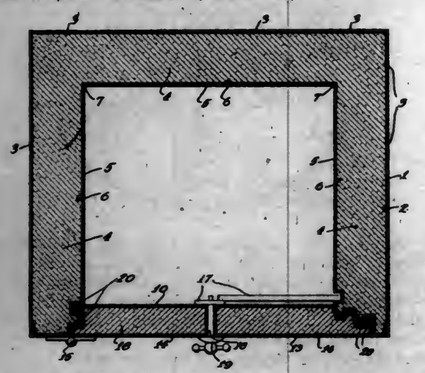
1,749,219. EGG-PRESERVING MACHINE. ANDREW E. LINDSTROM, San Francisco, Calif., assignor to Kasser Egg Process Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed June 15, 1925. Serial No. 37,305. 4 Claims. (Cl. 99—2.)

1. In a machine for operating upon eggs, a rod, means carried by said rod for supporting eggs, means for pivoting the rod adjacent one end on a horizontal axis, means for moving the rod about a vertical axis adjacent the horizontal pivot, and means for guiding the free end of the rod in the course of its movement about the vertical axis so as to vary the level of said free end.

1,749,220. STEREOSCOPE. HERMANN LÖSCHER, Munich, Germany, assignor to the Firm Luftschiffbau Zeppelin Gesellschaft mit beschränkter Haftung, Friedrichshafen, Bodensee, Germany. Filed June 26, 1925. Serial No. 39,646, and in Germany July 9, 1924. 3 Claims. (Cl. 88—29.)

1. A stereoscope comprising a flat middle portion; hinges at both ends of said middle portion; a glass carrying portion hinged to one end of said middle portion; a picture carrying portion hinged to the other end of said middle portion; the axis of said hinges being situated between the upper and lower surface planes of said middle portion; and part of said middle portion being cut out so that its remaining shape allows for the other two portions of being folded into a common plane with said middle portion instead of one above the other.

1,749,221. ORNAMENTAL RADIATOR CAP. ROSCOE MARANZINO, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed June 19, 1928. Serial No. 286,511. 6 Claims. (Cl. 240—8.11.)



6. In an automobile cap, a body portion having a domed top, a bottom and a polygonal side wall, said polygonal side wall having a plurality of apertures therein, a translucent closure in each of said apertures, said top having an aperture therein, a translucent closure in said top aperture and a figure secured to said top in position to be illuminated by light passing through said top translucent closure.

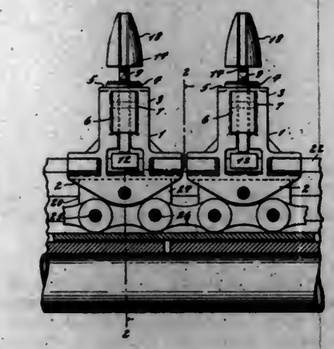
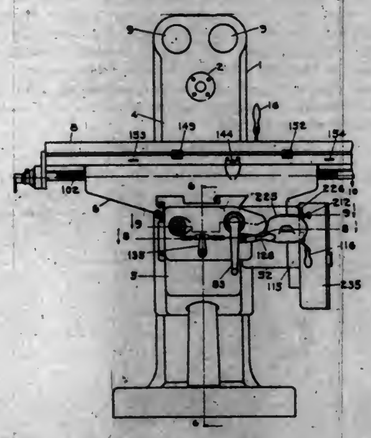
1,749,222. HEAT-RESISTING CABINET. EDMUND S. MERRIAM, Marietta, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Remington Rand Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Feb. 19, 1924. Serial No. 693,741. 6 Claims. (Cl. 109—2.)



1. A safe, comprising a solid monolithic body having an opening at one side to a compartment formed therein, an inner imperforate sheet metal casing fitted in said compartment in the body, said casing having an outwardly flared marginal flange at the open end fitting said body around said open end, a perforate sheet metal outer casing on said body, and a closure for the open end of said compartment, said closure having a monolithic panel provided on its inner face with a sheet metal plate having a marginal flange formed for hermetic sealing cooperation with the marginal flange on said inner casing in closed position, and a perforate outer metal plate on said panel, said inner casing providing a moisture-proof container in sealed relation, said monolithic body providing a fire resistant and protective enclosure for said inner casing, and said outer casing providing a protective covering for said monolithic body and releasing moisture exuding therefrom.

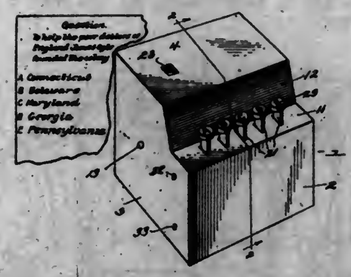
1,749,223. WINDOW SHADE. GEORGE GLENN MOTT, Pasadena, Calif. Filed Nov. 7, 1928. Serial No. 317,831. 11 Claims. (Cl. 156—31.)



7. A window shade having a pair of slats between which a fabric forming the shade extends, the fabric being reversely bent upon itself between the slats and having its end extending upwardly between the slats and then extending around the slats on the exterior surfaces thereof to provide finished exterior surface thereon, and a hollow rivet extending through the slats and fabric fastening the slats and fabric together and providing for the reception of the shade cord, said hollow rivet being the sole means securing the slats together intermediate the ends thereof.

1,749,224. FRUIT HOLDER. EDWIN D. OSTRICHER, Woodbury, Ga., assignor to The Hills Brothers Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 29, 1928. Serial No. 329,187. 5 Claims. (Cl. 198—131.)

1. A fruit holder for use in fruit treating apparatus comprising a head adapted to support a previously cored fruit thereover; movable fingers adapted to extend into the fruit on said head and engage the inner surface thereof to frictionally hold the fruit on said head, and means to guide the fruit over said fingers and on to said head.



1,749,225. MILLING-MACHINE ORGANIZATION. FRED A. PARSONS, Milwaukee, Wis., assignor to Kearney & Trecker Corporation, West Allis, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Aug. 21, 1924. Serial No. 733,841. 77 Claims. (Cl. 90—21.)

1. In a milling machine embodying a movable support, the combination of a power source, a transmission train connecting said source to said support, said train embodying a shiftable clutch element, a dog having continuous uni-directional power movement when said support is stationary, and an operating connection from said dog for shifting said element.

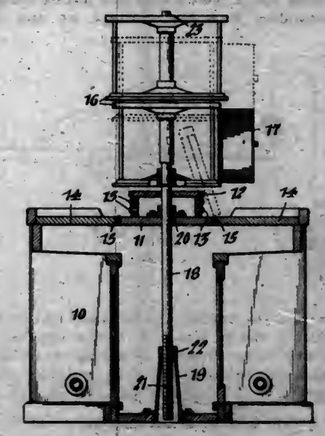
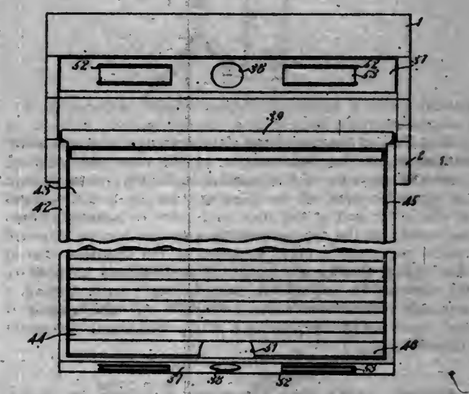
1,749,226. MACHINE FOR INTELLIGENCE TESTS. SIDNEY L. PRESSEY, Columbus, Ohio. Filed June 21, 1928. Serial No. 287,293. 22 Claims. (Cl. 35—12.)

1. In apparatus of the character set forth, a casing, a drum rotatably mounted within said casing, said drum being provided with a plurality of longitudinally spaced depressions in its periphery, a plurality of individually movable selectors, individual keepers operatively associated with said selectors, a counter mechanism, a drum rotating mechanism, and a perforated sheet of flexible material provided in connection with the peripheral portion of said drum and operating in connection with said selectors and keepers to control the operation of said drum and counter mechanism.



1,749,227. COMPACT FLY AND TACKLE CASE. WILLIAM A. PRUETT, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Apr. 3, 1926. Serial No. 99,601. 6 Claims. (Cl. 43—32.)

1. In a device of the character set forth comprising a hinged fly leaf the ends of which are provided with cut-away portions to provide recesses; hook members struck up from opposite sides of the leaf; springs secured to said hook members; and other hook members adapted to prevent bowing of said springs.



1,749,228. INDEX FOR TELEPHONE-EXCHANGE DESKS. BENJAMIN G. RAND, North Tonawanda, N. Y., assignor to Remington Rand Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 29, 1924. Serial No. 758,786. 2 Claims. (Cl. 45—2.)

2. The combination with a telephone exchange desk having a vertically movable cover in its top, of an index holder disposed over said cover and normally preventing full opening movement thereof, a support post for said index holder, and means by which said post may be elevated to bring the index holder to a height to permit opening of the cover.

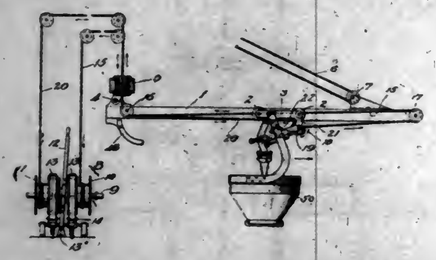
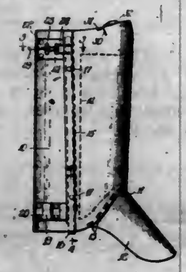
1,749,229. INDEX DEVICE. JAMES H. RAND, North Tonawanda, N. Y., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Remington Rand Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 24, 1924. Serial No. 715,612. 2 Claims. (Cl. 45—2.)



2. An index device, comprising a cabinet having a plurality of superposed sections, one of said sections forming a top section, said top section being normally horizontally disposed and comprising a sheet metal body having side and end walls, laterally and inwardly extending flanges at the upper and lower edges of said walls, the upper flanges terminating in downwardly extending portions defining a cover receiving opening, and U-shaped members extending transversely across the front and rear ends of said body embraced by said flanges and retained by said downwardly extending portions.

1,749,230. CONCRETE DISTRIBUTOR. NILS M. ROSENDAHL, Waterloo, Iowa, assignor to Construction Machinery Company, a Corporation of Iowa. Filed Apr. 10, 1926. Serial No. 101,010. 8 Claims. (Cl. 214—39.)



1. The combination with a device of the character described including a boom, a carriage mounted upon the boom, a bucket carried by the carriage, and lines for operating the carriage, of means whereby opposite stress upon the lines opens the bucket, said means comprising a bracket depending from the carriage, an arm pivotally mounted within the bracket the outboard end of said arm having limiting means attached thereto and the inboard end of the arm being operated by spring controlled means directly connected to one of the lines, and door controlling means attached to the outboard end of said arm.

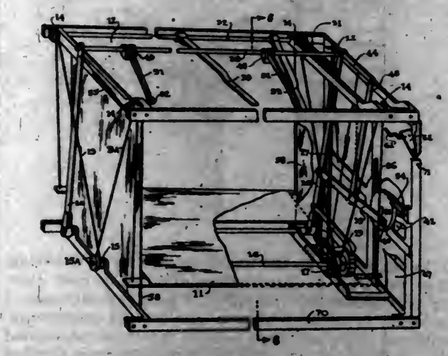
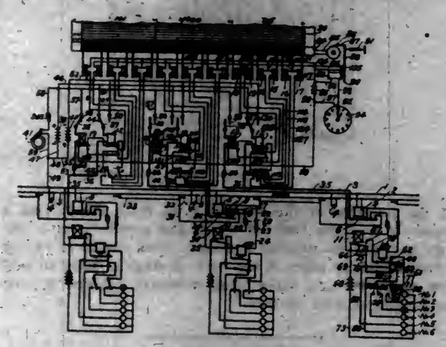
1,749,231. PULL-OFF LEGGING. SAMUEL N. SAGER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Jan. 3, 1928. Serial No. 244,139. 6 Claims. (Cl. 36—2.)



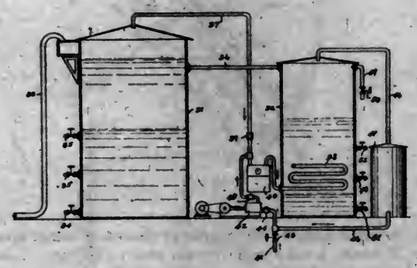
3. A pull-off legging of the class described wrapped about the leg in overlapping relation at the outer side thereof, a stay in one edge of the legging, a plurality of pockets in the opposite edge of the legging adapted to be engaged by the lower end of the stay, and quick detachable fastening means at the top comprising a spring tongue attached to the stay, and a plate attached to the opposite edge of the legging having a number of perforations adapted to be engaged by the spring tongue, the tongue having a manually engageable outer projection for disengaging it and removing the legging by a single continuous movement thereof.

1,749,232. PULL-OFF LEGGING. SAMUEL N. SAGER, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 5, 1928. Serial No. 317,173. 7 Claims. (Cl. 36—2.)



1. A quick detachable legging of the over-lapping type having a pocket in the underlying portion, and means at the edge of the overlying portion comprising two extremities extending to the bottom of the legging one attached to the body of the legging at the bottom thereof and the other free from attachment to the legging at its extremity and exposed for engagement in the pocket.

1,749,233. MACHINE FOR DELIVERING NEWSPAPERS AND THE LIKE. VERNON ALBERT SCOTT, Toronto, Ontario, Canada, assignor of fifty-one per cent to Urban David Clark, Toronto, Ontario, Canada. Filed Feb. 9, 1928. Serial No. 253,110. 7 Claims. (Cl. 312—57.)



1. In a machine for delivering newspapers and the like, a casing having a newspaper slot, an elevator for the newspapers movable vertically, pulleys mounted above said elevator, a shaft rotatably mounted under said elevator and having pulleys and a drive wheel rigid thereon, cables trained over said first-mentioned pulleys and secured at one end to said elevator and anchored at the other end in the pulleys on said shaft, ejecting means operating to successively deliver the newspapers into said slot, means actuated by said ejecting means operating to rotate said drive wheel in a direction to raise said elevator, and means operating to releasably lock said drive wheel as said elevator is gradually raised.

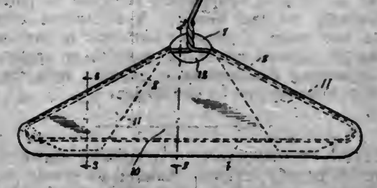
1,749,234. AUTOMATIC TRAIN CONTROL. PAUL J. SIMMEN, Eden, N. Y. Filed Feb. 10, 1923, Serial No. 618,193. Renewed May 17, 1928. 30 Claims. (Cl. 246—4.)

15. In a railway signal and dispatching system; more than three different signals for directing the movement of trains; two means for the control of the signals, one means being a track circuit and the other being located at a central point; and means cooperating with the means at a central point for indicating or recording the location of a train.

1,749,235. APPARATUS FOR TREATING CRUDE PETROLEUM. GEORGE A. STAFFORD and CHARLES D. COOK, Sour Lake, Tex. Filed Feb. 16, 1925. Serial No. 9,629. 8 Claims. (Cl. 196—7.)

1. An apparatus of the character described including a separating tank adapted to contain oil to a certain level, a treating tank, a flow line entering the separating tank, a delivery line connecting said tanks near the tops thereof, one end of which is connected into the separating tank beneath the oil level thereof, a gas line connected into the top of the separating tank and terminating within the treating tank near the bottom thereof, a back pressure valve controlling said gas line, a gas flow line connected into said gas line between said valve and the treating tank, a shut off valve controlling the gas flow line, a circulating line one end of which is connected into the top of the treating tank and whose other end is connected into said gas flow line between said shut off valve and back pressure valve.

1,749,236. KNIFE CONSTRUCTION. JOHN S. STRINGFELLOW, Lindsay, Va. Filed Oct. 26, 1928. Serial No. 315,251. 1 Claim. (Cl. 30—9.)



A combined blade container and knife including a tubular body portion having a tapered open end, a holder embodying a tubular member split along its side, portions of the blade holder adjacent to the split being extending inwardly defining wide blade engaging flanges, a blade positioned within the blade holder between the flanges, and said flanges adapted to grip the blade when the blade holder is forced into the tapered end of the tubular body portion.

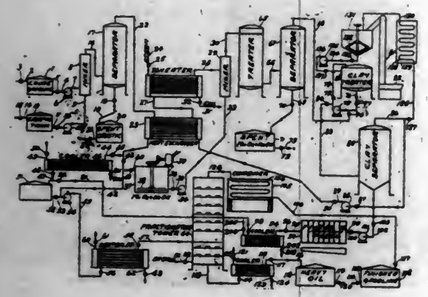
1,749,237. BURGLARPROOF DOOR. SAMUEL M. WEINSTEIN, Chicago, Ill. Filed Dec. 7, 1927. Serial No. 238,361. 2 Claims. (Cl. 20—16.)

1. A burglar proof door having inner and outer bullet proof transparent panels near the top, a movable opaque panel between the same, the lower portion of the door being slotted, a handle carried by the opaque movable panel and extending into the slot for raising and lowering said movable panel and means to support the handle in a top position when the movable panel is disposed in a raised position over the bullet proof panels.

1,749,238. GARMENT-HANGER COVER. GEORGE WORDINGHAM, Milwaukee, Wis. Filed Nov. 7, 1928. Serial No. 317,798. 6 Claims. (Cl. 223—61.)

1. A garment hanger cover comprising a sheet having an opening formed therein and having portions between the opening and ends of the sheet crimped longitudinally to form tongues extending inwardly and increasing in depth towards their outer ends to provide the cover with tapered end portions, the walls of the tongues being secured together.

1,749,239. SAFETY FRYING PAN. ALBERT B. ABEL, Sydney, New South Wales, Australia. Filed Nov. 27, 1928. Serial No. 322,247. 1 Claim. (Cl. 53—7.)



A frying pan comprising a flat bottom portion, side walls projecting outwardly from said bottom portion, said bottom portion projecting beyond said side walls defining a flat extension of sufficient extent to prevent contact of a heating flame with said side walls during frying.

1,749,240. PROCESS OF PURIFYING HYDROCARBONS. JOHN C. BLACK, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Richfield Oil Company of California, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Mar. 10, 1928. Serial No. 260,653. 3 Claims. (Cl. 196—29.)

1. A process of treating gasoline or naphtha derived from cracking petroleum oils, comprising commingling the gasoline or naphtha stock which has been treated with sulphuric acid, caustic soda and rendered "sweet" to the "doctor test" by treatment with a water solution of caustic soda containing the requisite quantity of suspended manganese dioxide, with a comminuted adsorbent clay at an elevated temperature sufficient to polymerize substantially all the unstable hydrocarbons contained therein and under a pressure sufficient to prevent any substantial vaporization of the gasoline or naphtha and then separating the gasoline or naphtha from the products of polymerization, by distillation.

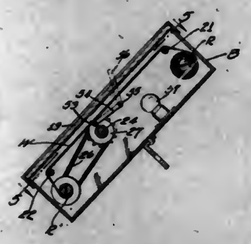
1,749,241. PRODUCTION OF STENCIL SHEETS FOR USE IN DUPLICATING. ARMAND DE WAELE, London, England, assignor to D. Gestetner, Limited, London, England. Filed May 3, 1928, Serial No. 274,975, and in Great Britain July 22, 1927. 4 Claims. (Cl. 41—38.6.)

1. Stencil sheets having a coating composition or ink-resisting medium the main gelatinised constituent of which is a gelatinised cellulose ester in intimate association with a gelatinised organic colloid dispersable in water.



1,749,242. DYESTUFFS WHICH ARE ALANINES OF THE ANTHRAQUINONE SERIES AND THEIR DERIVATIVES. WALTER DUISBERG, Leverkusen, near Cologne, and WINFRID HENTRICH and LUDWIG ZEH, Wiesdorf, near Cologne, Germany, assignors to General Aniline Works, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Jan. 16, 1926, Serial No. 81,798, and in Germany Jan. 31, 1925. 7 Claims. (Cl. 260—60.)

1. As new products anthraquinone-β-alanines of the general formula:

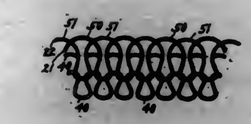
in which A stands for an anthraquinone residue and n designates a whole number not greater than 4, which products are dark powders having a metallic luster, are easily soluble in water in form of their alkali-metal salts, yield clear yellow to deep greenish-blue solutions, are easily soluble in concentrated sulfuric acid forming colored solutions, dye artificial silk and wool from yellow to deep greenish-blue shades and are substantially identical with the products obtained by reacting halogenated propionic acids with aminoanthraquinones.

1,749,243. ROAD-MAP-EXHIBITING APPARATUS FOR MOTOR VEHICLES. WILLIAM L. EGLINTON, Glendale, Calif. Filed Feb. 27, 1928. Serial No. 257,211. 5 Claims. (Cl. 40—42.)

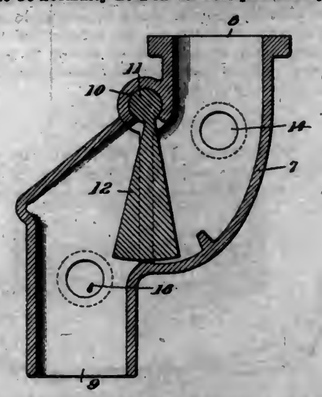


1. An apparatus of the character described comprising a pair of reels, a map web trained about the reels, means for feeding the web from one reel to the other, and means for moving the web free of said feeding means to permit manual rotation of either reel to effect any desired adjustment of the map web.

1,749,244. METHOD OF TREATING COMMERCIAL GASOLINE FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES TO REMOVE AND PREVENT THE FORMATION OF CARBON. MARCUS J. FESSLER, Syracuse, N. Y. Filed Dec. 24, 1925. Serial No. 77,590. 4 Claims. (Cl. 44—9.)

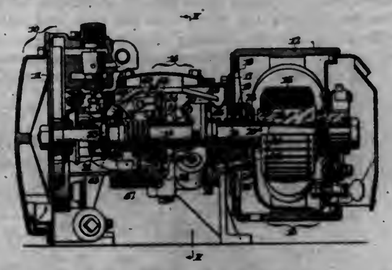
1. The herein described method of treating commercial gasoline for internal combustion engines to remove and prevent the formation of carbon consisting in introducing a relatively small percentage by weight of tetrahydronaphthalene of the hydrogenated carbocyclic series into a relatively large quantity by weight of commercial gasoline at normal atmospheric temperatures and without any alteration of the gasoline previous to the introduction of the tetrahydronaphthalene.

1,749,245. KNITTED FABRIC AND METHOD OF PRODUCING THE SAME. JOSEPH A. FIRSCHING, Utica, N. Y. Filed Nov. 15, 1921. Serial No. 515,203. 4 Claims. (Cl. 66—194.)



1. A knit fabric comprising three threads one of which is formed into a regular series of uniform knitted loops and each of the other two of which is formed into a series of uniform knitted loops of a size substantially the same as the knitted loops of the first named thread, the knitted loops of the two last named threads overlying alternate and different knitted loops of the first named threads, and the knitted loops of each of the two last named threads being separated by pile loops of uniform size extending to one and the same side of the resulting fabric.

1,749,246. CHARGE-HEATING CONTROL FOR INTERNAL-COMBUSTION ENGINES. JACOB RICHARD FRANCIS, Flint, Mich. Filed Sept. 21, 1922. Serial No. 589,552. 1 Claim. (Cl. 137—152.)



A valve of the kind described comprising a valve casing having inlet and outlets out of vertical alignment to form an elbow-shaped casing, said valve casing being provided with a cylindrical horizontally disposed bearing at the junction of the passages, a valve having a cylindrical pivot at one edge detachably mounted in said bearing and adapted to be normally held in vertical position by gravity, said valve pivot being slidably mounted within said bearing and a removable cover for said valve casing for holding said pivot within said bearing and to allow said valve to be removed therefrom.

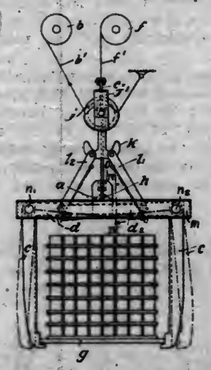
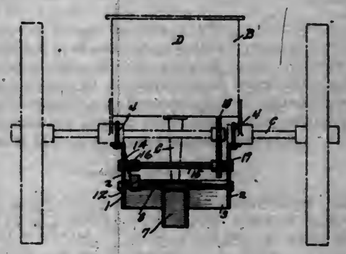
1,749,247. LUBRICATING SYSTEM. HERBERT J. GRAHAM, Philadelphia, Pa., assignor to Electric Service Supplies Company, Philadelphia, Pa., a Corporation of Pennsylvania. Filed June 14, 1922. Serial No. 568,154. 6 Claims. (Cl. 184—11.)



2. In a turbo-generator, the combination of a rotary shaft and a bearing therefor, means at one side of the bearing affording an annular oil-receiving cavity around the shaft with discharge through the bearing, means for raising and delivering oil from the reservoir to said cavity, and means affording an annular oil-receiving cavity at the other side of the bearing, with discharge back to the reservoir.

1,749,248. OIL BURNER. LOUIS D. HOULIS, Dallas, Tex. Filed Nov. 14, 1927. Serial No. 233,282. 2 Claims. (Cl. 158—61.)



1. In an oil burner, a pair of substantially parallel burners connected at their ends and intermediate thereof, a generator tube extending longitudinally at one side of the burner tubes and having a vaporizing element therein, a secondary gas burner beneath the generator and parallel with the burner tubes, a mixing chamber communicating with the discharge from the generator and having an air intake, a gas conductor from said chamber extending parallel to and beneath one burner tube and having a connection therewith at substantially its midlength, and a reduced conductor extended from said connection and communicating with the secondary burner at the intake end of the generator tube.

1,749,249. HANDLING AND TRANSPORT OF BUILDING BLOCKS AND THE LIKE. JOHAN VAN ITEM, Bremen, Germany. Filed Aug. 8, 1927, Serial No. 211,576, and in Germany Nov. 30, 1926. 2 Claims. (Cl. 294—106.)

1. Lifting tackle for handling and transporting moulded building blocks such as slag bricks, sand lime bricks, tiles, paving blocks and the like, comprising a pair of pivotally mounted jaws, means for rocking the jaws about their pivots towards and away from one another to engage and disengage a load, and an arresting block for limiting the motion of the lower ends of the jaws towards each other, when the lifting tackle is used for lifting without gripping, as and for the purpose set forth.

1,749,250. ATTACHMENT FOR SEED PLANTERS. ROBERT M. JACKSON, Lake Creek, Tex. Filed May 19, 1927. Serial No. 192,731. 1 Claim. (Cl. 111—51.)

A seed dropping attachment adapted to be suspended from the axle of a standard planter below the spout of the usual seed hopper thereof, comprising a broad, flat, transverse, downwardly extending apron-like supporting frame member, having upwardly extending side bars integral therewith, means for detachably securing said bars to the axle of the planter, an intermittent delivery chute positioned beneath the spout of the seed hopper comprising a box having its rear vertical wall rigidly secured in engagement with the said apron for the major portion of its length whereby a firm support is obtained, an oscillat-ing shaft extending through the side walls of the delivery chute box and journaled in the side bars of said apron, a flap valve within said box and mounted on said oscillating shaft, resilient means tending to hold the flap valve in closed position, and a second shaft likewise journaled in the said side bars and actuated from the axle of the planter for intermittently oscillating the shaft carrying said flap valve for depositing seed.

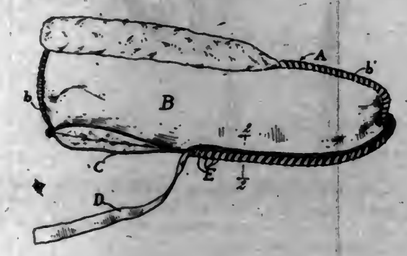
1,749,251. PROCESS FOR MAKING LUBRICATING GREASE. EDWIN N. KLEMGARD, Holly Oak, Del. Filed Mar. 17, 1927. Serial No. 176,301. 5 Claims. (Cl. 87—9.)

1. The process of manufacturing lubricating-grease which comprises mixing aluminum stearate with paraffine oil, heating the mixture to 335° F. to 550° F. and maintaining this temperature until the mixture is practically dehydrated and the normal stringy texture destroyed, then cooling without appreciable agitation, substantially as described.

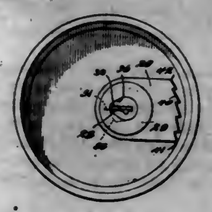
5. The process of manufacturing lubricating-grease which comprises mixing from 5 to 25% by weight of aluminum stearate with 95 to 75% of paraffine oil, heating the mixture to 335° F. to 550° F. and maintaining this temperature until the mixture is practically dehydrated and the normal stringy texture destroyed, then cooling without appreciable agitation.

1,749,252. TRANSFORMER SUPPORTING STRUCTURE. EDMOND J. LE BLOND, St. Paul, Minn. Filed Aug. 20, 1927. Serial No. 214,385. 5 Claims. (Cl. 248—30.)



2. In combination with a pair of spaced poles, a pair of horizontally spaced beams secured to said poles and displaced laterally from the axis of said poles, a hanger secured to said beams and displaced laterally from said beams, said hanger being displaced in a direction opposite to the direction of displacement of said beams from said poles, and an attaching member secured to said hanger.

1,749,253. POURING SPOUT. LÉO LÉVY, Paris, France. Filed Feb. 5, 1927, Serial No. 166,170, and in France Feb. 9, 1926. 5 Claims. (Cl. 221—27.)

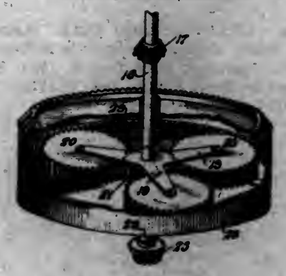


1. A pouring device for vessels containing liquids comprising a tubular member mounted on the vessel, a tubular pouring member proper mounted with annular clearance within said first member, said first member having a flare at its outer end to form a gutter between said two members, said annular clearance being such as to form a passage whereby drips of liquid collecting in the gutter are continuously returned to the interior of the vessel by capillarity, said second member having in it an opening, whereby liquid is also returned directly into the vessel from said gutter by gravity.

1,749,254. FOOTWEAR AND PROCESS OF MAKING THE SAME. MORRIS LIPPERT, New York, N. Y. Filed Sept. 8, 1928. Serial No. 304,722. 2 Claims. (Cl. 36—16.)

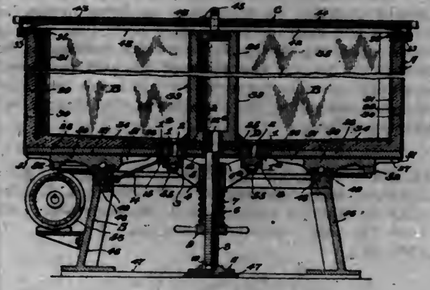
1. Footwear, comprising a flexible upper and a flexible sole, the bottom edge of the upper being turned outwardly in the form of a flange having a perimeter to coincide with the perimeter of the sole and seating against the inner face of said sole adjacent its perimeter, a binding element of substantially U-shape cross section straddling said contacting portions of the upper and the sole, and stitching extending through the binding element, the flange of the upper and the sole, and in over and over fashion around the arms and bight of the U-shaped binding element.

1,749,255. CLOSURE LOCK. ELMER W. MCGHAN, Salt Lake City, Utah. Filed Oct. 13, 1928. Serial No. 312,348. 9 Claims. (Cl. 70—14.)



1. In a rotating closure lock, a locking barrel having a key controlled cylinder, a cam secured to the rotating cylinder but having relative rotation therewith, said cam having a series of teeth at its free surface, said teeth being struck on an arc having its center offset with respect to the center of the cylinder.

1,749,256. AIRPLANE CONTROL MECHANISM. MILO MORRILL, Provo, Utah; Jesse J. Morrill administrator of said Milo Morrill, deceased. Filed Feb. 15, 1926. Serial No. 88,849. 2 Claims. (Cl. 244—29.)



1. An airplane control operating mechanism comprising in combination, a manually operated member, a shaft rotatable by said member, a gear wheel on said shaft, a casing provided with internal and external series of gear teeth, the said external series meshing with the gear on the shaft aforesaid, a second shaft upon which the said casing is mutually rotatable, gears mounted upon the ends of said second shaft and engaging the internal gearing of said casing, jack shafts each of which bears a gear engaged by the gears upon the said second shaft and another gear upon each of said jack shafts, the last named gears engaging other gears which actuate arms, the said arms being operatively connected to movable parts of the airplane.

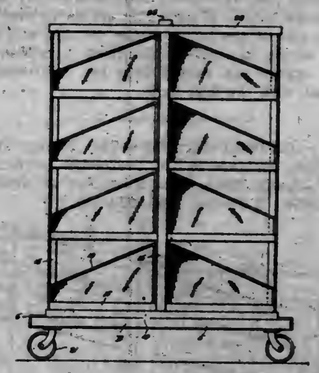
1,749,257. PASTEURIZING APPARATUS. CORNELIUS MORTENSEN, Louisville, Ky. Filed Jan. 26, 1927. Serial No. 163,798. 14 Claims. (Cl. 137—21.)

1. In a pasteurizing apparatus, the combination with a rotary holder having compartments contained within a common insulating wall, of non-foam producing valve means arranged at the bottom of said holder for controlling the filling, holding and discharging of the contents of said compartments, said means comprising a two-part valve device including superposed ring members each having flat engaging faces located at the bottom face of the holder, one of said rings being carried with the bottom of the container and having a plurality of openings and the other of said parts held in a nonrotating position and having inlet and discharging means.



1,749,258. GRINDING MACHINE AND OTHER MACHINE TOOL. ARTHUR HITCHCOCK ORCUTT and JOHN WILDSMITH SHARRY, Birmingham, England, assignors to The Gear Grinding Company Limited, Birmingham, England. Filed Jan. 16, 1929, Serial No. 332,965, and in Great Britain Jan. 24, 1928. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—52.)

In grinding and other machine tools, the combination comprising a vertical guide, a slide movable on said guide, a bell crank lever pivoted on the slide, a balance weight, flexible means for securing the balance weight to one end of the bell crank lever, and a radius rod having one end attached to a fixed pivot, the other end of the radius rod being attached to the other end of the bell crank lever, substantially as described.

1,749,259. MOBILE DISPLAY RACK. JOHN B. PITTS, Louisville, Ky. Filed Dec. 5, 1928. Serial No. 328,847. 2 Claims. (Cl. 211—189.)

1. In combination, a mobile base, a standard rising from the base, a tube revoluble on the standard, a plurality of spaced collars on the tube, bars radiating from the collars and tubes, and being T-shaped in cross section, and having notches at their outer ends, uprights of T-shape in cross sections, having flanges in said notches, arcuate bars between the uprights, shelves resting on said first and second mentioned bars between said uprights, a plurality of partitions resting on the first mentioned bars between the tube and the respective uprights, an annular track fixed to said base concentric with said standards, and wheels on the lowermost arcuate bars ridable on said track.

1,749,260. DEVICE FOR REMOVING SOLID PARTICLES FROM FLUE GASES. MARCEL PRÉTOT and FRANÇOIS ULLMANN, Mulhouse, France. Filed Dec. 5, 1927, Serial No. 237,926, and in France Dec. 4, 1926. 2 Claims. (Cl. 261—89.)

1. In a heating plant, a device mounted at a suitable point in a flue for removing the solid particles from the fine gases, comprising, in combination, a turbine having a plurality of blades formed with many perforations, means for projecting by compressed air a cleaning fluid against the blades of said turbine in a direction to cause the turbine to rotate, said turbine being so mounted with reference to the stream of gases that only those blades moving in the direction of the gases come in contact with said gases.

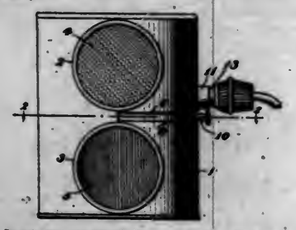
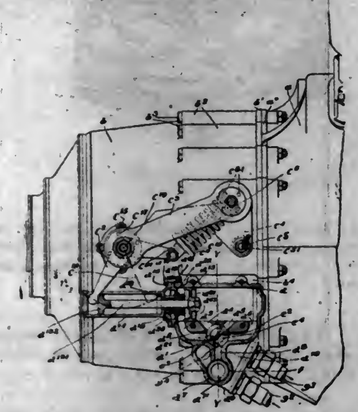
1,749,261. MEANS FOR LIGATING ARTERIES. SIMON RHEISLER, Indianapolis, Ind. Filed June 4, 1928. Serial No. 282,573. 8 Claims. (Cl. 128—334.)



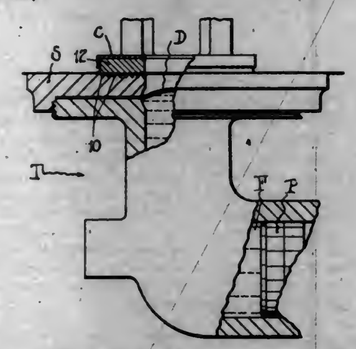
1. In a ligating instrument, means for grasping an end of a member to be tied, a thread looped around said grasping means and crossed to form a second loop for a double knot, means for grasping the thread in the second loop, means for grasping it beyond the second loop, means for transferring the loops from the grasping means to the member to be tied, and means for consecutively tightening the two loops having a spreading action in one direction to tighten one of the loops on the member and having a spreading action in a reverse direction to release the first loop and engage the second loop for tightening into a double knot with the first loop.

1,749,262. ICE-DELIVERY DEVICE. ROBERT H. ROARK, Waco, Tex., assignor to The Perfection Ice Scoring Machine Company, Waco, Tex. Filed Mar. 12, 1928. Serial No. 260,866. 5 Claims. (Cl. 193—31.)



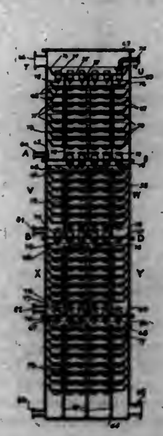
1. In an ice delivery device having a plurality of superimposed gravity chutes with a common delivery passage; a yieldingly mounted slide for delivering blocks of ice from the lower end of an upper chute to a chute below, said slide being normally raised from the path of ice blocks on the lower chute to allow free passage of ice along the chute below, and capable of being lowered by the weight of a block of ice on the upper chute, the slide when in lowered position offering no obstruction to blocks on the upper chute.

1,749,263. SIGNAL. PATRICK J. ROONEY, Sugar Notch, Pa. Filed Aug. 21, 1929. Serial No. 387,480. 1 Claim. (Cl. 116—45.)



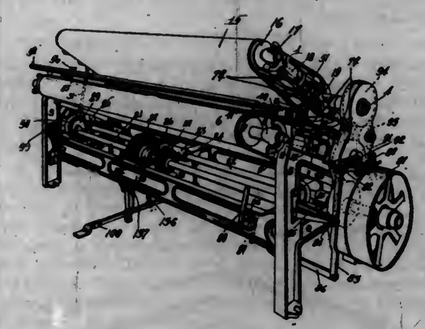
A signal lantern comprising a body having a slot in its side intermediate its top and bottom, lens tubes projecting from the body, a source of illumination within the body, and a ring fitting closely but slidably within the body and having an opening and provided with a handle element extending through the slot in the body whereby the ring may be shifted to obscure a lens tube or to bring the opening in the ring into axial alinement with the lens tube.

1,749,264. CHANGE-SPEED GEAR. ARTHUR JOHN ROWLEDGE, Derby, England, assignor to Rolls-Royce Limited, Derby, England. Filed Dec. 8, 1924, Serial No. 753,692, and in Great Britain Dec. 4, 1923. 2 Claims. (Cl. 74—107.)



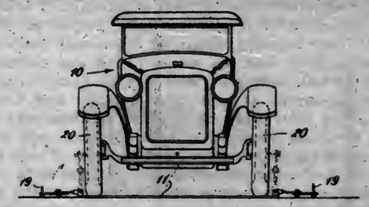
1. An engine controlled by a throttle valve and including a shaft rotatable from either of two different predetermined positions to the other, operating means connected to said shaft, a spring toggle mechanism connected to said operating means and normally tending to hold the shaft in one or the other of its said positions, a servo-motor operably connected to said toggle mechanism, and means controlling the operation of said throttle valve and servo-motor.

1,749,265. TESTING MACHINE. SAMUEL N. SENNA, Chicopee, Mass., assignor to B. F. Perkins & Son, Inc., Holyoke, Mass., a Corporation of Massachusetts. Filed June 18, 1928. Serial No. 286,256. 3 Claims. (Cl. 265—14.)



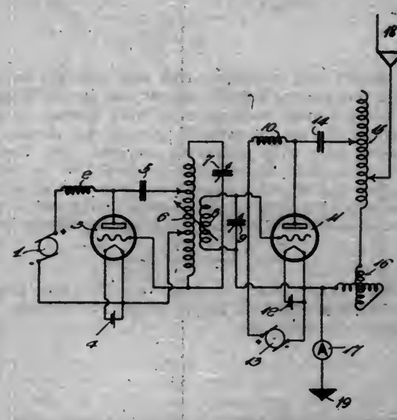
1. A machine of the class described comprising in combination, a platform member having a specimen supporting surface and a central aperture therethrough, a clamp member having a specimen engaging surface and a central aperture therethrough, the surfaces of said members being relatively yieldable and non-yieldable and one of said surfaces being provided with depressions whereby a specimen may be forced therein by the other surface.

1,749,266. BAFFLING DEVICE. WALTER SONTAG, Baden, near Vienna, Austria. Filed Jan. 9, 1928. Serial No. 245,523. 4 Claims. (Cl. 261—113.)



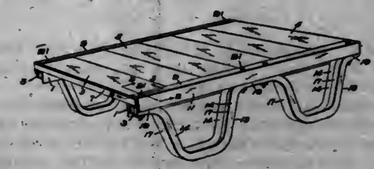
1. In a device of the character described, an exterior shell, a plate within the shell, holes and dishes in the plate, holes in the upper part of the dishes, means adapted to deliver elastic fluids containing suspended liquids and solids under the plate, means adapted to remove elastic fluid from above the plate, means adapted to remove liquids with solids from under the plate, so that the elastic fluid containing suspended liquid and solids passes through the holes and around the dishes in the plate in upward direction and suspended liquid and solids are separated, gathered and directed down to points under the dishes.

1,749,267. LEATHER GRAINING, BOARDING, AND SOFTENING MACHINE. JOHN E. SPENCER, Salem, Mass. Filed Sept. 6, 1928. Serial No. 661,188. 18 Claims. (Cl. 149—19.)



18. In a machine of the class described, a plate having a bead along one edge, a pair of rods for supporting said plate, a guide through which each rod slides to raise and lower said plate, means for sliding said rods, and springs reacting between the edge of said plate opposite to said bead and said sliding means to prevent cramping of said rods in said guide.

1,749,268. WHEEL-ALIGNING GAUGE. LLOYD GERMAN TAYLOR, Allentown, Pa. Filed Apr. 6, 1927. Serial No. 181,316. 8 Claims. (Cl. 33—203.)



1. A vehicle wheel aligning device comprising a frame to be placed transversely of and beneath the wheels so as to be positioned thereby, arms connected to said frame and projecting beyond the outer surfaces of the wheels and means on said arms adapted to engage diametrically opposite points on the outer surfaces of the wheels.

1,749,269. EXTERNALLY-CONTROLLED TUBE TRANSMITTER. FRIEDRICH TRAUTWEIN, Berlin-Zehlendorf, Germany, assignor to the Firm Dr. Erich F. Huth Ges. m. b. H., Berlin, Germany. Filed Sept. 17, 1926, Serial No. 136,178, and in Germany Oct. 17, 1925. 4 Claims. (Cl. 250—17.)

1. In an arrangement for externally controlled high frequency transmitter, comprising a controlling oscillation generator, an amplifier with an input and an output circuit, means in said output circuit to tune it to the transmitter frequency and means in said input circuit to prevent reaction from said output circuit, comprising a circuit tuned to a harmonic of the transmitter frequency.

1,749,270. SKID. CLARENCE H. YOUNG, Boston, Mass. Filed Jan. 10, 1928. Serial No. 245,716. 2 Claims. (Cl. 248—41.)

1. A skid having, in combination, a pair of angle-irons at each side thereof, the respective angle-irons of each pair having vertically spaced horizontal webs the lower of which is directed toward the side edge of the skid and the upper of which is directed toward the center of the skid, said angle-irons having downwardly directed vertical webs, channel-irons bent to form a plurality of U-shaped legs; adjacent sides of said legs being connected to each other at their tops by elongated horizontal portions of the channel-irons, and the sides of said legs nearest the ends of the skid having at their tops connected elongated horizontal portions of said channel-irons; said channel-irons having their webs horizontally disposed and their flanges vertically disposed at said portions, said flanges fitting the space between the vertical webs of said angle-irons and contacting therewith, the vertical webs of the upper angle-irons extending over the major portion of the adjacent flanges of said portions of said channel-irons, and floor members having their ends inserted between the horizontal webs of said angle-irons.

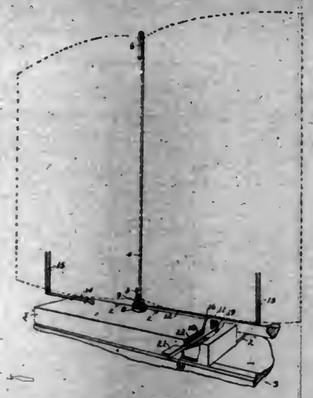
1,749,271. GARDEN TOOL. GEORGE R. BELLAH, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to E. J. Naffziger, Glendale, Calif. Filed Apr. 12, 1928. Serial No. 269,392. 1 Claim. (Cl. 97—58.)

In a garden tool the combination with a shovel having a pointed forward end and the upright rear portion of said shovel being curved laterally, of a strap secured to the rear face of the upright laterally curved rear portion of the shovel, said strap extending upwardly and thence forwardly from said shovel, a handle secured to the upper forward portion of said strap and the lower end of which strap is bent outwardly and rearwardly to one side of the shovel to form a combined gauge and support for the tool.



1,749,272. AIRPLANE. WILLIAM W. BIRD, San Diego, Calif. Filed Sept. 21, 1927. Serial No. 220,971. 4 Claims. (Cl. 244—14.)

1. In an airplane, a fuselage having a substantially flat bottom side, a blunt nose curved upwardly and backwardly, and an upper side tapered gradually from the forward end to a fin edge at the tail end, said fuselage having vertical vanes at the lateral edges of its upper surface, said vanes extending from said nose to the tail.

1,749,273. MUSIC-LEAF TURNER. NATE O. BOZELLE, San Jose, Calif. Filed Mar. 15, 1928. Serial No. 261,927. 1 Claim. (Cl. 84—493.)

A music leaf turner comprising a supporting case, a sheet-music supporting standard mounted therein and extending upwardly therefrom, a bearing formed in the top of the case in concentric relation to the standard, a hollow cylinder revolubly mounted in the bearing, a resilient connection between the cylinder and standard to urge the cylinder to rotate in one direction, a sheet-music supporting arm mounted on the cylinder concentrically with the standard, a detent mounted on the casing to engage said arm and hold the same against the urge of the resilient connection, a stop to limit the rotative movement of the arm when released by the detent, and a release for the detent.

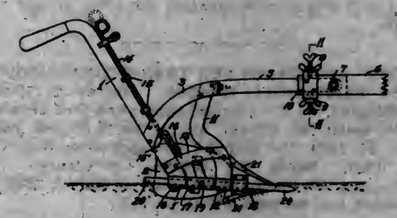
1,749,274. DUMPING TRUCK TRAIN. RAY H. CRISLER, Glendale, Calif. Filed June 13, 1927. Serial No. 198,498. 1 Claim. (Cl. 298—22.)

A dumping truck train comprising a motor driven truck provided with a tiltably mounted body, a trailer provided with a tiltably mounted body, a draft device connecting the truck and trailer, fluid pressure operated mechanisms on the truck and trailer for tilting the respective bodies, said mechanisms including pumps, a transmission on the truck operably connected with the motor, a shaft operably connected with the pump on the truck, a gear splined on said shaft, a means to move the gear into and out of operative relation with the transmission, and a shaft operably connecting the pump on the trailer with the first mentioned shaft.

1,749,275. BUILT-UP SHOWER BATH. JOHN C. CROMWELL, Alliance, Ohio, assignor to The Steel Sanitary Company, Alliance, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed June 23, 1928. Serial No. 287,668. 16 Claims. (Cl. 4—145.)



8. As an article of manufacture, a shower bath tub comprising a frame having sides of different heights, and a base having sides of different heights welded in position in the frame with the low sides of the base cooperating with the high sides of the frame to provide a substantially uniform overall height at all of the sides.

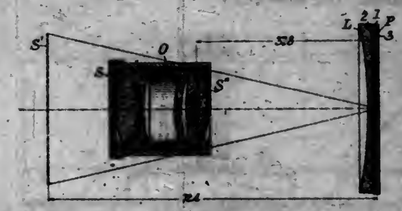
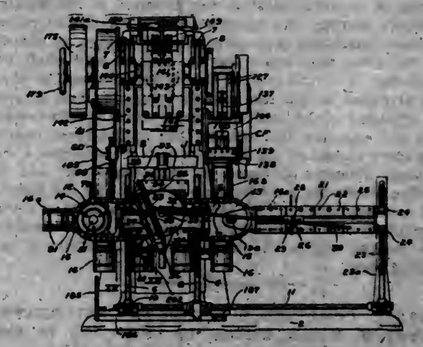
1. In a boat of the class described, a pair of side plates arranged on the bottom, a pair of center plates arranged on the bottom, and a pair of intermediate plates between the side and center plates, oppositely disposed shafts journaled between the center, intermediate, and side plates on each side of the center plates, sprockets on the shafts, chains trained about the sprockets, plates supported between the chains to form caterpillars, one shaft being common to a pair of caterpillars at each side of the center of the boat, and independent driving means for the last mentioned shaft, the two outermost caterpillars extending farther rearwardly than the inner one and the inner one extending farther forwardly than the outer one.



1,749,277. PLOW. PEDRO CARBONELL FIGUERAS, Habana, Cuba. Filed Mar. 17, 1928, Serial No. 262,416, and in Cuba Mar. 1, 1928. 1 Claim. (Cl. 97—31.)

A plow comprising a handle, a plow beam forked and curved downwardly at its rear end, a bearing formed at the lower end of the handle, a standard secured at the juncture of the forks and the beam, a bearing formed at the lower end of said standard, said bearing being in line with the bearing on the handle but spaced therefrom, a reinforcing brace connecting the handle and the standard, a plowshare, spaced bearings secured thereto, said latter bearings each being adapted to be positioned respectively in advance of the bearings on the handle and on the standard, a shaft passing through all the bearings to rotatably support the plowshare, a locking bolt carried by and movable with respect to the handle, and means on the plowshare with which the locking bolt may cooperate to secure the plowshare in either right or left position with respect to the handle.



1,749,278. OPTICAL SYSTEM FOR USE IN PHOTOGRAPHIC COLOR PROCESSES. CHARLES W. HANDLEY, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Nov. 27, 1928. Serial No. 322,175. 10 Claims. (Cl. 95—2.)

10. Complementary optical systems for use in the taking and projecting of color photographs by the use of photographic layers having associated therewith numerous microscopic image-forming elements and comprising two objectives of different focal lengths, each system including one objective and a polychromatic screen associated therewith, and one system including a weak supplemental lens in front of its rear focal plane by a distance less than ten percent of the focal length of the system, the positions of the screens in the systems being such that the virtual images thereof are of the same size and have the same positions relative to the rear focal planes of the systems.

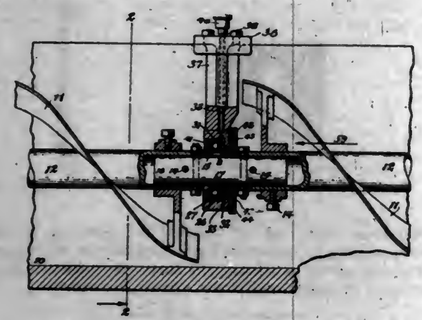
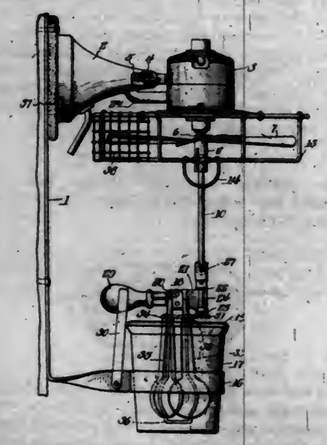
1,749,279. CAN-MAKING MACHINE. GEORGE O. FROSTAD and JAMES E. ANNEN, Milwaukee, Wis., assignors to The National Paper Can Company, Milwaukee, Wis., a Corporation of Wisconsin. Filed Apr. 6, 1928. Serial No. 267,878. 42 Claims. (Cl. 113—27.)



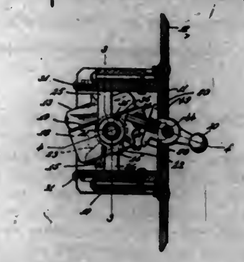
1. A can making machine comprising a mandrel, means for moving the same in an orbital path, means for feeding a can body to the mandrel during such movement, means for feeding a cap to the body, means for forming a closure joint between the cap and the body, and safety means lying alongside the path whereby the mandrel moving means may be stopped if the can is not removed from the mandrel before it starts another cycle.

1,749,280. TYING DEVICE. ELMER PERRY GUMMO, Monument, Pa. Filed May 16, 1929. Serial No. 363,667. 3 Claims. (Cl. 24—18.)



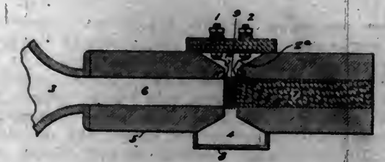
3. In a device of the character described, a plate having up-turned ends and also having up-turned wings, two brackets secured upon the plate, said brackets having slots therein so positioned relative to said wings as to facilitate the guiding of twine to the slots, levers pivoted in the brackets, each lever having a locking hook formed therewith, a lug projecting upward from the plate, a knife secured upon said lug and a guide secured upon the knife for facilitating the cutting of the twine while held by the hooks.

1,749,281. ROLLING BEARING. EDWIN HAMBLETON, Kenmore, N. Y., assignor to The Transmission Ball Bearing Company Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Mar. 11, 1927. Serial No. 174,658. 4 Claims. (Cl. 309—189.)



1. A bearing for a shaft, comprising a housing having a bore through which the shaft passes and which is composed of a portion of large diameter and a portion of small diameter, a rolling unit arranged around the shaft and within the large diameter portion of said bore and consisting of an outer bearing ring mounted in the housing, an inner bearing ring mounted on the shaft and rolling members interposed between said bearing rings, an adapter for mounting said inner bearing ring on said shaft and consisting of a split conical sleeve surrounding the shaft and arranged within the inner bearing ring and a screw nut arranged in the small diameter portion of said housing bore and engaging the adjacent end of the inner bearing ring and a thread on the adjacent part of the sleeve, a disk of large diameter arranged on said screw nut and extending across the joint between said nut and the housing and overlapping the front side of the housing, and a disk of small diameter arranged on the opposite end of the sleeve and located within the large diameter portion of said housing bore.

1,749,282. COMBINED ELECTRIC FAN AND BEATER. HUGH W. HARRIS, Chicago, Ill. Filed July 16, 1928. Serial No. 293,001. 6 Claims. (Cl. 259—104.)



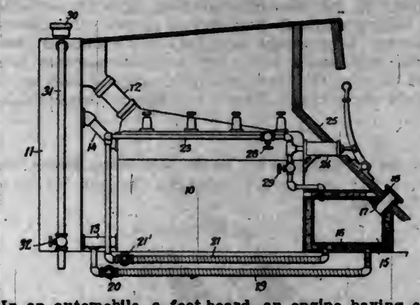
1. The combination of a base, an electric motor mounted on said base for adjustment into horizontal and vertical positions, a coupling on the motor, a support on said base below the motor, a receptacle on said support, a beater unit adapted to rest upon said receptacle, said unit comprising an upwardly extending coupling, a shaft adapted at its ends for engagement with said couplings, and a retainer on the motor to support the upper end of the shaft when the latter is disengaged from the motor coupling.

1,749,283. SWITCH MECHANISM. GEORGE HEGEMAN HART, West Hartford, Conn. Filed Apr. 29, 1927. Serial No. 187,594. 8 Claims. (Cl. 200—67.)

1. In a switch mechanism, a base, a pair of sheet metal conductors fixed thereto and having aligned openings, a support pivoted between said conductors and having studs extending into said openings, one of said studs having a bearing in one of said openings, a mercury tube on said support and having depending electrodes extending therethrough at a distance from said studs, a sheet metal contact connected to one of said electrodes extending upwardly at one side of said support and engaging one of said conductors, and a sheet metal contact connected to the other of said electrodes extending upwardly at the other side of said support and engaging the other of said conductors.

1,749,284. APPARATUS FOR TRANSFORMING SOUND INTO ELECTRICAL ENERGY. HARVEY C. HAYES, Washington, D. C. Original application filed June 30, 1924, Serial No. 723,427, Patent No. 1,729,383, dated Sept. 24, 1929. Divided and this application filed Nov. 11, 1927. Serial No. 232,701. 9 Claims. (Cl. 179—121.) (Granted under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, as amended Apr. 30, 1928, 370 O. G., 757.)

1. An apparatus for transforming sound into electrical energy, comprising a sound concentrating means, a magnet having circular pole pieces, one of said pole pieces being hollow, a magnetic gap between said pole pieces, means for protecting said magnetic gap from extraneous interferences and a coiled filamentary conductor suspended freely between the two pole pieces.



1,749,285. APPARATUS FOR TRANSFORMING SOUND INTO ELECTRICAL ENERGY. HARVEY C. HAYES, Washington, D. C. Original application filed June 30, 1924, Serial No. 723,427. Divided and this application filed Nov. 11, 1927. Serial No. 232,702. 10 Claims. (Cl. 179—121.) (Granted under the act of Mar. 3, 1883, as amended Apr. 30, 1928, 370 O. G., 757.)

1. An apparatus for transforming sound into electrical energy, comprising a sound directing means, a magnet having pole pieces, one of said pole pieces being hollow and in sonic communication with said directing means, a magnetic gap between said pole pieces, a filamentary conductor suspended within said magnetic gap and adapted to receive directly the impulses from said sound directing means and means for exerting a tension upon said filamentary conductor.

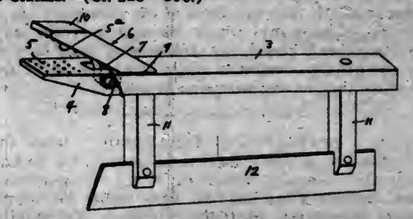
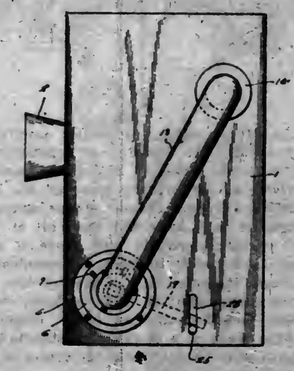
1,749,286. NONFREEZING DEVICE FOR AUTOMOBILES. ROSCOE HILL, Clifford, Ind. Filed July 22, 1927. Serial No. 207,728. 2 Claims. (Cl. 123—174.)



In an automobile, a foot-board, an engine having cooling chambers, a radiator for cooling the engine, a tank, a pipe extending upward from the tank adjacent the foot-board and then to a pipe connecting the upper part of the radiator to cooling chambers in the engine, a pipe leading from the bottom of the tank to a pipe connecting the lower part of the radiator with said cooling chamber of the engine, an air pump connected to said first-named pipe, and manually operable valves above and below the point of connection of said pump to said pipe.

1,749,287. PLUG RETAINER. FREDERICK W. JACKSON, Needles, Calif. Filed Dec. 27, 1928. Serial No. 328,789. 3 Claims. (Cl. 220—39.)



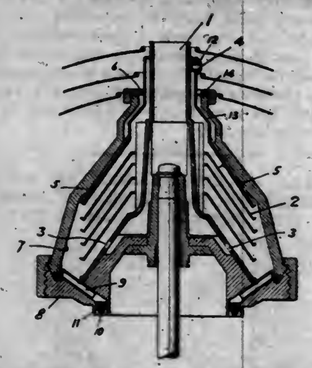
1. In a device of the character described, a tubular member, a plug engaged therewith and means for retaining the plug against accidental displacement comprising a lug projecting from the tubular member and having a wall extending substantially radially with reference to the plug, the stem extending through said lug and carrying a head at its outer end, a spring urging the stem in a direction to carry the head toward the lug, the head being rotatable into a position parallel with the wall of the lug or at right angles thereto when the head and the stem are lifted against the action of the spring, the outer face of said wall being inclined from its middle in opposite directions.

1,749,288. SHEEP KNIFE. JAMES L. KING and ROBERT L. VANCIL, Darlington, Idaho; said King assignor to said Vancil. Filed Apr. 10, 1929. Serial No. 354,065. 3 Claims. (Cl. 128—306.)

1. A sheep knife comprising a handle, a pair of longitudinally spaced right angularly extending arms carried by said handle and bifurcated at their free ends, a knife disposed in spaced parallelism with said handle and fastened between the furcations, one end of said handle being fashioned to provide a stationary clamping jaw, and a relatively movable jaw pivoted on said handle and cooperable with said stationary jaw.

1,749,289. TELEPHONE-RECEIVER MOUNTING. KAZUO KODAMA, Petersburg, Territory of Alaska. Filed Aug. 13, 1928. Serial No. 299,306. 6 Claims. (Cl. 179—149.)

1. In a receiver for wall type telephones wherein the same includes a casing, an elongated megaphonic arm, a shell secured to one side of the casing, a magnetic vibratory unit attached to the reduced end of said arm and being swivelly disposed within the said shell, and complementary stop means between the arm and the shell, whereby the arm may be supported in a definite position outwardly of the casing, a switch structure for opening and closing the telephonic circuit, and means between the arm and the switch whereby the latter is operated by the movement of the arm.



1,749,290. VALVE FOR GAS RANGES. FRANK J. LIBSKE, Detroit, Mich., assignor, by direct and mesne assignments, of one-half to Harry W. Gilberg and one-fourth to John F. La Grant, Detroit, Mich. Filed Aug. 31, 1927. Serial No. 216,757. 2 Claims. (Cl. 251—164.)

1. In a valve for gas ranges, a valve body having a pair of upwardly extending spaced guide lugs, a valve member rotatably mounted in the body, a pin carried by the valve member and extending between the lugs to limit turning movement of the valve member, an annular member having notches fitting over the guide lugs, one notch being greater in width than the width of the companion lug and providing a space into which the said pin may extend when the valve is closed, the arrangement being such that when the annular member is moved upwardly on the guide lugs above the pin the valve may be opened.

1,749,291. CENTRIFUGAL SEPARATOR. HANS OLOF LINDGREN, Appelviken, Sweden, assignor to The De Laval Separator Company, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Aug. 24, 1928, Serial No. 301,829, and in Sweden Oct. 26, 1927. 5 Claims. (Cl. 233—28.)

1. The combination with a revoluble separator bowl provided with an inlet for a mixture of centrifugally separable materials, of a series of superposed conical discs adapted to divide the separating space of the bowl into strata and afford an open annular sludge space between the outer edges of said discs and the wall of the bowl, the top disc providing outside and above it an outlet channel whose inlet end is in direct communication with the space adjacent the outer edge of the top disc, an outlet affording direct communication with the inner ends of the spaces between the discs and an outlet communicating with said sludge space at a distance substantially greater than the edge of said top disc from the center of rotation.

1,749,292. EXTRACTOR BASKET. ALLAN G. MACDONELL, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed July 24, 1929. Serial No. 380,572. 8 Claims. (Cl. 210—76.)

1. A centrifugal drier including a stationary housing, a basket spindle arranged to rotate in said housing, a plurality of foraminated receptacles fitted into said housing and placed one on top of the other, and coacting means on said receptacles and said spindle for causing the same to rotate together.

1,749,293. AEROPLANE WING RIB. CALEB J. MARSTON and PERLEY W. ORDWAY, Loudon, N. H. Filed July 24, 1929. Serial No. 380,637. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—31.)

An aeroplane wing rib of the character described comprising a pair of longitudinal members connected at their ends and being vertically spaced apart at their intermediacies, and transversely disposed strengthening bars interposed between the said longitudinal members, each of said longitudinal members comprising a pair of spaced parallel rails, longitudinally spaced blocks secured between the rails at points intermediate the strengthening bars for spacing the rails a predetermined distance apart, pairs of crossed bracing members arranged diagonally between the said strengthening bars with their end portions interposed and secured between the rails of the longitudinal members adjacent the opposite sides of the end portions of the strengthening bars, said strengthening bars being reduced at their ends to provide extensions for disposition between the said rails and laminated plates having their upper and lower marginal portions interposed between the upper and lower pairs of rails at the opposite end portions thereof, and secured therebetween.

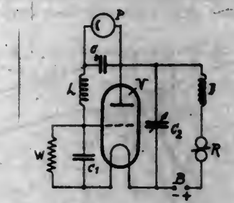
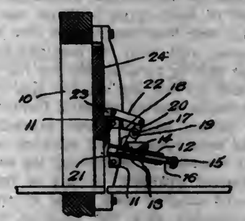
1,749,294. BRASSIÈRE. BETTY MCDANIEL, Dallas, Tex. Filed Aug. 30, 1928. Serial No. 302,938. 1 Claim. (Cl. 2—42.)



A brassière embodying a pair of substantially rectangular and similar lower members of uniform width having convex upper edges and concave lower edges and having their inner ends secured together, said upper and lower edges being struck on substantially the same arc and being of slight and regular curvature from end to end of the members, said inner ends diverging downwardly with respect to each other, a pair of substantially rectangular and similar end members having outwardly tapering upper and lower edges secured at their inner ends to the respective outer ends of the lower members and conforming to and forming continuations thereof, an elastic member secured to the outer end of one of said end members, means to connect said elastic member to the outer end of the other end member, and a pair of substantially similar and triangular members having their base portions substantially convex and of approximately the length of each of said pair of lower members, and having their sides of equal length, said convex lower edges of the triangular members being struck on arcs of materially less radii than the arcs on which the said curved edges of the lower members are struck and being each secured to the convex upper edge of the adjacent lower members to provide a substantially convex pocket, and shoulder straps secured to the apices of said triangular members and to said end members.

1,749,295. CONTROL SYSTEM FOR OSCILLATION CIRCUITS. GERHARD MESERTOMPF, Spandau, near Berlin, Germany, assignor to the Firm Dr. Erich F. Huth Ges. m. b. H., Berlin, Germany. Filed June 14, 1924, Serial No. 720,106, and in Germany May 15, 1923. 9 Claims. (Cl. 250—36.)



1. The combination with an oscillation circuit comprising an oscillation generator having a plate, grid and filament, an input circuit including said grid and filament, an output circuit including said plate and filament, an inductance and a condenser disposed between said input and output circuits and a photo electric cell connected to said condenser so that variations in the illumination of said cell will control the amplitude of oscillations of said circuits.

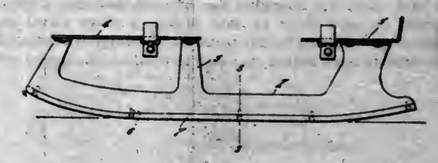
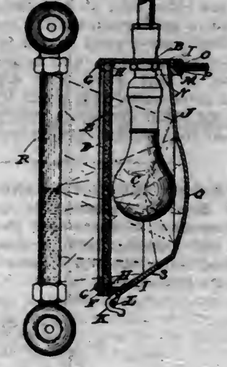
1,749,296. SAFETY DEVICE FOR PAPER CUTTERS. ANDREW T. MOYER, Philadelphia, Pa. Filed July 14, 1927. Serial No. 205,613. 5 Claims. (Cl. 74—105.)



4. A device of the kind described, brackets for securement to the frame of a machine having a reciprocating element, said brackets having guideways therein, a frame reciprocatingly mounted in the guideways, a buffer bar carried by the frame, extensions formed with the brackets, a shaft mounted in said extensions, levers journalled on said shaft, links pivoted to the lower ends of the levers and to the frame and other links pivoted to the upper ends of the levers to the reciprocating element of the machine whereby motion will be transmitted from said reciprocating element to the frame and buffer bar.

1,749,297. PROCESS OF AND APPARATUS FOR TESTING BELTS. CARL A. NORMAN, Columbus, Ohio. Filed Jan. 21, 1929. Serial No. 333,935. 19 Claims. (Cl. 73—51.)



1. A method of testing belts, including the operation on a single shaft, of two similar belts to be tested, which comprises, operating one of said belts with slip so that it tends to accelerate the shaft, operating the other of said belts with slip so that it tends to decelerate said shaft, and utilizing the power taken off the shaft by said decelerating belt, augmented by sufficient power to supply the drive losses, to drive the accelerating belt.

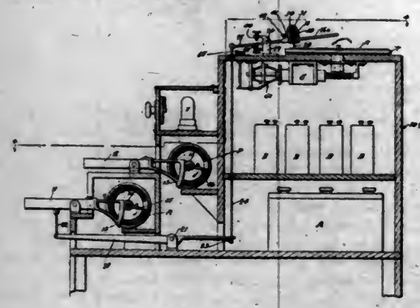
1,749,298. ICE SKATE. MAXIMILIAN J. ORAVSIK, Chicago, Ill. Filed Nov. 26, 1928. Serial No. 321,959. 1 Claim. (Cl. 208—172.)

In a skate, a runner formed with a longitudinally extending groove in the bottom face thereof and further having longitudinally spaced threaded sockets in the groove, an ice engaging strip fitting against the bottom face of the runner, a longitudinally extending rib on the strip for disposition in the groove of the runner, said strip being provided with vertical openings for registering with the threaded sockets, and securing screws extending through the openings in the strip and threaded into the respective sockets to rigidly secure the strip on the runner, the side faces of the strip forming a continuation of the respective side faces of the runners.

1,749,299. GAUGE LIGHT. GEORGE W. OSBORN, Cleveland, Ohio. Filed Feb. 15, 1926. Serial No. 88,334. 2 Claims. (Cl. 240—2.)

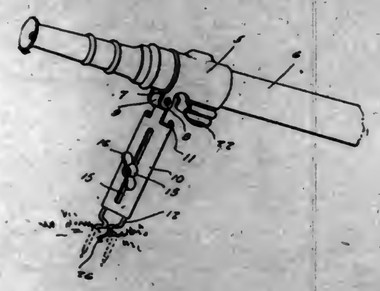
1. In an illuminating device for a water gauge tube, the combination with a vertical gauge tube of a lamp and a vertically elongated casing therefor, said casing being provided with a vertical elongated slot in its front wall and a glass thereover parallel with said gauge tube, the back wall of said casing being provided with a concave mirror opposite to said lamp, and opposite to the normal water level in said tube, and also provided with a vertical back wall and with vertical oblique side walls arranged to deflect the light of said lamp through said slot upon said tube, the bottom of said casing being inclined obliquely to the back wall to prevent the downward dispersion of the rays of light.

1,749,300. VALVE GRINDER. EDWARD HENRY PETERSON and WILLIAM H. ODLUM, Chicago, Ill., assignors to Duro Metal Products Company, Chicago, Ill., a Corporation of Illinois. Filed Aug. 29, 1927. Serial No. 216,042. 1 Claim. (Cl. 51—29.)



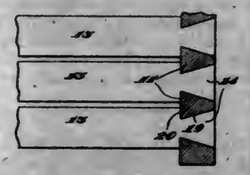
In a valve grinder, the combination of an elongated supporting casing having a pair of transverse bores with a valve actuating shaft rotatably mounted in one of said

bores and extending in the direction of the longitudinal axis of the casing, a counterbore about said shaft, a pair of washers in said counterbore, ball bearings between said washers in said counterbore, an annular shoulder carried by said shaft for engaging one of said washers, a pinion carried by said shaft in said casing, a sheet metal segmental gear having radial teeth on its periphery rotatably mounted in said casing in vertical position to engage said



pinion at right angles thereto, a second shaft rotatably mounted in the other bore of said casing, a crank lever fixedly secured to said second shaft, a crank for actuating said second shaft, pivot posts riveted to said crank lever and to said segmental gear, and a connecting link pivotally secured to said crank lever and said segmental gear by said pivot posts, said crank lever being of less length than the radial distance of the pivot post on said segmental gear from the axis of said segmental gear.

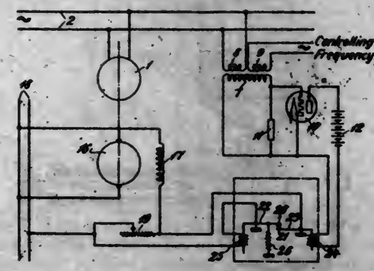
1,749,301. SOUND PRODUCING AND CONTROLLING SYSTEM. ROY J. POMEROY, Los Angeles, Calif., assignor of one-half to Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, Los Angeles, Calif., a Corporation of New York. Filed July 23, 1927. Serial No. 208,039. 7 Claims. (Cl. 179—100.4.)



1. In a sound producing and controlling system, the combination of a plurality of independently controllable sound record operating means each adapted to move a sound record at independently selected speed, a reproducing element for each of such records, an amplifying system connectible with said reproducing elements, means for selectively throwing any selected reproducing element into operative relation with its respective record, and means controlled thereby for connecting that selected reproducing element with the sound amplifying means and for independently controllably varying the input from each reproducing element to the amplifying system.

1,749,302. NOZZLE SUPPORT FOR GARDEN HOSE. ANDREW M. RASMUSEN, Montrose, Colo. Filed Jan. 21, 1929. Serial No. 333,860. 1 Claim. (Cl. 248—29.)

A hose support of the character described comprising a longitudinally split clamp disposed about the hose with a portion of its split edges formed into a pair of spaced lugs, a retaining pin extending beneath said lugs for securing the same to each other, an adjustable leg composed of a pair of telescoping sections, one of said sections having its end bent about said pin and pivotally supported thereon, and with its longitudinal edges bent inwardly at one side to form guides for the other of said leg sections, said pivoted leg section also having a longitudinally extending slotted opening formed therein and said other leg section having a bolt extending therefrom for insertion in said opening and adapted for threadedly receiving a nut whereby to secure the leg sections in longitudinally adjusted position, a pair of opposed spring clips also formed on the split edges of the clamp and adapted for engaging said leg whereby to retain the same in folded position against the hose.



1,749,303. CRIBBING. JOSIAH B. RUTTER, Wakefield, Mass. Filed Feb. 13, 1928. Serial No. 253,819. 6 Claims. (Cl. 61—47.)

1. In a structure comprising a plurality of separable units having their ends alternately overlapping, an interlocking joint at said ends adapted to restrain relative movement therebetween in two dimensions, and consisting of inter-fitting faces including a pair of faces inclined to each other and a third face disposed in a plane oblique to said inclined faces and meeting along a line oblique to both of said dimensions, said three faces being arranged upon the same side of each interfitting end.

1,749,304. APPARATUS FOR SPEED REGULATION OF ROTATING BODIES. WILHELM SCHEPPMANN, Berlin-Tempelhof, and ADOLF EULENHÖFER, Konigswusterhausen, near Berlin, Germany, assignors to C. Lorenz Aktiengesellschaft, Berlin-Tempelhof, Germany. Filed Dec. 9, 1927, Serial No. 238,881, and in Germany Dec. 11, 1926. 2 Claims. (Cl. 171—119.)

1. In combination in a system for maintaining constant the speed of prime movers, a prime mover, a vibration regulator controlling a speed influencing circuit associated with said prime mover, means for deriving an electrical current having a frequency proportional to the speed of the said prime mover, further means for producing a controlling alternating current of substantially constant frequency, both currents being of equal frequency in a state of normal speed of said prime mover, means for superimposing said currents upon each other, for obtaining a resultant current which varies in accordance with variations in the speed of said prime mover and means for applying said resultant current to said vibration regulator to vary the regulating conditions of said vibration regulator.

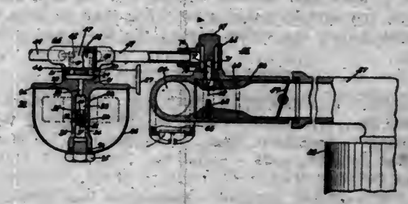
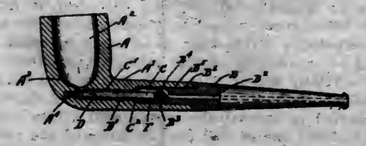
1,749,305. VEHICLE SIGNAL. FRANK W. SCHROEDER, Bemidji, Minn. Filed Nov. 4, 1927. Serial No. 231,183. 1 Claim. (Cl. 177—329.)



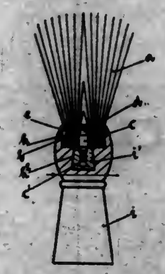
In a signal for automobiles a casing having downwardly converging side walls merging at the bottom of the casing, a top wall and front and rear walls, an annular partition wall mounted within the casing extending between the front and rear walls thereof, and engaging the opposite side walls of the casing for permitting the annular partition wall to be wedged in between the side walls for firmly anchoring the annular wall in position, the annular partition wall being supported in spaced relation to the top wall of the casing and in spaced relation with respect to the merged lower ends of the side walls for producing a plurality of light bulb receiving compartments, and bracing means constituting partitions interposed between the annular partition wall and the top wall of the casing, and lighting means positioned within the various compartments so formed.

1,749,306. LAWN-MOWER SHARPENER. JOSEPH D. SNOW, Bedford, Ind. Filed Feb. 4, 1929. Serial No. 337,362. 3 Claims. (Cl. 76—82.1.)



1. An implement for sharpening lawn mower blades, comprising a body portion which is U-shaped in cross section and provided at its closed edge with a notch and having a beveled guide face, and a sharpening element inserted within the body portion and projecting into the notch.

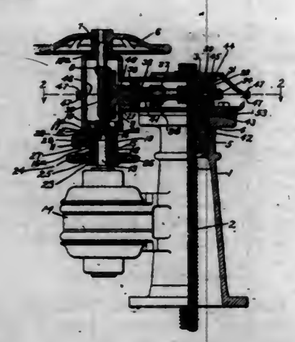
1,749,307. FUEL-CHARGING DEVICE. FRED E. ASHLINE, Dayton, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Delco Products Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 29, 1924. Serial No. 746,659. 3 Claims. (Cl. 261—66.)



1. A charge forming device for supplying a mixture of air and liquid fuel to an internal combustion engine comprising: a mixture forming passage having an air inlet and a fuel inlet thereto, a fuel duct for leading liquid fuel to said fuel inlet, a main restricting orifice in said fuel duct for limiting the maximum flow of fuel therethrough, and a gravity actuated valve adapted to cooperate with said orifice, said valve having an aperture therein for limiting the flow of fuel through said fuel duct when said gravity valve is seated, and being of such predetermined weight that it is lifted from its seat by the liquid fuel stream at higher engine suctions.

1,749,308. PIPE FOR SMOKING TOBACCO. FRANK M. ASHLEY, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed June 15, 1927. Serial No. 198,946. 5 Claims. (Cl. 131—12.)

4. A pipe comprising a bowl and stem, a mouthpiece having a passage therethru and removably attached to said stem and having a hole formed in its inner end, said stem having a passage extending from below the bowl to said mouthpiece and reduced in diameter at the bowl end of the pipe and increased in diameter at its opposite end, a filter of absorbent material having one end compressed and resting in said reduced portion of the passage and extending threthru into said hole in the mouthpiece and compressed and held by friction therein.



1,749,309. SHAVING BRUSH. SIGMUND BECK, Nuremberg, Germany. Filed Aug. 24, 1927, Serial No. 215,012, and in Germany Jan. 29, 1927. 6 Claims. (Cl. 15—191.)

1. A brush comprising a handle having a socket, brush bristles, an open-ended metal ferrule fitted in the socket and receiving the inner ends of the bristles, and a plug of a material unaffected by sterilizing temperatures and fluids centrally arranged between the secured ends of the bristles and provided with an annular groove, the ferrule having an annularly indented portion disposed between its ends and crimping the bristles and clamping the same between said indented portion and the wall of the groove, and anchoring means extending from the plug and secured within the socket beyond the inner end of the plug.

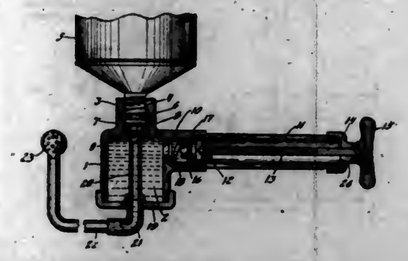
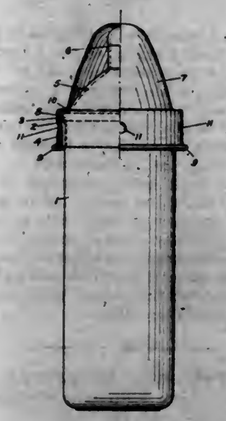
1,749,310. VALVE-OPERATING DEVICE. DONALD M. BELCHER, Winchester, Mass., assignor to Coffin Valve Company, Neponset, Mass., a Corporation of Maine. Filed July 25, 1924. Serial No. 728,145. 7 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



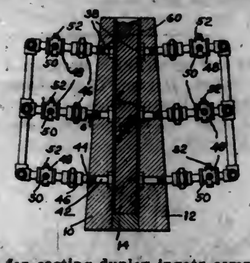
1. In an apparatus of the class described, in combination, a valve stem, means to impart movement to said stem including a driven gear, a manually operable pinion adapted to operatively engage said gear, a power driven pinion coaxially arranged to move axially in a plane substantially at right angles to the axis of said driven gear and adapted to operatively engage said driven gear and means to move one of said pinions into and the other out of engagement with said gear.

1,749,311. PIVOT JOINT. ROSCOE BEAINGER, Detroit, Mich., assignor to General Motors Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 30, 1927. Serial No. 202,658. 10 Claims. (Cl. 267—30.)



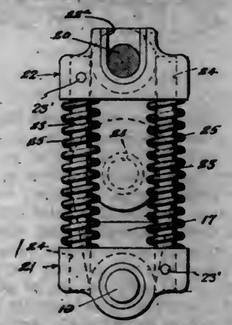
1. A compression joint for supporting the weight of one part to be joined upon another including a pair of flexible but inelastic straps secured at opposite ends to parts to be joined, and an elastic block held under compression between the intermediate portions of the straps and yieldable to permit flexing of the straps upon relative movement of the parts.

1,749,312. DISPENSING GUN FOR DECARBONIZING LIQUIDS. MARK L. BLAIR, Flint, Mich., assignor to A C Spark Plug Company, Flint, Mich., a Company of Michigan. Filed Apr. 30, 1928. Serial No. 273,946. 21 Claims. (Cl. 123—198.)



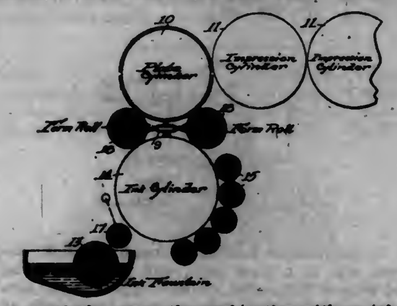
1. In a hand device for injecting a measured charge of decarbonizing fluid into an engine cylinder, a fluid container a metering chamber associated therewith, a valve controlling communication between the chamber and container, pressure means for forcing the contents out of the chamber when said valve is closed, a check valve between the chamber and pressure means and a discharge conduit leading from the chamber, having at its end a diffuser for spreading the discharged fluid in different directions.

1,749,313. SANITARY NURSING-BOTTLE CAP. ROY BURTCHAELL, Newark, N. J. Filed Jan. 8, 1929. Serial No. 331,117. 4 Claims. (Cl. 215—11.)



1. In combination with a nursing bottle having a bead on the bottle neck adjacent its mouth and a nipple fitting on the neck over said bead; a cap for protecting the nipple having; a one-piece part for enclosing the projecting part of the nipple, and also having an annular base portion terminating in an integral annular stiffening flange around the neck of the bottle below said bead, said base portion at its junction with said nipple enclosing part resting against said bead, forming with the nipple at that point a seal, and means on said base portion for securely holding the cap in position to maintain said seal.

1,749,314. CASTING APPARATUS. SAM H. CARBIS, Tarentum, Pa. Filed Jan. 27, 1928. Serial No. 249,807. 5 Claims. (Cl. 22—121.)

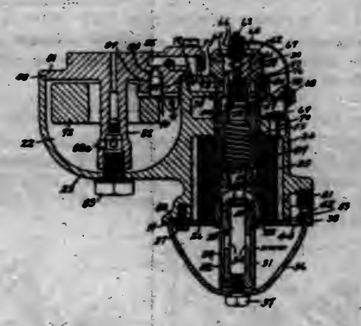


3. A mold for casting duplex ingots comprising in combination, suction means for holding coating plates against the inner walls of the mold, and means for releasing said suction from selected portions of said plates as desired.

1,749,315. TORQUE CUSHIONING MECHANISM. GEORGE C. CARHART, Syracuse, N. Y., assignor to The Brown-Lipe Gear Company, Syracuse, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Feb. 26, 1924. Serial No. 695,359. 20 Claims. (Cl. 64—36.)

1. The combination of shafts, a torque cushioning mechanism connecting the shafts comprising opposing crank members mounted on the shafts, an eccentric pin carried by each crank member, the pins of said crank members being normally carried substantially diametrically opposite each other and a yielding connecting rod element between said eccentric pins, said element being arranged to yieldingly shorten upon relative movement of the shafts carrying the pins out of diametrically opposite relation.

1,749,316. MEANS FOR PRESERVING FORM ROLLS. JOSEPH P. CATLIN, Plainfield, N. J., assignor to Wood Newspaper Machinery Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Sept. 10, 1923. Serial No. 661,926. 3 Claims. (Cl. 101—350.)

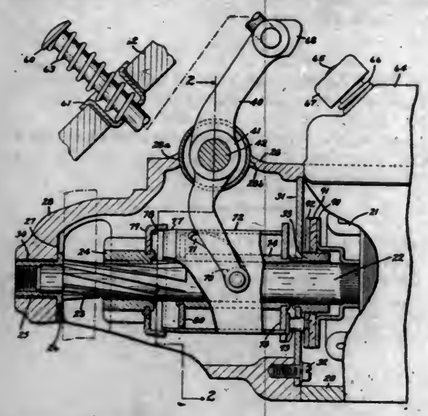


1. In a printing press, the combination with an ink cylinder, plate cylinder and two form rolls contacting with both and enclosing a space closed except at the ends, of a cooling pipe extending along said space and perforated along four sides to direct jets of cooling fluid against all four of said rolls and cylinders.

1,749,317. COMPOUND FOR CLEANING. CHARLES G. CHEVALIER, Baltimore, Md. Filed May 5, 1928. Serial No. 275,562. 3 Claims. (Cl. 51—280.)

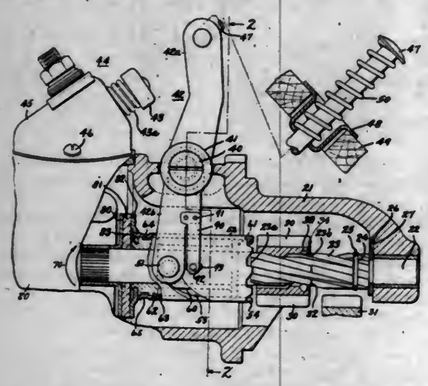
1. An oil removing and surface polishing compound consisting of a finely divided oil absorbent material to which has been added diatomaceous earth.

1,749,318. LIQUID-SUPPLY APPARATUS. WILLIAM A. CHRYST and HERBERT C. WALTERS, Dayton, Ohio, assignors, by mesne assignments, to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 25, 1925. Serial No. 46,026. 6 Claims. (Cl. 103—53.)



1. A pump comprising, in combination, a magnetizable frame providing a magnet housing open at the lower end and having an inlet passage, a vertical tubular duct provided by the frame in vertical alignment with the magnet housing, an outlet duct connected with the vertical duct, a magnetizable plate closing the lower end of the magnet housing, a tubular-magnetizable core supported centrally by the plate and located within the housing, a non-magnetizable cylinder connected with the core and extending through the magnet housing, a pump piston within said cylinder, a pump outlet and circuit interrupter housing connecting the pump cylinder with the vertical tubular duct of the frame, a magnet within the magnet housing, and piston operated circuit interrupter mechanism within the circuit interrupter housing and in axial alignment with said pump piston.

1,749,319. ENGINE-STARTING APPARATUS. WILLIAM A. CHRYST, Dayton, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Nov. 19, 1926. Serial No. 149,499. 10 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



1. Engine starting apparatus comprising, a motor; means for connecting the motor with the gear of an engine to be started and including a pinion slidable into mesh with the engine gear and including provisions whereby the pinion will be automatically demeshed from the gear when the engine starts; and means for moving the pinion axially into engagement with the gear and for rotating the pinion in case of gear tooth abutment, said means including a driven friction clutch member provided by the pinion, a driving clutch member movable axially into engagement with the driven clutch member, a manually operable member movable longitudinally of the axis of the clutch members, and elements providing a pin-and-slot connection between the manually operable member and the driving clutch member, the slot being oblique to the axis of the clutch members.

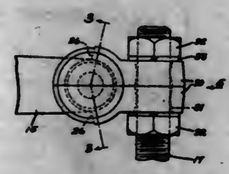
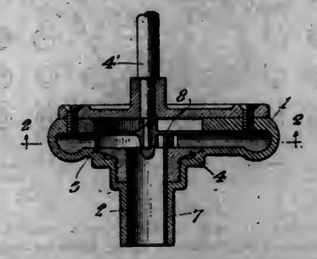
1,749,320. ENGINE STARTER. WILLIAM A. CHRYST, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Apr. 11, 1927, Serial No. 182,604. Renewed May 2, 1929. 11 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



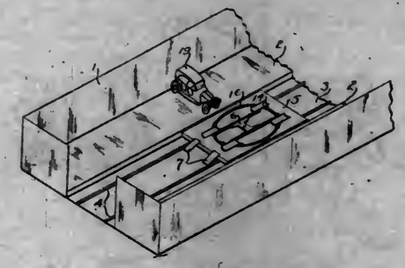
1. Engine starting apparatus comprising, in combination, a motor; a shaft operated by the motor; means for connecting the shaft with the gear of an engine to be started and including a pinion mounted on the shaft for longitudinal movement thereof and rotary movement therewith and provisions whereby the pinion will be automatically demeshed from the engine gear when the engine starts; means for shifting the pinion endwise into mesh with the engine gear and for rotating the pinion in case the pinion teeth collide with the engine gear teeth, said means including a sleeve element movable along the shaft and provided with a slot oblique to the shaft and a manually operable element carrying a pin movable longitudinally of the shaft and engaging the slot whereby the pin and sleeve element may move the pinion into mesh with the engine gear whereby the sleeve element may be rotated in case movement thereof is obstructed, said sleeve element and pinion having clutching means for imparting rotation to the pinion; and means tending to resist rotation of the sleeve element relative to the shaft, one of said elements (the manually operable element or the sleeve element) being provided with a projection extending toward the other element and normally received by a recess provided in the other element, and resilient means for retaining said projection in said recess.

1,749,321. ENGINE STARTER. WILLIAM A. CHRYST and GEORGE W. ELSEY, Dayton, Ohio, assignors to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 17, 1927. Serial No. 199,596. 27 Claims. (Cl. 74—7.)



1. Engine starting apparatus comprising, in combination, a motor; a shaft operated by the motor; means for connecting the shaft with the gear of an engine to be started and including a pinion mounted on the shaft for longitudinal movement thereof and rotary movement therewith and provisions whereby the pinion will be automatically demeshed from the exgine gear when the engine starts; means for shifting the pinion endwise into mesh with the engine gear and for rotating the pinion in case the pinion teeth collide with the engine gear teeth, said means including a sleeve movable along the shaft and provided with slot oblique to the shaft, and a pin movable longitudinally of the shaft and engaging the slot, whereby the pin and sleeve may move together to move the pinion into mesh with the engine gear and whereby the sleeve may be rotated in case movement thereof is obstructed, said sleeve and pinion having clutching means for imparting rotation to the pinion; a frame adjacent the sleeve; and means tending to resist rotation of the sleeve and comprising frictionally engageable parts one carried by the frame and the other connected with the sleeve.

1,749,322. UNIVERSAL JOINT. WILLIAM A. CHRYST, Dayton, Ohio, assignor, by mesne assignments, to Delco Products Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 16, 1928. Serial No. 293,168. 3 Claims. (Cl. 287—85.)

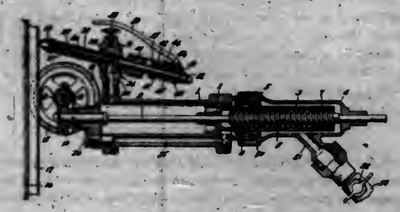


1. In combination, a swinging arm, a rigid link connected to said arm by a pivot joint, said joint comprising: opposed tapered transverse journals rigid with the arm end, a soft rubber bushing fitting snugly upon each of said tapered journals, two complementary half-housings together enclosing both of said journals and rubber bushings and confining said bushings under initial compression, said half-housings having aligned projecting ears having a hole extending through both ears, said link extending through said hole and having means thereon for rigidly clamping said half-housings together.

1,749,323. PUMP. EDWIN COWLES, Short Hills, N. J., assignor to Cowles Engineering Corporation, Sewaren, N. J., a Corporation of New Jersey. Filed Oct. 14, 1927. Serial No. 226,093. 3 Claims. (Cl. 103—111.)

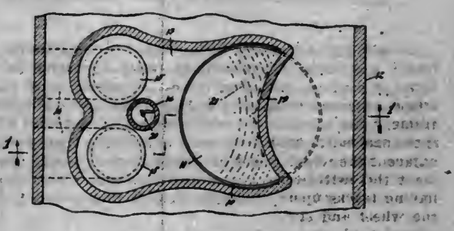
1. A pump comprising a casing having inlet and outlet openings, an impeller, and resilient means cooperating with said impeller to rub and cut by abrasive action fibrous material entering the pump through said inlet opening.

1,749,324. STORAGE AND HANDLING OF MOTOR VEHICLES. ROBERT CRAIG, Dayton, Ohio. Filed Aug. 1, 1924. Serial No. 729,524. 7 Claims. (Cl. 104—44.)



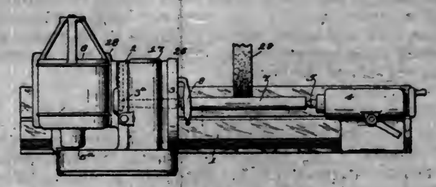
1. An apparatus of the class described, comprising in combination, means to transport a wheeled vehicle, and means to turn said vehicle while on said transporting means, said turning means comprising a turntable having a rotatable frame, a plurality of wheeled members fast to said frame and rotatable therewith, said wheeled members serving to support the vehicle wheels out of contact with said transporting means while said turntable is being rotated; said transporting means providing an unbroken upper surface upon which the wheels of the vehicle may roll while not on said wheeled members and upon which the wheels of said wheeled members may roll while the turning means is being turned.

1,749,325. WARNING SIGNAL. ROBERT M. CRITCHFIELD, Anderson, Ind., assignor to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 23, 1927. Serial No. 221,473. 4 Claims. (Cl. 177—7.)



2. A resonator disc for a sound signal comprising a sheet metal body having all but its peripheral edge portion under tension.

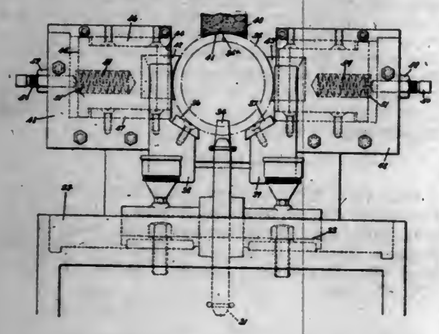
1,749,326. STRIPING TOOL. VINCENT M. DIRKES and GÉZA L. TERNA, Detroit, Mich., assignors to General Motors Research Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 6, 1928. Serial No. 304,304. 13 Claims. (Cl. 91—62.6.)



1. In a striping tool, a container for striping fluid, a movable partition element in the container, an inlet on one side of the partition thru which striping fluid enters upon movement of the partition in one direction, an outlet on the opposite side of the partition through which fluid is discharged upon such partition movement and a passageway connecting the inlet and outlet sides of the partition through which fluid flows upon movement of the partition in the opposite direction.

1,749,327. COMBUSTION CHAMBER. WILLIAM B. EARNSHAW, Dayton, Ohio, and ROBERT N. JANEWAY, Detroit, Mich., assignors to General Motors Research Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed May 31, 1927. Serial No. 195,422. 7 Claims. (Cl. 123—191.)

1. An internal combustion engine having a cylinder and reciprocating piston, a combustion chamber communicating with the cylinder, means to admit combustible mixture to the chamber and permit escape of products of combustion therefrom, and an ignition device providing a point of ignition disposed at one side of the center of volume of the chamber; the wall of said chamber at the other side of the center of volume having a re-entrant baffling surface projecting toward the point of ignition.



1,749,328. DEAD-CENTER GRINDER. SOL EINSTEIN and ALBERT TURNER, Cincinnati, Ohio, assignors, by mesne assignments, to Cincinnati Grinders Incorporated, Cincinnati, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Jan. 19, 1924. Serial No. 687,252. 9 Claims. (Cl. 51—95.)

1. A lathe or grinding machine embodying, in combination, a suitable bed, a work-rotating member suitably supported on said bed, a member for directly connecting the work piece with the work rotating member, a dead work-centering means supported in coaxial relation with said work-rotating member, an electric motor having a pair of bearings supporting its rotating parts on said bed, said bearings being disposed transversely of the work centers on opposite sides thereof and substantially symmetrical thereto, and means for rotating the work from said electric motor, whereby vibrations from the said motor will be caused to act upon the work longitudinally and the effect thereof on the work will be substantially neutralized.

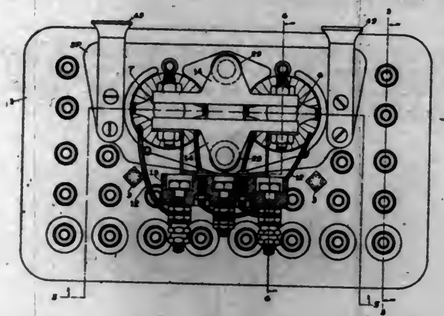
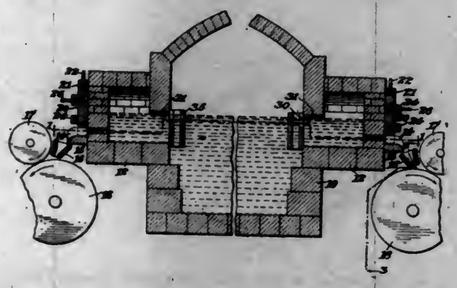
1,749,329. GRINDING APPARATUS. RODGER J. EMMERT, Anderson, Ind., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Sept. 14, 1925. Serial No. 56,188. 8 Claims. (Cl. 51—74.)

5. Grinding apparatus comprising in combination a frame, a grinding wheel non-adjustably supported on the frame, a conveyor including means for moving work pieces into engagement with the grinding wheel, and a guide way adjacent the wheel to hold the work pieces in proper alignment therewith, said guide way comprising spaced blocks having tracks upon which the work pieces are slid toward the wheel and spring loaded members adapted to engage the work pieces and maintain them in proper engagement with the tracks.



1,749,330. NO-BASTE CLAMP. ERIK KRISTIANSEN ENGH, Minneapolis, Minn. Filed Apr. 9, 1929. Serial No. 353,785. 5 Claims. (Cl. 17—1.)

1. A device for closing an incision in a stuffed fowl, comprising a plate body designed to overlie the incision, fixed members carried by the plate for engaging the body of the fowl, and means shiftable relative to the plate and adapted to be secured thereto for engaging and drawing upon the skin of the fowl.



1,749,331. POLAR NEUTRAL RELAY. OSCAR S. FIELD, Rochester, N. Y., assignor to General Railway Signal Company, Rochester, N. Y. Filed Sept. 12, 1928. Serial No. 305,408. 12 Claims. (Cl. 175—339.)

12. In a relay, in combination, spaced electromagnets having spaced pole shoes, adjacent spaced permanent magnets, a back yoke connecting together one end of each magnet, a magnetic bracket connecting together the other ends of said permanent magnets, a pivoted neutral armature positioned to contact with the faces of said pole shoes on energization of said electromagnets, and a pivoted neutral armature positioned to swing sidewise between the inner sides of said pole shoes and between said magnetic bracket and said neutral armature.

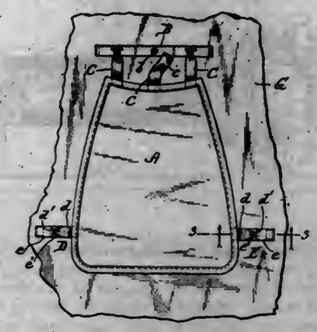
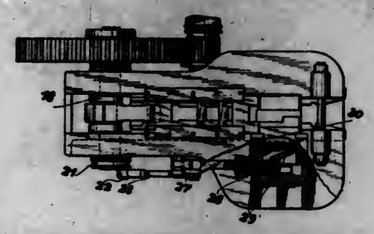
1,749,332. APPARATUS FOR FORMING SHEET GLASS. NICKLAS FRANZEN, Long Beach, Calif., assignor to Mississippi Glass Company, a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 7, 1926. Serial No. 100,214. 2 Claims. (Cl. 49—3.)



2. In a glass melting and sheet forming apparatus, in combination, a melting furnace, outports in the walls of said furnace below the normal levels of molten glass therein, a baffle in the path of flow of glass from the furnace to said ports having an open end trough extending from a point on the side away from said port and below the normal levels of molten glass therein, an opening on the port side of the said baffle at a point within said levels of molten glass in said furnace, a plurality of troughs communicating with said ports, a longitudinal funnel for receiving molten glass from the said plurality of troughs and having its lower and outgoing opening of dimensions approximating the cross sectional dimensions of the sheet glass to be made and forming means for receiving the stream of molten glass from the said funnel.

1,749,333. SANITARY WAIST GARMENT. ANNETTE FRIDOLPH, New York, N. Y., assignor to A. B. A. Specialties Company, Inc., New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Dec. 24, 1927. Serial No. 242,419. 4 Claims. (Cl. 128—287.)



1. A sanitary and shadow proof garment comprising an apron composed of moisture resistant material, a band separate from said apron, said band being attachable to an outer garment upon the interior thereof and positioned in a spaced relation to the upper margin of said apron, said band having a plurality of apertures, a plurality of straps fixed to the apron and extending upwardly therefrom, each strap having a stiffened tab insertible into an aperture of said band, a plurality of corner straps fixed to the apron substantially at the lower corner portions thereof and extending outwardly, each of said straps having a stiffened tab, and straps attachable to an outer garment and provided with apertures adapted for the reception of the tabs on said corner straps, said band and the specified series of straps cooperating with said apron for retaining the same in a spread condition upon the interior of an outer garment.

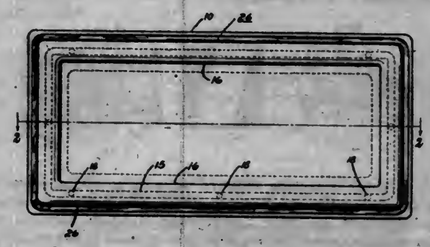
1,749,334. FORGING MACHINE AND THE LIKE. OTTO GEORG, Dusseldorf, Germany. Filed Sept. 30, 1926, Serial No. 138,634, and in Germany Aug. 5, 1925. 3 Claims. (Cl. 78—17.)

1. In means for operating the heading and die clamping dies of a forging machine, a heading die, a clamping die, a crank shaft having a main crank and an auxiliary crank set at an angle of at least 45° ahead of the main crank, the said main crank being coupled to the heading die for operating the same, and a three-fold toggle lever mechanism connecting the auxiliary crank and the clamping die and coacting with said auxiliary crank on each cycle of action of the machine to start the closing of the clamping die before the heading die has started its heading stroke and to complete the closing of the clamping die before the heading die has completed the first quarter of its heading stroke and to hold it closed during the remainder of such stroke.



1,749,335. NONMETALLIC SHACKLE FOR CANTILEVER-SPRING SUSPENSIONS. HARVEY D. GEYER, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Inland Manufacturing Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Dec. 14, 1926. Serial No. 154,810. 5 Claims. (Cl. 267—30.)

1. In combination with a cantilever spring and rear axle of a motor vehicle, a shackle comprising: a metal housing fixed to said spring, a molded elastic rubber element partially confined by said housing and sustaining the weight load by compression and having a flexible fabric link molded thereupon, said link being fixed at its fore and aft portions rigid with said axle, and means for securing the intermediate portion of said link to said spring.

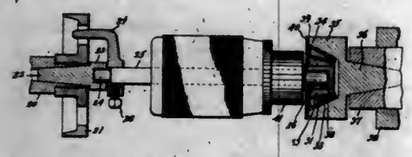
1,749,336. REFRIGERATOR DOOR OF MOLDED ASPHALT COMPOSITION. HARVEY D. GEYER, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Inland Manufacturing Company, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Mar. 9, 1927. Serial No. 174,085. 4 Claims. (Cl. 20—35.)

1. As an article of manufacture, a heat insulating door for refrigerator cabinet, comprising: a relatively thick section panel frame and a relatively thin panel integrally molded of a heat insulating bituminous composition comprising hard asphalt, a flux of lower melting point, asbestos fiber and an inert filler to form an interior recess of substantial depth, an inner metal lining secured to the inner surface of said frame to thereby form a closure for said interior recess, and heat insulating material filling said recess.

1,749,337. WATER-COOLER CABINET. HARVEY D. GEYER, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to The Inland Manufacturing Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Aug. 29, 1927. Serial No. 216,115. 6 Claims. (Cl. 220—9.)



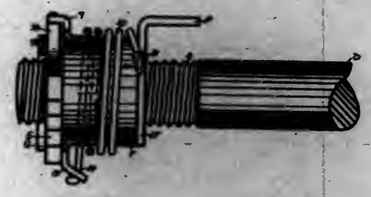
1. In a water cooler, a metal water tank having an open top, separate molded panels enclosing said tank and forming a cabinet surrounding and supporting said tank, said molded panels having thickened margins mutually abutting each other and the corners of said tank, heat insulating material filling the space between the panel walls and tank walls, and a removable heat insulating top having a flange resting upon the top edges of the side panels.

1,749,338. WIND SCREEN FOR AIRPLANE PLATFORMS. RICHARD GIBBONS, Brooklyn, N. Y., assignor to Mary A. Kenney, Brooklyn, N. Y. Filed Aug. 13, 1927. Serial No. 212,669. 1 Claim. (Cl. 244—2.)

In combination, an aerial platform wherein the interior upper surface of the platform serves as a runway for receiving aerial vehicles, a wind screen running along one or more of the borders of said runway, and means whereby said screen may be adjusted to one position in which it shields the space above said platform and to another position in which it leaves said space clear.

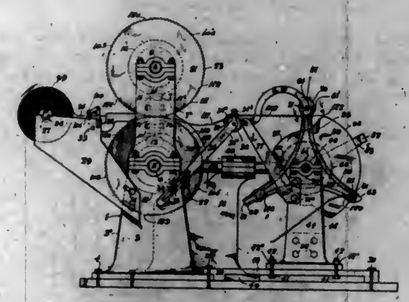
1,749,339. SHAFT-CENTERING SUPPORT. LOUIS C. GOAD, Anderson, Ind., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 9, 1926. Serial No. 121,471. 3 Claims. (Cl. 82—33.)

1. A shaft centering support for a lathe stock, comprising in combination, a bearing outer-race member; a bearing inner-race member; anti-friction members between the race members, the bearing surfaces of said members being so shaped that axial movement of one race member relative to the other tends to align the axes of the race members; means for supporting one race member coaxially with the lathe stock; and means provided coaxially of the other race member for receiving a cylindrical body, a cylindrical surface of which is to be supported concentric to the axis of the lathe stock.



1,749,340. HEAD COVERING OR TURBAN. ALEXANDRE M. GREAN, New York, N. Y. Filed Aug. 15, 1929. Serial No. 386,023. 3 Claims. (Cl. 2—198.)

1. A head covering comprising a flexible fabric member having a central hood portion and oppositely extended tie strings, at least one of said tie strings having an opening therethrough directly adjacent one side of the hood portion, through which the other is passed, and said strings having a combined length beyond the hood portion greater than the circumference of said hood portion to permit them to be extended about the head of the wearer outside the hood portion and have their free end portions secured together.



1,749,341. ADJUSTING BOLT. DICK H. GROENEWOLD, Loyal, Okla. Filed Feb. 7, 1927. Serial No. 166,492. 4 Claims. (Cl. 85—32.)

1. A device of the class described comprising in combination, a threaded bolt, a nut threaded thereon, ratchet teeth arranged circumferentially of the nut at one end thereof, a sleeve surrounding the nut, a pawl carried by the sleeve at one end thereof for engagement with the ratchet teeth, a ring encircling the nut for disposition against the other end of the sleeve, a stop forming member carried by and extending laterally from the ring, a coil spring encircling the sleeve and being connected at its ends to the ring and the remote end of the sleeve respectively, and means disposed through the bolt to retain the nut thereon.

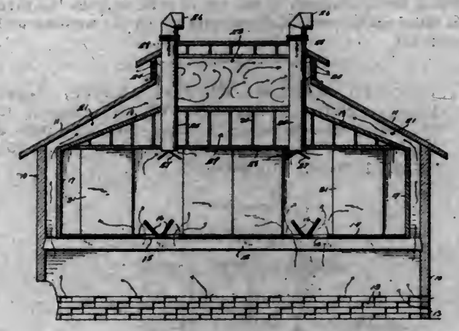
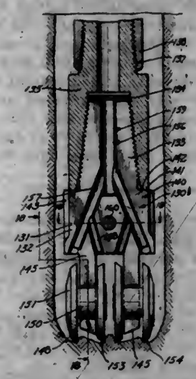
1,749,342. METHOD AND MACHINE FOR FORMING, BENDING, AND CUTTING OFF METAL STRIPS. MORRIS HAZEN, Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed May 25, 1927. Serial No. 194,061. 16 Claims. (Cl. 153—2.)



10. A machine for continuously forming radiator core sections, comprising a pair of corrugating members adapted to receive a strip of flat metal between them and having three integral cooperating die faces two of which are alike and one different whereby said strip is formed, die members, means for successively closing said die members, and means whereby said die members are normally held opened at pre-determined times.

14. The method of forming strips of sheet metal to produce the component elements of a radiator core which comprises the following steps performed upon a continuously-moving strip, namely, forming corrugations in said strips, then severing sections of equal lengths therefrom and simultaneously with said severing step, bending the adjacent severed end to a right angle to the longitudinal dimension of the strips.

1,749,343. COOLING OR REFRIGERATING STRUCTURE. EARL F. HESSH, McAllen, Tex. Filed Nov. 6, 1928. Serial No. 317,662. 5 Claims. (Cl. 98—32.)



1. A cooling structure having an insulating floor, an outer wall, an outer roof, an inner wall extending upward from the floor and spaced from the outer wall, an inner roof associated with the inner wall to thus provide an air circulating space between the outer and inner walls and the outer and inner roofs, a chamber into which said space opens having louvres, ventilators disposed in the floor and ventilating pipes extending up from the inner roof and extending exteriorly to the outer roof and having a damper.

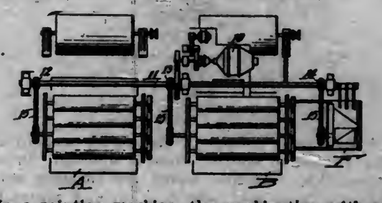
1,749,344. DISK BIT. FREDERIC W. HILD, Los Angeles, Calif. Filed Dec. 15, 1926. Serial No. 154,887. 16 Claims. (Cl. 255—71.)

1. A rotary disk bit comprising: a spool cutter; a support for carrying said spool cutter, said support comprising a pair of substantially alike support members arranged to cooperatively extend around a hub of said spool cutter; and means for securing said support members together.



1,749,345. CRANK-CASE VENTILATION. JOHN H. HUNT, Dayton, Ohio, assignor to General Motors Research Corporation, Detroit, Mich., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed June 30, 1926. Serial No. 119,668. 7 Claims. (Cl. 123—119.)

1. The combination of an engine having a crankcase, means for admitting air to the crankcase, a carburetor, an air cleaner connected to the carburetor arranged to clean the air supplied thereto, said cleaner comprising a casing having an open end, spirally arranged air directing blades in the open end of the casing, a dust discharge orifice at the other end of the casing, and a conduit communicating at one end with the crankcase and at the other end with the interior of the cleaner adjacent said blades so that the stream of air passing through the cleaner will exert an aspirating action on the conduit to entrain crankcase vapors and effect their cleaning prior to admission to the carburetor.

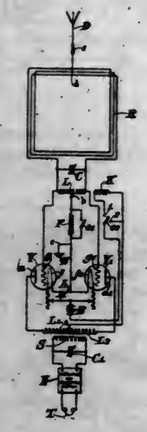
1,749,346. DRIVE FOR UNIT PRESSES AND FOLDERS. JOHN A. ISBELL, Plainfield, N. J., assignor to Wood Newspaper Machinery Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of Virginia. Filed Mar. 16, 1926. Serial No. 95,036. 3 Claims. (Cl. 270—8.)

1. In a printing machine, the combination with a plurality of printing units arranged end to end in alignment and a folding unit arranged at the end of the series, of a longitudinal main shaft, means for driving the main shaft, a series of driving wheels on the main shaft, a drive shaft for each of the several units, and means whereby each of the driving shafts of the several units and the folder can be driven from certain of said driving wheels, each of the last named means being individually capable of being disconnected.



1,749,347. MULTIPLE-HEAD SEALING MACHINE. MAX JAEGER, Long Island City, N. Y., assignor to Anchor Cap & Closure Corporation, Long Island City, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Apr. 17, 1922. Serial No. 553,899. 19 Claims. (Cl. 226—87.)

18. In a machine of the class described, a base frame, a rotating platform carried by the base frame, a plurality of tables stationary with respect to said platform, but movable in a vertical direction, a spinning frame rotatably mounted above the platform, spinning heads suspended by said spinning frame and means driven by the platform to effect rotation of the spinning frame and continuous rotation of the suspended spinning heads.

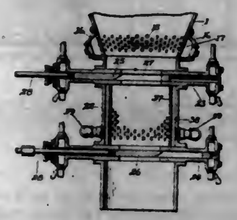
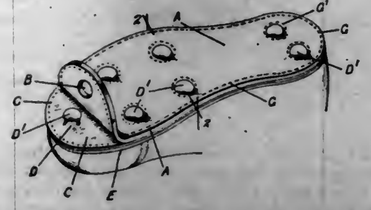
1,749,348. DIRECTIONAL RADIO SYSTEM. FREDERICK A. KOLSTER, Palo Alto, Calif., assignor to Federal Telegraph Company, San Francisco, Calif., a Corporation of California. Filed Nov. 18, 1926. Serial No. 149,047. 20 Claims. (Cl. 250—11.)



9. A directional radio receiving system comprising component absorbing systems having different directional characteristics, inductive means for effecting electrical symmetry between said component systems, means for indicating the magnitude of energy in at least one of the component systems, and means magnetically coupled to said inductive means for impressing energy of one of said component systems upon another during maintenance of symmetry between them.

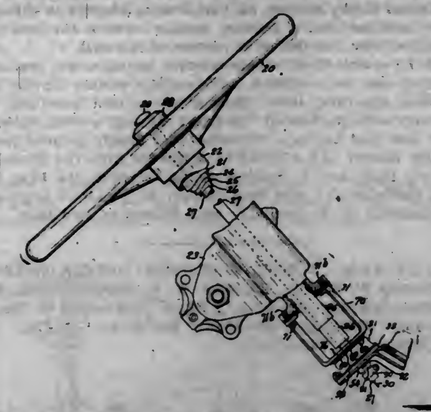
1,749,349. AUTOMATIC TAKE-OFF MOTION FOR WEAVING MACHINES. JONATHAN LUCAS, Savannah, Ga., assignor to Lucas-Lamborn Loom Corporation, New York, N. Y., a Corporation of New York. Filed Aug. 27, 1927. Serial No. 215,806. 6 Claims. (Cl. 139—107.)



1. In a weaving machine, the combination of a warp beam carrying a roll of warp yarn, an intermittently operated friction clutch for rotatively advancing said warp beam in successive steps, and a regulator controlled by said warp beam and operatively associated with said clutch for automatically adjusting said clutch to vary the rotation of the beam in accordance with the progressive decrease in the diameter of the roll of yarn whereby the yarn is taken off in successive amounts which are uniform and constant.

1,749,350. COAL-WASHING APPARATUS. JAMES ANTHONY MCQUAIL, Hiawatha, W. Va., assignor to The Jeffrey Manufacturing Company, Columbus, Ohio, a Corporation of Ohio. Filed Nov. 12, 1925. Serial No. 68,713. 1 Claim. (Cl. 209—155.)

In a coal washing apparatus, a liquid-containing tank wherein the coal is separated from intermixed refuse material, the coal being permitted to pass out of said tank and the refuse material being permitted to accumulate at the bottom thereof, a chamber with a perforate lateral wall disposed beneath the tank, a slide valve between the tank and chamber, the refuse material at the bottom of the tank being permitted to gravitate into said chamber when said valve is open, a slide valve at the bottom of said chamber to temporarily confine the refuse material therein, a solid wall surrounding the perforate wall of said chamber in spaced relation thereto to form a drain pocket, and a valve controlled exhaust opening at the bottom of said pocket, whereby, said slide valves being closed and a charge of refuse material being confined in said chamber, the latter may be drained by opening the valve at the exhaust opening without the loss of liquid from said tank.



1,749,351. BOOT OR SHOE. ALEXANDER MCQUEEN, Eastwood, Australia. Filed Aug. 23, 1928, Serial No. 301,566, and in Australia June 25, 1928. 4 Claims. (Cl. 36—30.)

1. A boot sole comprising an outer sole member having a plurality of apertures formed in it, a rubber insertion sheet and a plurality of studs integral with said insertion sheet and projecting respectively through the apertures in the outer sole member, said studs having heads overlying the material immediately surrounding the apertures.

1,749,352. ELECTRIC SWITCH. HARRY E. NORVIEL, Anderson, Ind., assignor to Delco-Remy Corporation, Dayton, Ohio, a Corporation of Delaware. Filed Oct. 31, 1927. Serial No. 229,868. 12 Claims. (Cl. 200—59.)

1. An electric switch adapted to be mounted at the lower end of a steering column and having an operating shaft adapted to be drivingly connected with a rod extending through the steering column, and having a case enclosing the operating shaft, and means for attaching the case to a steering column and adapted to permit oscillation of the case relative to the steering column as the shaft is turned by said rod.

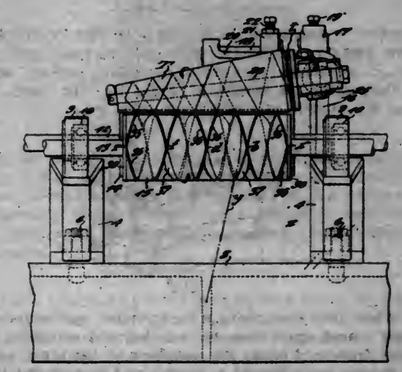
1,749,353. INSTRUMENT PANEL BOARD. JOHN R. PADESKY, La Crosse, Wis., assignor, by mesne assignments, to Moto Meter Gauge & Equipment Corporation, Long Island City, N. Y., a Corporation of Delaware. Filed July 28, 1928. Serial No. 295,947. 3 Claims. (Cl. 180—90.)



1. The method of manufacturing an instrument panel board which consists in cutting out of sheet metal a suitable blank; forming an aperture in said blank through which an instrument therebehind may be observed, said aperture being initially formed with an irregular contour and affording a projecting portion in the plane of said blank and extending inwardly from the periphery of said aperture; and then deflecting said projecting portion out of the plane of said blank and bending and stretching said portion to cause it to conform to the general shape of said aperture and to constitute a substantially perpendicular flange about a portion of said aperture.
